

Ray Says 'I'm Speechless'

By HUGH REYNOLDS

"For once in my life I'm speechless," said Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan upon hearing, unofficially from a Freeman reporter, that he had been elected by the largest majority in Kingston history.

2,605 Winner

Garraghan, the Democratic Conservative, crushed his opponent C. John Bechtold (Republican-Liberal) by 2,605 votes.

The mayor, first elected in 1965 by 374 votes, polled 7,220 to Bechtold's 4,615. The previous record was held by Edwin F. Radel, another Democratic mayor seeking a second term, who beat Addison Jones, the Republican, by 2,373 votes in 1959.

Garraghan was the subject of severe criticism from his opponent but often failed to respond. Bechtold attacked Garraghan on his city hall plans, assessments for Kingston Plaza, his veto of the 25-year retirement plan for city police and firemen and a variety of other things including urban renewal.

The mayor came out to fight only over the assessment of Kingston Plaza, holding a press conference in which Walter Donnaruma, an appraiser, defended the city.

Wins Every District

Said Garraghan, shortly before election, "I've done a good job. I'll stand on my record."

Judging from the results last night, the voters agreed with Garraghan. He won every district in every ward.

Garraghan took a beating in the Second Ward, Second District in '65, losing to Albert Kurdt by 146 votes. This year he carried that district 352-305. His second biggest defeat two years ago was the 11th Ward, First District which he lost by 116 votes. Last night he romped in that district, polling 664 votes to Bechtold's 455.

Garraghan also won handily in the two highest wards in the city in terms of voters, the Second and the 12th. He polled 1,108 in the Second Ward against Bechtold's 884 and 1,370 in the 12th against Bechtold's 889. All figures are unofficial.

The defeated candidate said he would return to private life but would maintain a keen interest in city affairs. Bechtold termed Garraghan's victory "the will of the people" and

The Judge: 'Victory Sweet' After 7,645 Win at Polls

It was the margin by which Judge Raymond J. Mino won that proved to be the surprising factor in this election, and no political observer can challenge the force of that margin.

With several county districts missing, the unofficial figures give Mino 25,161 to 17,522 votes for Democratic Conservative John J. Schick—an edge of 7,645 votes.

Also Takes City

Even more surprising was the fact that Judge Mino carried the City of Kingston with 6,480 to Schick's 5,317 — a plurality of 1,163.

Mino, who was contacted by The Freeman this morning, said "The victory is a sweet one. It once again demonstrates that the people of Ulster County have confidence in the Republican Party and the quality and fitness of their candidates."

The judge went on to say, "I wish to particularly thank my campaign managers, Lawrence Quilty and Joseph D. Saccoman, along with my loyal and faithful supporters. They deserve all the credit."

I also want to express my appreciation to my colleagues on the (Ulster County) Bar (Association) for their almost unanimous support of my candidacy, and I wish, of course, to thank the voters of Ulster County."

When asked if he felt, at any

Could Not Predict
Toward the very end of the campaign, many political figures could not decide on who the winner would be.

Both the Mino and Schick camps appeared confident on election eve.

Roger Mable of Esopus said as late as Saturday that "it (was) too close to make any forecasts."

A Democratic candidate said, "It will be as I thought it would be in the very beginning—a landslide for both Mino and Torracca and the entire Republican ticket."

Agree but Wrong Way

A well-known Republican figure, however, predicted that Schick would win the city by "about 1,000 votes"—thereby agreeing with Schick's own assessment—and then go on to win the election.

Others felt that Schick had to win big in the city if he ever hoped to win the race. Congressman Resnick believed that if Schick could not come out of the city by at least 2,000 votes "he (had) no chance" of taking the grand prize.

From the beginning Mino's campaign managers realized that the judge could not campaign as aggressively as they wanted him to because of the fact that he was committed to a session of the county court.

The burden of the campaign, then, rested on the backs of managers Quilty and Saccoman and the county organization.

To wage a battle for the county judgeship is a difficult one because the dignity of the post, along with a judicial code of ethics, prevents the kind of

Resnick on Senate

Would Run on Pro-LBJ Ticket

The surmise came in the summer. The supposition came today. Joe for senator? Could be.

Adding to the confusion of news announcements yesterday confirming Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick's seeking the U. S. senatorial seat now occupied by Jacob J. Javits, the Ellenville Democrat told The Freeman today, "I'll make my decision next Monday."

Tired of 'Banging'

Disturbed by the "dump America feeling," Resnick, who is said to have White House backing for the candidacy, stated, "I will run on a pro-Johnson, pro-American ticket. I am tired of having my country banded around by what I feel is a small minority."

Last August, Resnick announced he had decided not to run but said today that in view of the "banging" he has decided to re-examine his position.

The impending announcement, to be made at a press conference in New York City, is cause for all manner of theorizing as to why the congressman would attempt to oppose Javits who is a two-party favorite, upstate and downstate.

A veteran vote-getter, the incumbent Republican senator has been mentioned as a possible vice presidential contender in the past but since Gov. Rockefeller's name now figures prominently on the presidential scene, it seems improbable that two New York staters would run on the same national ticket. A mid-westerner like Charles Percy, or even a West Coast nominee seems more likely.

RFK Another Factor

Therefore it is fairly safe to assume Javits will remain on the senatorial scene and re-seek his post.

Columnist Drew Pearson lauds Resnick's intentions to run for the Senate against incumbent Jacob K. Javits... Story on Page 4.

Another factor to be considered is Democrat Robert F. Kennedy who has made no secret of his presidential ambitions. Some observers think that President Johnson's dwindling popularity makes the Democratic 1968 presidential nomination a possibility for Kennedy. If this were so and Kennedy vacated his senatorial post to seek the national nod, would this then not leave the road clearer for Resnick?

With yesterday's Republican rally across the country, perhaps a good indication of a GOP win next year, some speculators have already put Rockefeller in the White House. History tells us that most newly-elected presidents seek and get two terms therefore, if this were the case, would Kennedy want to wait to 1967 for a presidential try?

Resnick's impending candidacy is also cause for even more speculation on the home-front.

Republicans and Democrats alike would have to field candidates and from the looks of it, the field could be full of them, especially Republicans.

Hamilton Fish Jr., Dutchess County Republican who was defeated by Resnick in 1966, is said to be anxious for another try.

George Svirsky, Kingston civic leader, who is selling his Wall Street Pharmacy, is commonly known to have been interested in the candidacy for sometime. Svirsky has also been campaign manager for the GOP mayoral nominee, John Bechtold.

Charles Clay, Constitutional Convention delegate of Greene County, also included in the 28th Congressional District is spoken of as "interested."

S. James Matthews, Constitutional Convention delegate from Ulster County, one of the GOP's brighter young lights, is always mentioned when something of import looms on the scene.

And Others

Then there are State Senator Jay Rolison Jr. and Alexander Aldrich.

The Democrats, who have not really had time to digest the situation and think in terms of a new nominee, have Poughkeepsie's former mayor, Horace Graham—a perennial favorite; Peter Rakoy of Woodstock, an assistant to the president of Rotron Inc., who has always enjoyed Resnick's favor and of course Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

In the heady aftermath of his huge personal triumph at the polls yesterday, the second-term mayor can never be discounted as a potential candidate.

Just yesterday Congressman Resnick said he didn't think that "President Johnson's position is as bad as the polls have it."

An ardent Johnson supporter ever since the congressman took office in Washington, Resnick has supported all of the president's proposals and has been adamant in backing his stand on the Vietnam War.

Charter Buried in County By 5-1; Statewide 3 to 1

Ulster County ran well ahead of the rest of the state yesterday in repudiating the remodeled constitution.

26,543 to 5,505

Local voters, questioning the wisdom of Question 1, spurned it by a 5 to 1 margin. Statewide the measure went down to defeat 3 to 1.

The unofficial tally for both the City of Kingston and the county indicates 5,505 approved the charter and 26,543 turned it down.

Expecting the measure's defeat, Constitution delegate H. Clark Bell said last night that he was never-the-less surprised and pleased by the tion. Bell repeatedly urged de-zeise of verdict. Prior to election of the charter.

In no instance did any of the 127 local election districts favor the constitution. The story was the same throughout the state with the proposal buried under an avalanche of "no" votes in every county and crushed by a margin exceeding 1.5 million votes.

Surprisingly, New York City too, ran almost 2 to 1 in denouncing the Democratic-drawn Constitution with 1,103,034 no votes and 638,352 yes ballots.

Locally the 5-1 margin of defeat carried in both the city and county with 10,820 city voters saying no and 2,472, yes. In the county, 15,723 votes went against and 3,033 favored it.

The controversial repealing of the Elaine Amendment, part of the constitution package favored by the Catholic Church, apparently had little total effect on the vote of Kingston's and the county's large Catholic population. The repeal would have lifted the ban on aid to church-operated schools.

Gov. Rockefeller and other top political figures agreed today to begin a salvage operation with post-mortem statements indicating they would single out the repeal of the Elaine Amendment and put it on the ballot in 1969.

The Republican governor, buoyed by voter approval of his $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, sought to take the lead in clearing up the constitution wreckage.

Stunning Travia Defeat

The medium for action will be the Legislature, and its leaders said they are willing to tackle the job.

The charter's rejection was a stunning defeat for Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, the most powerful Democrat in state government. Travia had cracked the whip over the Democratic-controlled convention that gave birth to a $10-million dollar baby in five and one-half months.

"I believed in it, but the people have spoken and I accept the verdict," a wearied Travia told newsmen.

Also seeking solace are two other top-ranking Democrats who backed Travia and now join him in defeat—Senator Robert F. Kennedy and State Chairman John J. Burns.

Objected to Package

On the other hand, a superlative personal triumph surrounds Rockefeller for his transportation trophy.

Leaders of the GOP minority seeking the charter's defeat, without Rockefeller's approval, Sen. Earl Brydges and Assemblyman Perry B. Duryea Jr. expressed satisfaction with the vote. Primarily against the charter because of financial provisions written into it, they objected to its being submitted in one package.

Meritorious' Features

As a first step in reviving some of the charter's "meritorious" features, they said, action will be taken in the 1968 Legislature to put the Blaine-repeal question before the voters by itself.

Under the legislative process for altering the constitution, individual amendments may be submitted to the voters after approval by two separately elected Legislatures. Therefore, action in 1968 and 1969 could place measures on the 1969 ballot.

Gallo Winner by 849 For No. 2 City Post

By RAY W. TYSON

T. Robert Gallo, 30-year old Democratic candidate for alderman-at-large, yesterday defeated his Republican opponent, Louis J. Smith, by 849 votes.

Running behind the head of the ticket, Gallo outpolled his adversary 6,150 to 5,311. The polling was pretty much as expected.

'Worth the Effort'

Gallo jubilantly told The Freeman, "It's been a long hard campaign but certainly worth the effort. I look forward to a progressive two years for Kingston with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and a Democratic council."

"Some people have charged that Ray Garraghan and I have differences. Perhaps that is true, in the past. But in the future, the only thing we might disagree on is the best way to move Kingston forward," he concluded.

During the heat of battle Gallo had come under attack by Smith for alleged differences with the mayor. The former pharmaceutical salesman charged that particularly in the area of finances did the two men disagree. He claimed the present administration was not healthy and had said if elected he would devote his entire time to the office he sought.

Smith geared his campaign on the pitch that the people weren't being heard. He repeatedly said citizens lacked a voice in matters affecting community welfare.

Extensive Background

On the other hand Gallo, who despite his youth has an extensive background in public service, based his race on the thesis "... there is no substitute for experience." Over and over again the young Democrat was heard to say that his experience in the mayor's absence, could alone run Kingston.

The alderman-at-large, aside from presiding over the Common Council, acts as deputy mayor and serves in the mayor's absence.

Both men campaigned in a similar and familiar fashion, ringing doorbells and canvassing doorsteps. The personal touch they lent to the fight was reminiscent of another era.

This morning Smith said, "I'm sorry I lost but I want to thank the many people who gave their support to me. I also want to wish Bob Gallo all the luck in the world. It was a good campaign."

Four Years as Alderman

Gallo, who served four years as Ninth Ward Alderman and filled the unexpired term of alderman-at-large for Joseph J. Carroll, is employed as a sales representative for McDermott Food Brokers. He is a lifelong resident of Kingston.

The new alderman-at-large attended St. Joseph's School and graduated from Kingston High School. At Siena College, he studied accounting and economics.

While serving as alderman from the Ninth Ward, Gallo gained experience on the Common Council's laws and rules committee, reapportionment committee and building and supply committee. He is chairman of the finance ways and means committee.

Gallo and his wife, Nancy, a nurse at Kingston Hospital, are the parents of two sons, Shayne, 8, and Thomas, 7. They reside at 124 Andrew Street. Gallo will assume office Jan. 1, 1968.

Cleveland Chooses First Negro Mayor in Major City

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland Democrat Carl B. Stokes has become the first Negro elected mayor of a major American city, but Republicans claimed a pattern of victory and an omen for 1968 today in off-year elections which gave the GOP Kentucky's governorship and New Jersey's legislature.

Another Negro Democrat, Richard G. Hatcher, was elected mayor of Gary, Ind., while Louise Day Hicks' backslung campaign was rejected at the Boston polls.

Crucial Factor
In Gary as in Cleveland, the mathematics of race was the crucial factor. And the issue of Negro-white balance in the public schools was a key question in Boston, where Secretary of State Kevin H. White was elected mayor in a nonpartisan runoff.

Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss saw in the election returns evidence "that the upsurge in Republican strength which began in 1966 is continuing."

Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey said he discerned no trend at all.

Democrats reclaimed the mayor's office in Baltimore, and held Philadelphia's City Hall despite internal discord and a stern GOP challenge.

On the GOP balance sheet, the Kentucky victory of Louie B. Nunn, rated something of an upset, put Republicans in charge in 26 of the 50 U.S. governor's offices. The states in the GOP column now represent 304 electoral votes, 34 more than the number needed to elect a president in 1968.

In Tuesday's only other gubernatorial race, Rep. John Bell Williams, a Democrat, predictably triumphed in a Mississippi landslide.

Racial Issues
The off-year contests were scattered from New England to

San Francisco, marked in many spots by the racial issue, and touched Republicans said by the standing of President Johnson and by the war in Vietnam. Nunn, elected Kentucky's first Republican governor in 24 years, had aimed his campaign in large measure against Johnson and his war policies.

"Perhaps it's a victory for the people of America," Nunn said, "because I'm sure they're taking note at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue."

But in San Francisco, where the electorate had a chance to speak directly on the war issue, a ballot proposition urging a cease fire and U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam went down to resounding defeat. With 1,000 of 1,341 precincts counted, there were 96,140 votes against U.S. withdrawal from the Asian war, 55,061 in favor of the proposition.

Mayors were elected in scores of U.S. cities, but in many instances, shifts in party control of the office on one city were balanced by reverse switches in another.

Republicans took particular delight in one victory. The upset triumph of Ann Uccello, who ousted incumbent Democrat George B. Kinsella to become mayor of Hartford, Conn.—the home town of Democratic chairman Bailey.

Bliss pointed as well to New Jersey, where Republicans took firm command of a legislature now Democratic by a 2 to 1 margin. The state Democratic chairman said it appeared Republicans would have an edge of more than 3 to 1 in the Senate and nearly as much in the Assembly.

"The campaign in New Jersey was run on the national issue 'why wait until 68,' and the results are very significant," Bliss said.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., had said a Democratic victory would be deemed by the White House an endorsement of its Vietnam policy. Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes denied that claim and state analysts generally held the outcome to be the product of local and state issues.

"This is another victory from the bottom up," Bliss said, "upon which the resurgent strength of the party is based."

"The only thing that is clear," Bailey countered, "is that no particular national trend is discernible now."

Woodstock GOP Wins All Posts; Votes in Houst

A Republican landslide in the Town of Woodstock netted the GOP a clean sweep in moderate to heavy voting yesterday.

Bettering their opponents in most instances nearly 2 to 1, the Republican candidates won handily. Unofficial returns put the tabulations as follows:

Supervisor—Republican Milton Houst 1,457; Democrat William F. Sheehan 985.

Councilman—Republican Arthur MacDaniel 1,535; Democrat A. B. Hamilton 847.

Justice of the Peace—Republican Rudolf C. Baumgarten 1,535; Winifred Fallon 847.

Long Term Assessor—George W. Eichler defeated Democrat William Kronenberg.

Short Term Assessor—Republican Birge H. Simmons defeated Democrat Myron Kutchner.

The margin of victory for the GOP assessors could not be learned.

Woodstock GOP Wins All Posts; Votes in Houst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland Democrat Carl B. Stokes has become the first Negro elected mayor of a major American city, but Republicans claimed a pattern of victory and an omen for 1968 today in off-year elections which gave the GOP Kentucky's governorship and New Jersey's legislature.

Another Negro Democrat, Richard G. Hatcher, was elected mayor of Gary, Ind., while Louise Day Hicks' backslashing campaign was rejected at the Boston polls.

Crucial Factor
In Gary as in Cleveland, the mathematics of race was the crucial factor. And the issue of Negro-white balance in the public schools was a key question in Boston, where Secretary of State Kevin H. White was elected mayor in a nonpartisan run-off.

Republican National Chairman Ray C. Bliss saw in the election returns evidence "that the upsurge in Republican strength which began in 1966 is continuing."

Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey said he discerned no trend at all.

Democrats reclaimed the mayor's office in Baltimore, and held Philadelphia's City Hall despite internal discord and a stern GOP challenge.

On the GOP balance sheet, the Kentucky victory of Louie B. Nunn, rated something of an upset, put Republicans in charge in 26 of the 50 U.S. governor's offices. The states in the GOP column now represent 304 electoral votes, 34 more than the number needed to elect a president in 1968.

In Tuesday's only other gubernatorial race, Rep. John Bell Williams, a Democrat, predictably triumphed in a Mississippi landslide.

Racial Issues
The off-year contests were scattered from New England to

San Francisco, marked in many spots by the racial issue, and touched Republicans said by the standing of President Johnson and by the war in Vietnam.

Nunn, elected Kentucky's first Republican governor in 24 years, had aimed his campaign in large measure against Johnson and his war policies.

"Perhaps it's a victory for the people of America," Nunn said, "because I'm sure they're taking note at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue."

But in San Francisco, where the electorate had a chance to speak directly on the war issue, a ballot proposition urging a cease fire and U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam went down to resounding defeat. With 1,000 of 1,341 precincts counted, there were 96,140 votes against U.S. withdrawal from the Asian war.

Bliss pointed as well to New Jersey, where Republicans took firm command of a legislature now Democratic by a 2 to 1 margin. The state Democratic chairman said it appeared Republicans would have an edge of more than 3 to 1 in the Senate and nearly as much in the Assembly.

"The campaign in New Jersey was run on the national issue 'why wait until 68,' and the results are very significant," Bliss said.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., had said a Democratic victory would be deemed by the White House an endorsement of its Vietnam policy. Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes denied that claim and state analysts generally held the outcome to be the product of local and state issues.

"This is another victory from the bottom up," Bliss said, "upon which the resurgent strength of the party is based."

"The only thing that is clear," Bailey countered, "is that no particular national trend is discernible now."

DA Torraca Elated, Is Victor by 9,381

"I am elated for both myself and my staff, Joseph P. Torraca told The Freeman last night after unofficial returns indicated he had soundly beaten his Democratic opponent for district attorney of Ulster County.

Polls 22,269 Votes

Torraca was the incumbent DA, running on the Republican ticket. He beat David M. Barnovitz, the Democratic-Liberal, 22,269-12,888.

The second term district attorney who beat Herbert Weiss off in 1964, said he was grateful for the support shown him from both sides of the aisle.

When asked if at any time during the campaign he thought his challenger would win, Torraca said, "No. But whenever you run you take nothing for granted and you run scared. I've been running since I was elected in 1964 and I intend to work just as hard in the next three years as I have since I was elected."

Torraca's opponent, Barnovitz, ran with perhaps the greatest issue any Democrat ever had, the felony-conviction ratio which showed Ulster County to be last in the state in convictions of persons charged with felonies.

Barnovitz in defeat congratulated his opponent and wished him the best of success. Said the young Kingston attorney, "I am hopeful and convinced that anything that has been said during the campaign will not detract from the efficiency of our law enforcement agencies."

GOP Year: Barnovitz

When asked why he felt he was beaten Barnovitz told The Freeman, "let's face it. It was a Republican year. The results are overwhelmingly in favor of the four Republican county candidates (Mino, Torraca, Chipp and DuBois). A lot of people were not simply voting against us but against Democrats in general."

Torraca beat Barnovitz 6,183-

JOSEPH P. TORRACA

4,778 in Kingston. Seasoned political observers have maintained that in order for a Democrat to win on the county level in Ulster he must carry Kingston.

Torraca told The Freeman that he felt the state would pass on a bill requiring a full-time district attorneys.

The 'Two Hatters'

Three Win One, Williams Dumped

Of the four candidates who chose to wear "two hats" in yesterday's legislator-supervisor races, only three topped one post each (for supervisor) and the fourth, Saugerties Republican Peter Williams came up hatless.

One other GOP leader, Gerard De Felice of Rosendale lost his bid for the legislator post but won out over his longtime political enemy Mayor Joseph Reid of the Village of Rosendale as supervisor.

Democrats George Barthel of Wawarsing and George Majestic of Gardiner, who also threw two hats into the ring, will continue as supervisors on the town level but will no longer represent their districts on the county level. For Majestic, who previously sought the state senatorship, it was a giant step backward.

The surprise element in Williams' defeat also carried over to the Hurley supervisory race in which Charles Relyea lost to his opponent, Democrat Robert Schneller by an unofficial 59 votes.

Of leadership caliber, both Relyea and Williams have served the county as chairmen of the board, Relyea having resigned only this summer.

Williams, who had completed nine two-year terms on the county board, served as its chairman in 1964 and as minority leader in 1962.

Dual Trouble

Seeking dual seats is thought to be responsible for the defeat of all four.

As tell-tale returns filtered in last night, many observers opined that today's voter is too sophisticated to accept such a political maneuver. Many felt that if any of the office seekers had won both posts they would have given up the lesser supervisory slot, assumed the legislator title and then with their own

of their own party choice to fill out the supervisory term until the next general election.

In Saugerties, the four legislator posts went to two Republicans, C. Freeman Lasher and Clifford Snyder and two Democrats, Paul M. Brazier and Richard F. Thornton.

Barthel lost to three new legislators, all Republicans, Frank Muller, Robert H. Kuhlmann and Lawrence D. Craft.

Majestic too, gave up his seat to Republicans: Peter Savago, former supervisor of New Paltz and newly-elected chairman of the board and Robert L. Harp, a law attorney.

County Rejects Transit Bond, Resounding Triumph in State

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Although state-wide returns show a resounding triumph for Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's $2.5 million transportation bond issue, Ulster County registered definite disapproval. In voting down the job development and ski center amendments, county voters followed the state trend, however.

Unofficial local totals on the transportation bond issue stand at 26,109 no's to 11,873 affirmative with 121 of 127 districts reporting.

Voters across the state rejected the two amendments to the constitution. In Ulster County, unofficial tallies showed 17,521 opposed to the job development measure with 7,038 in favor.

The Blue Ridge Ski Center proposal was rejected even more resoundingly by local voters. Totals to date are 19,345 against and only 5,329 in favor.

Prior to presentation to the electorate, the proposition and two amendments had received much consideration from politicians and developers alike.

The crying need for transportation aid in urban areas of New York State was cited. Proponents of the history-making bond issue considered it a necessity to the economic development of the entire state.

700,000 State Margin

The Associated Press sees vote: approval of the transportation bond as an "impressive personal triumph" for the governor. It passed state-wide by a margin of more than 700,000 votes. Rockefeller campaigned vigorously for the past nine months for passage of the bond.

Election Day balloting gave him a go-ahead on his grand design, under which bond sale proceeds will be used to provide $1.25 billion for highway construction, $1 billion for mass transit expansion and improvements and $250 million for airport development.

While the governor now has approval to sell bonds, the Legislature still holds the final say on authorizing individual projects he proposes.

Implementing the program is one of the tasks expected to keep the lawmakers in session for at least six months, beginning next January.

Rejection of the two amendments apparently was tied to the overwhelming defeat of the proposed State Constitution. The measures, labeled Amendment 1 and Amendment 2 preceded the question on the modeled charter on the ballot and followed the $2.5 - billion transportation bond issue, which gained approval.

The first amendment would have permitted the Job Development Authority to increase its state-guaranteed borrowing power from $50 million to $200 million.

Voters in New York City approved the measure by a 3 to 2 margin but it was beaten Upstate by a 3 to 2 count, with nearly complete returns indicating a 150,000-vote defeat.

The second amendment would have permitted the state to build a ski center in the Hoffman Mountain section of the Adirondacks near Schroon Lake.

Other Statistics
Voters in both New York City and Upstate rejected the measure by about a 12-to-5 margin. The job development proposal was favored by Rockefeller and many other political leaders. The additional money would have been used for the authority's loan program to businesses in the state.

The loans are repaid by the businesses and proponents argued that the additional borrowing power would not cost the state any money.

The primary purpose of the authority is to encourage businesses to remain or locate in the state, thus saving jobs and adding to employment.

The ski center amendment would have allowed the state to breach its "forever wild" concept in the Adirondacks to construct he trails and facilities for skiers. The state now operates three ski centers.

Operators of private ski areas opposed the amendment vigorously on the ground that state-operated centers offer unfair competition to private centers.

Predominately Republican Greene County witnessed several upsets in Tuesday's election.

In the Town of Hunter, incumbent Republican supervisor John Fromer lost to Democrat Earl Schoonmaker by 15 votes. It was a clear victory for the Democrats who took every town post.

In another close contest in Cairo, incumbent Democratic supervisor Angelo Cannasqueaked back into office by nine votes over Howard Miller

McCarthy Sounding Opposition to Viet War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., takes soundings in four key states this weekend to plumb the depth of Democratic party opposition to President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

In connection with scheduled speeches in St. Paul, Minn., on Thursday, Ann Arbor, Mich., on Friday, Boston on Saturday and Chicago on Sunday, McCarthy said he plans talks with party leaders to learn the extent of anti-Johnson sentiment in their areas.

McCarthy, who has said he believes there is widespread Democratic discontent with Johnson's war policies, indicates his findings on the weekend tour may help him decide whether to oppose the President in some 1968 presidential primaries.

The Minnesota senator, whose name was one Johnson mentioned in 1964 to conceal for a time his choice of Hubert H. Humphrey as his vice presidential runningmate, denied in an interview Tuesday that he and the President have reached a political parting of the ways.

"You don't reach a point of no return in politics," McCarthy said. "The question here is not one of personalities but of issues. It is better to have the party openly divided on such issues as Vietnam than to try to cover up the division by a false front of unity."

He said Johnson's attacks on his Democratic war critics have not contributed to party discussion of the issues.

"The President has had experience in handling cattle," he said. "You start them slowly and then stampeded them. He doesn't understand that that same psychology can't be applied to people."

McCarthy said if he reads the signs as favorable he might enter four or five primaries as Johnson's opponent. Presumably he could get his name on the April 30 Massachusetts and June 11 Illinois ballots.

If he keeps on talking like a candidate he might also be entered in the New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oregon primaries, where officials select candidates to be put on the ballot.

McCarthy said he won't be worrying about finances if he decides to put on primary campaigns. He noted his expenses will be paid in connection with his speeches on this weekend's tour.

And he predicted Democrats who aren't contributing to the regular party organization because they oppose Johnson's Vietnam policies could be expected to chip in. He noted the regular party organization in California is being cramped for funds in this connection.

DA Torraca Elated, Is Victor by 9,381

"I am elated for both myself and my staff, Joseph P. Torraca told The Freeman last night after unofficial returns indicated he had soundly beaten his Democratic opponent for district attorney of Ulster County.

Polls 22,269 Votes
Torraca was the incumbent DA, running on the Republican ticket. He beat David M. Barnovitz, the Democratic-Liberal, 22,269-12,888.

The second term district attorney who beat Herbert Weiss, off in 1964, said he was grateful for the support shown him from both sides of the aisle.

When asked if at any time during the campaign he thought his challenger would win, Torraca said, "No. But whenever you run you take nothing for granted and you run scared. I've been running since I was elected in 1964 and I intend to work just as hard in the next three years as I have since I was elected."

Torraca's opponent, Barnovitz, ran with perhaps the greatest issue any Democrat ever had, the felony-conviction ratio which showed Ulster County to be last in the state in convictions of persons charged with felonies.

Barnovitz in defeat congratulated his opponent and wished him the best of success. Said the young Kingston attorney, "I am hopeful and convinced that anything that has been said during the campaign will not detract from the efficiency of our law enforcement agencies."

GOP Year: Barnovitz

When asked why he felt he was beaten Barnovitz told The Freeman, "let's face it. It was a Republican year. The results are overwhelmingly in favor of the four Republican county candidates (Mino, Torraca, Chipp and DuBois). A lot of people were not simply voting against us but against Democrats in general."

Torraca beat Barnovitz 6,183-

County Rejects Transit Bond, Resounding Triumph in State

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Although state-wide returns show a resounding triumph for Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's $2.5 million transportation bond issue, Ulster County registered definite disapproval. In voting down the job development and ski center amendments, county voters followed the state trend, however.

Unofficial local totals on the transportation bond issue stand at 26,109 no's to 11,873 affirmative with 121 of 127 districts reporting.

Voters across the state rejected the two amendments to the constitution. In Ulster County, unofficial tallies showed 17,521 opposed to the job development measure with 7,038 in favor.

The Blue Ridge Ski Center proposal was rejected even more resoundingly by local voters. Totals to date are 19,545 against and only 5,329 in favor.

Prior to presentation to the electorate, the proposition and two amendments had received much consideration from politicians and developers alike.

The crying need for transportation aid in urban areas of New York State was cited. Proponents of the history-making bond issue considered it a necessity to the economic development of the entire state.

700,000 State Margin
The Associated Press sees voter approval of the transportation bond as an "impressive personal triumph" for the governor. It passed state-wide by a margin of more than 700,000 votes. Rockefeller campaigned vigorously for the past nine months for passage of the bond.

Election Day balloting gave him a go-ahead on his grand design, under which bond sale proceeds will be used to provide $1.25 billion for highway construction, $1 billion for mass transit expansion and improvements and $250 million for airport development.

Returns from 12,606 of the state's 13,418 election districts showed 2,539,984 votes in support of the plan—Proposition No. 1 on the ballot—and 1,778,609 in opposition to it.

That gave the governor a clear track to undertake the largest state bond program in the history of the United States.

Rockefeller, who once prided himself on maintaining a "pay-as-you-go" policy that shunned bond-borrowing, had told voters that only a whopping bond issue could provide the money needed to cope with the state's transportation problems.

He carried that message to the Legislature, to business and labor organizations, and civic groups in visits to 37 of the state's 62 counties this year.

National Attention

His campaign gained national attention because he is listed by some recent polls as the strongest candidate the Republican party could send against President Johnson next year. Rockefeller has declared repeatedly that he is no longer interested in the presidency.

His efforts on behalf of the bond plan paid off most handsomely in New York City, where the electorate voted better than 2-1 to approve it.

Update, the proposal also gained voter assent, but by a narrower margin. In Syracuse and the rest of Onondaga County, that area's long-standing fiscal conservatism was reflected in rejection by a small margin.

On the other hand, commuter-conscious Westchester County, regarded as conservative in fiscal matters, delivered a strong vote for the program.

In Erie County, where the governor made a strong plea for support, voters approved the program, but there was a strong "no" vote.

While the governor now has approval to sell bonds, the Legislature still holds the final say on authorizing individual projects he proposes.

Implementing the program is one of the tasks expected to keep the lawmakers in session for at least six months, beginning next January.

Rejection of the two amendments apparently was tied to the overwhelming defeat of the proposed State Constitution.

The measures, labeled Amendment 1 and Amendment 2 preceded the question on the re-modeled charter on the ballot and followed the $2.5 - billion transportation bond issue, which gained approval.

The first amendment would have permitted the Job Development Authority to increase its state guaranteed borrowing power from $50 million to $200 million.

Voters in New York City approved the measure by a 3 to 2 margin but it was beaten Upstate by a 3 to 2 count, with nearly complete returns indicating a 150,000-vote defeat.

The second amendment would have permitted the state to build a ski center in the Hoffman

Mountain section of the Adirondacks near Schroon Lake.

Other Statistics

Voters in both New York City and upstate rejected the measure by about a 12-to-5 margin.

The job development proposal was favored by Rockefeller and many other political leaders. The additional money would have been used for the authority's loan program to businesses in the state.

The loans are repaid by the businesses and proponents argued that the additional borrowing power would not cost the state any money.

The primary purpose of the authority is to encourage businesses to remain or locate in the state, thus saving jobs and adding to employment.

The ski center amendment would have allowed the state to breach its "forever wild" concept in the Adirondacks to construct he trails and facilities for skiers. The state now operates three ski centers.

Operators of private ski areas opposed the amendment vigorously on the ground that state-operated centers offer unfair competition to private centers.

Greene County Democrats Win Upsets in 2 Towns

Predominately Republican Greene County witnessed several upsets in Tuesday's election.

The supervisor race in the Town of Catskill was won by Republican Arthur Weber who defeated George Eden, Democrat, by 600 votes.

Republican incumbent William H. Donahue, won 8,564 to 4,190, over Democratic candidate Vincent Murtha in the contest for county treasurer.

Figures reported by the county clerk were from 35 of the 41 districts in the county.

Three Win One, Williams Dumped

Of the four candidates who chose to wear "two hats" in yesterday's legislator-supervisor races, only three topped one post each (for supervisor) and the fourth, Saugerties Republican Peter Williams came up hatless.

One other GOP leader, Gerard De Felice of Rosendale lost his bid for the legislator post but won out over his longtime political enemy Mayor Joseph Reid of the Village of Rosendale as supervisor.

Democrats George Barthel of Wawarsing and George Majestic of Gardiner, who also threw two hats into the ring, will continue as supervisors on the town level but will no longer represent their districts on the county level. For Majestic, who previously sought the state senatorship, it was a giant step backward.

The surprise element in Williams' defeat also carried over to the Hurley supervisory races in which Charles Relyea lost to his opponent, Democrat Robert Schneller by an unofficial 59 votes.

Of leadership caliber, both Relyea and Williams have served the county as chairmen of the board, Relyea having resigned only this summer.

Williams, who had completed nine two-year terms on the county board, served as its chairman in 1964 and as minority leader in 1962.

Dual Trouble

Seeking dual seats is thought to be responsible for the defeat of all four.

As tell-tale returns filtered in last night, many observers opined that today's voter is too sophisticated to accept such a political maneuver. Many felt that if any of the office seekers had won both posts they would have given up the lesser supervisory slot, assumed the legislator title and then with their own

of their own party choice to fill out the supervisor term until the next general election.

In Saugerties, the four legislator posts went to two Republicans, C. Freeman Lasher and Clifford Snyder and two Democrats, Paul M. Brazier and Richard F. Thornton.

Barthel lost to three new legislators, all Republicans, Frank Muller, Robert H. Kuhlmann and Lawrence D. Craft.

Majestic too, gave up his seat to Republicans: Peter Savago, former supervisor of New Paltz and newly-elected chairman of the board and Robert L. Harp, a law attorney.

Visit Your School

It is probably safe to say that many mothers and most fathers seldom, if ever, drop around to see what kind of school their children are attending. They just sort of trust to luck that everything is fine.

Sometimes, this reflects blind faith in the school authorities and the community. More often, though, it indicates laziness, indifference or preoccupation with what seems to be more important things.

Next to the home itself, the school is supposed to be the great mold of our youth. Yet how many parents really know anything significant about the methods of teaching being used, or what at any given time are the subjects of instruction.

This is American Education Week and parents and other interested citizens are urged to visit the schools and receive a on-the-scene report on curriculum changes, new teaching methods and equipment and facilities.

Also to be gained by visiting the school is this:

The teacher, by seeing and knowing the parents, will be better fixed to assist a child's development. A youngster can't be understood in a human vacuum.

The mother and father will get a sensible grasp of their child's schooling environment—the nature and condition of the classroom, the techniques applied and the teachers' personality.

We live in a busy age. Probably we'd all say we spend a great deal of our time making a living. But most of us like to think, too, that somehow we're working together toward a better future, for ourselves and our children.

In this very earnest and admirable effort, let's not forget to fit our children so they can take full advantage of the opportunities we're trying to provide. The effort is misplaced if it leaves no time to see first hand how their educational growth is progressing.

Educators in the several school districts throughout Ulster County extend an invitation to all taxpayers to become better acquainted with the school system.

We all have a stake in the education program. Let's show our interest by visiting the schools.

Record Expansion Begins

The beginning of November marked the start of the 81st month of economic expansion in the United States. The last 80 months had equalled the longest previous recession-free period of expansion in history, set in the period from 1939 through 1945, before and during World War II.

In the 110 years for which economic records have been kept, the 1939-45 period and the most recent one of early 1961 to the present, are the longest continuous expansions. The two pauses in the current boom, from late 1962 and early 1963 and again the first half of this year, did not qualify as recessions. There was no decline in employment or in production, the two definite signs of recession.

Notable in the present expansion is the fact that the first two-thirds of the boom was generally free of inflation. Consumer prices rose an average of 1.3 per cent a year. The last third saw the escalation of the war in Vietnam and increased government spending that boosted the price increases to 3.1 per cent a year. That could threaten the boom.

In the nearly seven years of the expansion, Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said that more than 9 million persons had found productive and rewarding jobs; total consumer income after taxes were corrected for price increases rose 40 per cent; and overall output of goods and services, valued at constant prices, rose at an average rate of 5.2 per cent a year.

Tax reductions even when the budget was out of balance were the major innovations for keeping the expansion going. President Johnson's proposal to raise taxes now to cool the economy has found little favor in Congress, where emphasis instead has switched to reducing spending.

Frontal Pollution Attack

A way to reduce pollution by air, land and water at one fell swoop has been devised by New York City. It is worth studying by all communities with pollution problems, as if there were any not concerned.

The first combined attack will be made through a $110 million plant that would incinerate refuse, treat sewage and, in the process, generate enough steam to permit the retirement of a neighboring utility plant that has been a relatively heavy polluter of the air.

"It will be the first time the total environmental approach has been used anywhere in the world," says Samuel J. Kearing Jr., the city sanitation commissioner. However, auto gasses are not eliminated.

The plant will be located on 24 acres of the old Brooklyn Navy Yard. It will handle 50 million gallons of sewage and 5,000 tons of refuse a day, the estimated waste of 2.8 million people. (Smaller cities can get some idea of the cost of a combined plant for their population from this). The plant would cost $6 million a year to operate, but up to half this cost will be recovered from the utility buying the steam output.

Russians Have Never Achieved Freedom

WASHINGTON — Fifty years have passed since November 7, 1917, when the Bolshevik "revolution" emerged in Leningrad with the promise of a new life for the Russian people.

This week, the Communist party in Moscow is pointing with pride to its "achievements." But the truth is that during the last 50 years, the Russian people have never achieved freedom and have found themselves continuing in virtually the same enslavement they experienced under the czars. Individual rights have been brushed aside, and a totalitarian government has taken possession of almost everything.

This is contrary to what the revolutionary leaders originally declared was their purpose. It was, as Walter Laqueur, the noted British historian, has written, "to build a new society which, in every respect, was to be more just and freer than any previous one, which would abolish exploitation and oppression, and would restore human dignity and real democracy."

But the dreams of Lenin and Trotsky went unfulfilled. For, when Stalin came into power, the dictatorship was more absolute than under the monarchy. The real revolution occurred eight months before the Bolshevik takeover. Much to the surprise of the whole world, the Russian army itself joined the revolt and disposed of the Czar and all royalty. A Provisional government was democratically chosen early in 1917. An organized minority under Lenin, however, seized power in November and began indoctrinating the people with the philosophy of communism as a way of life.

Senator Strom Thurmond, Republican of South Carolina, who has made a searching study of the history of the revolution, said in a statement this week:

"Those who listen to Communist propagandists today forget that before the revolution 71 per cent of the cultivated lands were in small holdings of 135 acres or less. Before the revolution, peasants owned 82 per cent of the cattle, 86 per cent of the horses, and produced a grain surplus for export. For the period 1907-1913, the industrial growth rate exceeded the rates in the same period for the U.S., Great Britain, and Germany. In less than a decade, before the revolution, production had doubled."

"After 50 years of communism in the Soviet Union, the Soviet gross national product is only 45 per cent of that of the U. S. 333 billion dollars as against 739 billion. . . . The average weekly earnings for a worker in 1965-66 was 26 dollars, with millions subsisting on the so-called legal minimum of 10 dollars per week. Food takes 60 per cent of a worker's earnings in the USSR, as against 19 per cent in the U. S. But the most telling statistic of all is that 50 per cent of wage earners in the Soviet Union are women—proof that a man cannot support a family with his pay check alone."

"The human costs have been staggering. Hardly any family has not been touched by arrests for slave labor—a fact which leads us to believe that over 50 million people have served in the slave-labor camps. Even today, refugee information indicates that one million are still held."

The Soviet regime, he adds, is "celebrating 50 years of personal terror, with neighbor spying upon neighbor, husband upon wife, and son upon father." The organized spy corps operating in all neighborhoods today numbers six million. There are also 6,000 local schools training disseminators of domestic propaganda.

This propaganda is being used today to scare the people of the Soviet Union. They are being told that the United States is threatening to make war upon them. They are being deprived of a decent standard of living with the excuse that it is necessary to spend money for armament to ward off "aggression" by the United States.

The truth, of course, is being withheld from the Soviet people by a press which is carefully controlled. Facts such as the persistent effort of the United States to get a disarmament agreement, and America's continuing attempts to persuade the Kremlin to initiate peace negotiations to end the Vietnam war, are kept from the Soviet populace. The image being painted of the United States is that of an aggressor plotting to make war on the Russian people.

Individual freedom is still unrealized throughout the Soviet Union. One wonders what Moscow is really celebrating this week.

SAIGON, Vietnam — A Chinese named Wang Ching walked down Tu Do Street with me. The noon sun steamed the shops. "There are no facts," he said. "Make no plans." I looked back at the twin spires of the Catholic Cathedral, pointing to the sky like V for victory fingers. "I have explained Vietnam to you," he said.

I said I did not understand. He showed two gold teeth. "Now you have it," he said. The white sun hurt my eyes. In front of the National Assembly Building, Vietnamese sentries dozed. The street teemed with traffic. Pretty girls, wearing paneled dresses of blue and pink and orange, with white silk pants underneath, guided their Honda motorcycles between the U. S. Army trucks and jeeps.

We passed the Caravelle Hotel and went to the black market. It looked like three acres of corrugated tin. Everything from U. S. Army boots to American Kleenex was on sale. The merchants squat on the floor, squinting up at passing faces. They claim that the merchandise is stolen on the docks, and that the police own the black market.

The people do not understand honor or morals. In a good shop, the alien counts his change once more after it is in his palm. Young attractive girls with shiny black hair approached my friend, Wally Lehman, who is 71, and pressed their hands against the sides of their faces to make "sleep" motions to him. Other girls wait in the early morning bars for G.I.'s on leave.

At night, the sky is alight with 2,000,000 candle-power "chandeliers." These are dropped by Air Force pilots who receive radio reports of possible Viet Cong groups who hide in tall grass and fire mortar shells. To the north, heavy artillery fires H. and I. (harassing and interdicting) shells at random into the dark quiet jungle. This is to let "Charlie" know that the Americans are alert.

The sunsets are palest yellow and blue across the reflective rice paddies. They die as though someone snapped the lights off. A Vietnamese soldier in front of the hotel fires three rounds. Jeeps pull up. He grins. He saw a rat. Missed him.

The newspapers, at this writing, are not censored. Two of them, the Saigon Post and the Saigon Daily News, are published in English. There are over 600 news correspondents here. What they are covering is a war of ambush. There is no front. There are no frontal battles. In the street, the Communist look exactly like the South Vietnamese.

Their weapon is sporadic terror. A lady on a bicycle lobs a hand grenade into a passing car. In theatres, poisoned darts and needles make small punctures. Automobiles are booby-trapped. Poisoned slivers of bamboo are planted in rice paddies for farmers. Children roll grenades into taverns, and run.

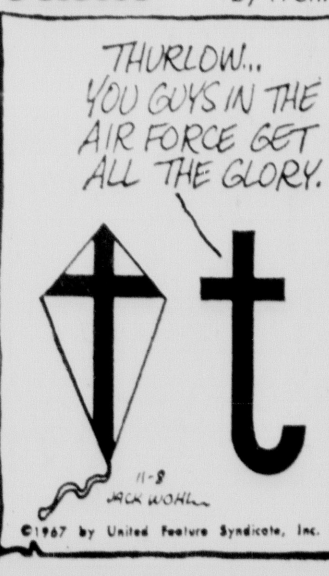

South Vietnam is religious. It is one-eighth Catholic, seven-eighths a conglomerate of Buddhism, Shintoism and hatred. Neither side permits God to interfere with the daily process of stealing. The only matter on which all agree is that nobody has an opinion. They say, in their native tongue, "One cannot afford to think, because who knows which side will win and perhaps remove my head."

There are no facts; make no plans. The tall skinny American kid with the silly green fatigue hat and the big feet has an opinion. With one exception, they told me: "L.B.J. is right. In fact he ain't right enough. He ought to let us go up there in the north and kick the hell out of Ho and go home." The only exception stared me in the eye, and said: "We ought to pull out. Either the command is going to send me home or I'm going to make it on my own."

Saigon is an old French city, decayed to the foundations. It was intended for 200,000 people; it has more than 2,000,000. In some places, the people live seven to a room. They will carry your bag; get coffee; soil a scotch with dirty ice; rent a car and driver for 300 piastres an hour ($2.50); or stand in the sun without sweating.

Congressman Resnick Will Challenge Senator Javits

For a long time Democratic leaders in New York have been sitting on their swivel chairs figuring that Sen. Jacob Javits, the senior Republican of their state, was unbeatable.

However, a young Democratic Congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick, from the Rip Van Winkle country up the Hudson Valley, has now decided to dispel their defeatism. Resnick will announce this week that he will run for the Democratic nomination for the Senate with a view to taking on Javits.

Resnick, a Jewish liberal, will run on a pro-American ticket. He intends to challenge what he calls the "hate-Americans" and the "peace-lovers," who have inspired draft card burnings and peace marches.

Indirectly he will also challenge Sen. Bobby Kennedy and John Burns, New York State Democratic chairman, who have exuded a sense of defeatism regarding both Javits and the Vietnam war.

Resnick is the young Congressman who had the courage to get up on the House floor and raise questions regarding the conduct of Sen. Tom Dodd. Though he was gavelled down, many of his colleagues secretly admired his courage.

Later Resnick, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, started a one-man investigation of the giant Farm Bureau, most powerful farm agency in the nation. When Farm Bureau lobbyists pressured members of the House Agriculture Committee, all but three voted against Resnick and for the Farm Bureau.

However, Resnick kept on investigating, paid the expenses of stenographic reporters and its witnesses out of his own pocket, revealed that the Farm Bureau operated an amazing network of insurance companies, shopping centers and filling stations with a membership of many non-farmers.

As a result of Resnick's forthright investigation, the Farm Bureau today is under investigation regarding its tax-exempt status as a non-profit farm cooperative.

Sen. Javits, a GOP candidate for Vice President, has been one of the leading members of the Senate, also served as a Congressman and New York Attorney General. Because of the heavy Jewish vote in New York City, normally Democratic, he has received many Democratic votes. Resnick, also a Jew, could probably take away part of this vote.

WASHINGTON — Congressmen who were pushing a strict meat inspection bill could have won their battle for the housewives if they hadn't observed the rules of "the club."

Shortly before the vote on the pro-housewives Meat Inspection Bill, Chairman William Poage, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee, conceded to Reps. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, and Thomas Foley, D-Wash., that Blaine Liljenquist of the western state, meat packers had sent a letter raising campaign funds for Congressmen who avored the meat packers by limiting inspection of meat in intrastate commerce.

Poage got word of the letter, knew that every Congressman would have to vote against the lobby and for a tough meat inspection bill if it became public. So he called in Smith and Foley, talked to them in "strict confidence."

They respected the rules of "the club" and said nothing. Had they tipped off the press to Liljenquist's brazen campaign funds tactics, public reaction would have been so strong that the tougher meat packing bill would have passed the House overwhelmingly. As it was, it was defeated by a non-recorded 140-to-98 teller vote.

It was no surprise that members of the House Agriculture Committee voted for the meat packers and against the housewives. Few observers thought that a majority of Congressmen would dare to vote against the housewives on the open floor of the House. They got away with it, however, by taking a teller vote, not a roll call. When tellers are used, House members are counted numerically as they file quickly down the middle aisle. Their names are not recorded, therefore the housewives cannot be sure how they voted.

Before the teller vote, the meat lobbyists buttonholed Congressmen in the corridors and cloakrooms, then watched from the gallery to make sure they voted against federal inspection of plants now dumping bad meat on the intrastate market. The buttonhole brigade was led by Aled Davies, chief lobbyist for the American Meat Institute.

Two Leaders Duck

The meat lobby also organized a last-minute telephone campaign that deluged the Capitol switchboard with long-distance calls from meat packers and state officials back home who implored House members to vote against intrastate inspection or, at least, to stay off the floor. With only 238 of the 435 members, obviously a great number took the latter advice and ducked the vote.

Two who ducked were speaker John McCormack and Democratic Leader Carl Albert, the first aged, the second ailing, who are supposed to guide the House but have left it partly rudderless this year. As Democratic leaders, they could hardly vote against President Johnson who has been pushing the tough Meat Inspection Bill.

But they also didn't want to vote against Poage, who, as a powerful committee chairman, is part of the leadership alliance by which McCormack runs the House. So McCormack and Albert suddenly disappeared as the teller votes were being counted. The third member of the Democratic hierarchy, party whip Hale Boggs, was at home recovering from an operation.

Since the meat lobbyists were watching from the gallery and the housewives were home keeping house, most of the Congressmen evidently felt they could get away with casting anonymous ballots. However, this column was also watching from the gallery and was able to see how a few key Congressmen voted.

All Republicans on the House floor voted for the meat packers and against the housewives except 12. Of the dozen, this column was able to identify Reps. William Cahill of New Jersey, Florence Dwyer of New Jersey, Gilbert Gude of Maryland, Thomas Pelly of Washington, and Seymour Halpern, Kip Horton and Theodore Kupferman, all of New York. They resisted the pressure from the meat lobbyists and cast their anonymous votes for federal inspection.

Roll Call of States

The housewives got most of their support from Democrats from Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania. They got little support from California, none at all from Georgia. All the Georgia Congressmen voted for the packers' right to sell bad meat.

Many of the California Democrats fled from the floor before the vote, but this column spotted one, Rep. Jeff Coe-lan, lining up to vote for the housewives.

Most of the Democrats from Illinois, a big packing state, also skipped out on the vote. Only three were identified—Reps. Mel Price, Bart-ratt O'Hara and William Murphy—voting for the housewives.

Florida has one of the worst meat problems in the nation, because 52 per cent of all meat slaughtered in the state's sweltering, often filthy, plants is not federally inspected. The 101 state inspectors, according to documented reports, have let a lot of bad meat get onto the meat counters. Nonetheless, this column spotted the following Florida Congressmen voting against the housewives—Charles Bennett, William Cramer, Dante Fascell and Don Fuqua.

The fight to permit tainted meat on the market was led, of course, by Bob Poage and, ironically, by Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., who charmingly boasts of her legislative efforts for the American housewife. She was vigorous for the meat lobby. Poage lined up most of the Texas delegation behind his bad meat bill, including Reps. Omar Burleson, Earle Cabell, Bob Casey, John Dowdy, Eligio de la Garza, Graham Purcell and Jim Wright. This column spotted only four Texans voting for the housewives—Reps. Robert Eckhardt, Henry Gonzalez, Abraham Kazen and Wright Patman.

The strategy of the meat lobby is to try to rush the bill through the Senate in a hurry before the housewives' lobby can get busy. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., has an excellent bill in the Senate, and if there's enough consumer support it could be substituted for the weaker House bill just passed.

Anderson Is Ideal for Nasser Talks

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Able Robert B. Anderson, President Johnson's envoy for private talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, is the ideal man for the crisis task regardless of the ultimate outcome—wise, imaginative and courageous.

Highly-trusted confident Anderson spent the night with the President at the White House before his departure. Our stake in the Middle East is enormous. Every argument Mr. Johnson has made for our Vietnam intervention he would have to make tenfold if the Soviet precipitated another conflict presented as "Arab liberation" from Israel's threats.

In Israel, in turn, Premier Levi Eshkol, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and the other leaders believe, with dismay, that Israel's world position has deteriorated since her quick victory in what Nasser himself calls "the black six June days."

They retain some respect for the Jordan army, somewhat less for the Syrian and no respect whatever for the Egyptian military structure. By daylight, after what Maj. Gen. Dayan speaks of as "the first long night," Egyptian officers as a whole on fronts like the Sinai commandeered any available jeeps, trucks and even ambulances and deserted the troops, fleeing for their own safety to—and across—the Suez Canal. The Israelis feel the Egyptian soldier is not likely to forget this. (In contrast, 20 per cent of Israel's total casualties were officers at the head of the troops.) But Russia's postwar acceleration of Nasser support in the face of all this is read as a glaring evidence of the importance the Kremlin attaches to the region for Soviet purposes. Mediterranean Means "middle of the world," and the true crossroad of the world is the Middle East. It is a land-bridge to three continents: Asia, Africa and Europe. Through there pass the sea and air routes between Europe and India, East Africa, the oil-rich Arabian peninsula, Southeast Asia, the Far East, New Zealand and Australia.

Israel was understandably unwilling, as we are regarding our Vietnam policy, to surrender her post-victory policy to the loaded votes in the United Nations. Going a step further, and as one of the things that precipitated Presidential confidence in Anderson's trip, Premier Eshkol warned the U.N. October 30 "to refrain from any step that will make it difficult for Israel to negotiate with her neighbors." In short, hands off—and for sure!

Replying in that forum, and even more effectively behind the scenes, however, the Soviet, its satellites and the Afro-Asian bloc have created a powerful commotion that Tel Aviv finds deeply alarming.

This Kremlin-sponsored attack hammers away on the SAIGON, Vietnam — A Chinese named Wa Ching walked down Tu Do Street with me. The noon sun steamed the shops. "There are no facts," he said. "Make no plans." I looked back at the twin spires of the Catholic Cathedral, pointing to the sky like V for victory fingers. "I have explained Vietnam to you," he said.

I said I did not understand. He showed two gold teeth. "Now you have it," he said. The white sun hurt my eyes. In front of the National Assembly Building, Vietnamese sentries dozed. The street teemed with traffic. Pretty girls, wearing pained dresses of blue and pink and orange, with white silk pants underneath, guided their Honda motorcycles between the U. S. Army trucks and jeeps.

We passed the Caravelle Hotel and went to the black market. It looked like three acres of corrugated tin. Everything from U. S. Army boots to American Kleenex was on sale. The merchants squat on the floor, squinting at passing faces. They claim that the merchandise is stolen on the docks, and that the police own the black market.

The people do not understand honor or morals. In a good shop, the alien counts his change once more after it is in his palm. Young attractive girls with shiny black hair approached my friend, Wally Lehman, who is 71, and pressed their hands against the sides of their faces to make "sleep" motions to him. Other girls wait in the early morning bars for G.I.'s on leave.

At night, the sky is alight with 2,000,000 candle-power "chandeliers." These are dropped by Air Force pilots who receive radio reports of possible Viet Cong groups who hide in tall grass and fire mortar shells. To the north, heavy artillery fires H. and I. (harassing and interdicting) shells at random into the dark quiet jungle. This is to let "Charlie" know that the Americans are alert.

The sunsets are palest yellow and blue across the reflective rice paddies. They die as though someone snapped the lights off. A Vietnamese soldier in front of the hotel fires three rounds. Jeeps pull up. He grins. He saw a rat. Missed him.

The newspapers, at this writing, are not censored. Two of them, the Saigon Post and the Saigon Daily News, are published in English. There are over 600 news correspondents here. What they are covering is a war of ambush. There is no front. There are no frontal battles. In the street, the Communist look exactly like the South Vietnamese. Their weapon is sporadic terror. A lady on a bicycle lobbed a hand grenade into a passing car. In theatres, poisoned darts and needles make small punctures. Automobiles are booby-trapped. Poisoned slivers of bamboo are planted in rice paddies for farmers. Children roll grenades into taverns, and run.

South Vietnam is religious. It is one-eighth Catholic, seven-eighths a conglomerate of Buddhism, Shintoism and hatred. Neither side permits God to interfere with the daily process of stealing.

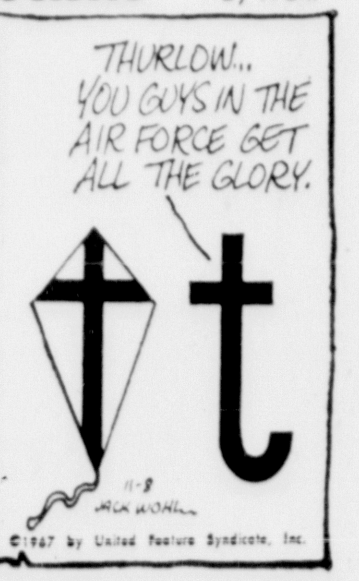

The only matter on which all agree is that nobody has an opinion. They say, in their native tongue, "One cannot afford to think, because who knows which side will win and perhaps remove my head."

There are no facts; make no plans. The tall skinny American kid with the silly green fatigue hat and the big feet has an opinion. With one exception, they told me: "L.B.J. is right. In fact he ain't right enough. He ought to let us go up there in the north and kick the hell out of Ho and go home." The only exception stared me in the eye, and said: "We ought to pull out. Either the command is going to send me home or I'm going to make it on my own."

SAIGON is an old French city, decayed to the foundations. It was intended for 200,000 people; it has more than 2,000,000. In some places, the people live seven to a room. They will carry your bag; get coffee; soil a scotch with dirty ice; rent a car and driver for 300 piastres an hour ($2.50); or stand in the sun without sweating.

Drew Pearson Says Congressman Resnick Will Challenge Senator Javits

For a long time Democratic leaders in New York have been sitting on their swivel chairs figuring that Sen. Jacob Javits, the senior Republican of their state, was unbeatable.

However, a young Democratic Congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick, from the Rip Van Winkle country up the Hudson Valley, has now decided to dispel their defeatism. Resnick will announce this week that he will run for the Democratic nomination for the Senate with a view to taking on Javits.

Resnick, a Jewish liberal, will run on a pro-American ticket. He intends to challenge what he calls the "hate-Americans" and the "peaceniks" who have inspired draft card burnings and peace marches.

Indirectly he will also challenge Sen. Bobby Kennedy and John Burns, New York State Democratic chairmen, who have exuded a sense of defeatism regarding both Javits and the Vietnam war.

Resnick is the young Congressman who had the courage to get up on the House floor and raise questions regarding the conduct of Sen. Tom Dodd. Though he was gavelled down, many of his colleagues secretly admired his courage.

Later Resnick, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, started a one-man investigation of the giant Farm Bureau, most powerful farm agency in the nation. When Farm Bureau lobbyists pressured members of the House Agriculture Committee, all but three voted against Resnick and for the Farm Bureau.

However, Resnick kept on investigating, paid the expenses of stenographic reporters and its witnesses out of his own pocket, revealed that the Farm Bureau operated an amazing network of insurance companies, shopping centers and filling stations with a membership of many non-farmers.

As a result of Resnick's forthright investigation, the Farm Bureau today is under investigation regarding its tax-exempt status as a non-profit farm cooperative.

Sen. Javits, a GOP candidate for Vice President, has been one of the leading members of the Senate, also served as a Congressman and New York Attorney General. Because of the heavy Jewish vote in New York City, normally Democratic, he has received many Democratic votes. Resnick, also a Jew, could probably take away part of this vote.

WASHINGTON — Congressmen were pushing a strict meat inspection bill could have won their battle for the housewives if they hadn't observed the rules of "the club."

Shortly before the vote on the pro-housewives Meat Inspection Bill, Chairman William Poage, D-Tex., of the House Agriculture Committee, confided to Reps. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, and Thomas Foley, D-Wash., that Blaine Liljenquist of the western state, meat packers had sent a letter raising campaign funds for Congressmen who avored the meat packers by limiting inspection of meat in intrastate commerce.

Poage got word of the letter, knew that every Congressman would have to vote against the lobby and for a tough meat inspection bill if it became public. So he called in Smith and Foley, talked to them in "strict confidence."

They respected the rules of "the club" and said nothing. Had they tipped off the press to Liljenquist's brazen campaign funds tactics, public reaction would have been so strong that the tougher meat packing bill would have passed the House overwhelmingly. As it was, it was defeated by a non-recorded 140-to-98 teller vote.

It was no surprise that members of the House Agriculture Committee voted for the meat packers and against the housewives. Few observers thought that a majority of "Congressmen" would dare to vote against the housewives on the open floor of the House. They got away with it, however, by taking a teller vote, not a roll call. When tellers are used, House members are counted numerically as they file quickly down the middle aisle. Their names are not recorded, therefore the housewives cannot be sure how they voted.

Before the teller vote, the meat lobbyists buttonholed Congressmen in the corridors and cloakrooms, then watched from the gallery to make sure they voted against federal inspection of plants now dumping bad meat on the intrastate market. The buttonhole brigade was led by Aled Davies, chief lobbyist for the American Meat Institute.

Two Leaders Duck

The meat lobby also organized a last-minute telephone campaign that deluged the Capitol switchboard with long-distance calls from meat packers and state officials back home who implored House members to vote against intrastate inspection or, at least, to stay off the floor. With only 238 of the 435 members, obviously a great number took the latter advice and ducked the vote.

Two who ducked were speaker John McCormack and Democratic leader Carl Albert, the first aged, the second ailing, who are supposed to guide the House but have left it partly rulerless this year. As Democratic leaders, they could hardly vote against President Johnson who has been pushing the tough Meat Inspection Bill.

But they also didn't want to vote against Poage, who, as a powerful committee chairman, is part of the leadership alliance by which McCormack runs the House. So McCormack and Albert suddenly disappeared as the teller votes were being counted. The third member of the Democratic hierarchy, party whip Hale Boggs, was at home recovering from an operation.

Since the meat lobbyists were watching from the gallery and the housewives were home keeping house, most of the Congressmen evidently felt they could get away with casting anonymous ballots. However, this column was also watching from the gallery and was able to see how a few key Congressmen voted.

All Republicans on the House floor voted for the meat packers and against the housewives except 12. Of the dozen, this column was able to identify Reps. William Cahill of New Jersey, Florence Dwyer of New Jersey, Gilbert Gude of Maryland, Thomas Pelly of Washington, and Seymour Halpern, Frank Horton and Theodore Kupferman, all of New York. They resisted the pressure from the meat lobbyists and cast their anonymous votes for federal inspection.

Roll Call of States

The House got most of their support from Democrats from Massachusetts, Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania. They got little support from California, none at all from Georgia. All the Georgia Congressmen voted for the packers' right to sell bad meat.

Many of the California Democrats fled from the floor before the vote, but this column spotted one, Rep. Jeff Coehlan, lining up to vote for the housewives.

Most of the Democrats from Illinois, a big packing state, also skipped out on the vote. Only three were identified—Rep. Mel Price, Barratt O'Hara and William Murphy—voting for the housewives.

Florida has one of the worst meat problems in the nation, because 52 per cent of all meat slaughtered in the state's sweltering, often filthy, plants is not federally inspected. The 101 state inspectors, according to documented reports, have let a lot of bad meat get onto the meat counters. Nonetheless, this column spotted the following Florida Congressmen voting against the housewives—Charles Bennett, William Cramer, Dante Fascell and Don Fuqua.

The fight to permit tainted meat on the market was led, of course, by Bob Poage and, ironically, by Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., who charmingly boasts of her legislative efforts for the American housewife. She was vigorous for the most lobby, Poage lined up for most of the Texas delegation behind his bad meat bill, including Reps. Omar Burleson, Earle Cabell, Bob Casey, John Dowdy, Eligio de la Garza, Graham Purcell and Jim Wright. This column spotted only four Texans voting for the housewives—Reps. Robert Eckhardt, Henry Gonzalez, Abraham Kazen and Wright Patman.

The strategy of the meat lobby is to try to rush the bill through the Senate in a hurry before the housewives' lobby can get busy. Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., has an excellent bill in the Senate, and if there's enough consumer support it could be substituted for the weaker House bill just passed.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Anderson Is Ideal for Nasser Talks

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Able Robert B. Anderson, President Johnson's envoy for private talks with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, is the ideal man for the crisis task regardless of the ultimate outcome—wise, imaginative and courageous.

Highly-trusted confident Anderson spent the night with the President at the White House before his departure. Our stake in the Middle East is enormous. Every argument Mr. Johnson has made for our Vietnam intervention he would have to make tenfold if the Soviet precipitated another conflict presented as "Arab liberation from Israel's threats."

In Israel, in turn, Premier Levi Eshkol, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and the other leaders believe, with dismay, that Israel's world position has deteriorated since her quick victory in what Nasser himself calls "the black six June days."

They retain some respect for the Jordan army, somewhat less for the Syrian and no respect whatever for the Egyptian military structure.

At daylight, after what Maj. Gen. Dayan speaks of as "the first long night," Egyptian officers as a whole on fronts like the Sinai commandeered any available jeeps, trucks and even ambulances and deserted the troops, fleeing for their own safety to—and across—the Suez Canal. The Israelis feel the Egyptian soldier is not likely to forget this. (In contrast, 20 per cent of Israel's total casualties were officers at the head of the troops.) But Russia's postwar acceleration of Nasser support in the face of all this is read as a glaring evidence of the importance of Nasser for Soviet purposes. Mediterranean means "middle of the world," and the true crossroad of the world is the Middle East. It is a land-bridge to three continents: Asia, Africa and Europe. Through there pass the sea and air routes between Europe and India, East Africa, the oil-rich Arabian peninsula, Southeast Asia, the Far East, New Zealand and Australia.

Israel was understandably unwilling, as we are regarding our Vietnam policy, to surrender her post-victory policy to the loaded votes in the United Nations. Going a step further, and as one of the things that precipitated Presidential confident Anderson's trip, Premier Eshkol warned the U.N. October 30 "to refrain from any step that will make it difficult for Israel to negotiate with her neighbors." In short, hands off—and for sure!

Replying in that forum, and even more effectively behind the scenes, however, the Soviet, its satellites and the Afro-Asian bloc have created a powerful commotion that Tel Aviv finds deeply alarming.

This Kremlin-sponsored attack hammers away on the thesis that in the Suez crisis when the British and French lost out, their seizure of the canal never came to pass and that only the Israelis achieved their objectives, Israel, it emphasizes, increased her territory in Palestine war by 3,000 square miles more than the U. N. resolution of November 29, 1947, gave her.

Soviet strategy has been to advance along the land-bridge in a military-political outflanking of NATO and all of Western Europe. Egypt fits in as the Soviet's Mediterranean lodgement, the counterpart of its Caribbean lodgement. Nasser was and is, the Soviet's Castro in the Middle East, along with fanatical Algerian President Houari Boumedienne who overthrew Red rival Ahmed Ben Bella in a military coup June 19, 1965.

Tel Aviv realized insiders know many Catholic and other religious elements throughout the world, in turn, are alienated by Israel's adamant refusal to negotiate regarding an Israel-held Jerusalem. Israel is likewise determined to keep Syria's Golan Heights, which are now an Israel defense line instead of a Syrian attack line, and other strategic areas.

The unrevealed prospect is that Israel's policy will be to ultimately negotiate about the Gaza Strip, much of the territory (out-side Jerusalem) taken from Jordan and even parts of the Sinai which Tel Aviv now insists are not negotiable. But the main thrust of Israel postwar policy, hardly understood in the outside world, is an over-all objective that requires great power.

Israel proposes to achieve the balance of power in the vital region. Tel Aviv intends to enforce, if possible, a stabilizing center of gravity that will fill the geopolitical vacuum in the Middle East.

McNamara: U.S. Prepared to Cope With Soviet Orbital Bombs

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4—Based on information collected by the U. S. Intelligence Gathering Network, Defense Sec. Robert S. McNamara believes that the Russians have developed a new space weapon.

He suspects that they have designed a system that would orbit nuclear warheads, which could be brought down to hit a target in the United States.

In typical Pentagon jargon, he called it a "Fractional Orbital Bombardment System" (FOBS).

In making this public at a news conference yesterday, McNamara used the occasion to reassure the public that the United States anticipated this development and has perfected counter measures against it.

He also let the Russians know that he is "not concerned" about their "possible" new weapon, because of his confidence in a new radar warning system the United States has secretly put into operation.

McNamara believes that the Russians, concerned about the threat of the large U. S. long-range bomber force, have felt the need to perfect an offensive weapon against it. The idea of the "orbital bomb," as Nikita S. Khrushchev described it while he was premier, is that theoretically it would enable the Russians to circumvent the U. S. radar alert system and launch a surprise attack on this country.

But the radar system Khrushchev had in mind was the ballistic missile early warning system, built across Canada.

If this were still our only radar warning system, the United States could be in trouble. For the Soviets, by putting their weapon into a very low orbit—about 100 miles above the earth—could get in under it, thereby giving much less warning time of an attack.

New Warning System

But the Defense Department, McNamara disclosed, has perfected a new ground-based-over-the-horizon radar that should give about 15 minutes' warning of an attack by the new Soviet weapon. This is the same warning the United States now would get against the Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles stationed in Russia, he said.

One of the advantages of the Soviet FOBS, McNamara acknowledged, was that its point of impact could not be determined until the firing of its slowdown rocket engine—roughly three minutes and 500 miles from the target. Also, the flight time after it left orbit could be as much as 10 minutes shorter than an ICBM coming from Russia, he said.

But it has "overriding" disadvantages, he explained, in contrast to an ICBM, which is fired like a bullet in a ballistic trajectory and falls of its own weight after soaring some 800 miles into space. It would have, he said a much smaller payload than an ICBM could carry—only one to three megatons—and far less accuracy. The weapon, he said, "would not be accurate enough for a satisfactory attack upon U. S. Minutemen missiles, protected in their silos."

Because of these flaws, the United States decided not to go in for such a system, after giving careful consideration to it "some years ago," he said.

The U. S. analysis concluded that such a system "would not improve our strategic offensive posture," the Secretary stated, and there is no intention of revising the decision against building it, even though the Soviets now apparently have it.

It is conceivable that the Soviet system could be operational in 1968, McNamara said. But the new U. S. Radar System, first disclosed during the autumn of 1964, will be fully operational by February of next year, he added.

Our deterrent against this new weapon, as against the arsenal of Soviet ICBMs, rests upon our ability to absorb any surprise nuclear attack and to retaliate with sufficient strength to destroy the Soviet Union as a viable nation.

"With three-minute warning, 15-minute warning or no warning at all, we could still absorb a surprise attack and strike back with sufficient power to destroy the attacker," McNamara declared. "We have that capability today; we will continue to have it in the future."

President Will Bring Surtax Plan Directly to the People

By WILLIAM J. EATON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 —

President Johnson is going over the head of Congress to the people to try and build support for his 10-per cent surtax plan and a variety of consumer-aid bills.

It is a sharp departure from Mr. Johnson's usual direct dealings with Senate and House leaders and may foreshadow a 1968 campaign against a "do-little" Congress.

In a tough speech to consumer Assembly '67, the President threatened to veto measures to clamp quotas on imports if they are passed by Congress.

And he urged the heads of major consumer organizations to come out strong for higher taxes now to avoid even greater erosion of buying power later if no surtax is approved.

Your congressman should hear from you—loud and often and clear," Mr. Johnson told the consumer rally.

"I realize that it is hard for you to ask the people you represent to surrender more money in taxes," he said. But then he predicted that inflation would reduce spending power of a $10,000-a-year family by $174 more than his 10-per cent surtax.

"You don't see the effect of inaction now but you'll see it next year when it will be too late," the President warned.

Quotas now being proposed in Congress for steel, oil, textiles, meat, dairy products and other items would lead to high prices and shrink world markets, he warned.

"These protectionist bills must not become law and they're not going to become law as long as I am President," he said in a podium-pounding warning to Capitol Hill.

The Quota bills picked up steam after the Kennedy round of tariff-cutting but proponents apparently have dropped plans to attach them as riders to the Social Security Bill, considered veto-proof.

Mr. Johnson's renewed advocacy of his surtax, however, is not likely to remove it from cold storage where it has been consigned by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The President also came out for strong legislation to disclose the cost of consumer credit, assure safer gas pipeline construction and extend inspection of meat to cover intra-state packing plants.

A Senate-approved truth-in-lending bill, omitting disclosure of annual interest charges for revolving fund credit accounts, is coming before the House Banking Committee on Nov. 21-22.

Rep. Leonor Sullivan (D-Mo.), chief House supporter of a stronger measure on credit disclosure, chided the consumer groups for not putting more steam in their campaigns.

"You are not reaching your own people and enlisting their active help," she said. "What's wrong? Is everyone tired?"

Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.) on the House Banking Committee added: "Your well-heeled opponents are besieging the congressional mail boxes and filling the hall with lobbyists."

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The case of the "misdirected" White House telegram which fell into California Gov. Ronald Reagan's hands aboard the Governors' Conference cruise ship is a fabric of inconsistencies that deserves to be highlighted rather than forgotten.

Except for a couple of minor jabs at two Republican governors, the message itself was an unexciting recital of past resolutions by the governors of both parties in support of President Johnson on Vietnam. It went from presidential aide W. Marvin Watson to Price Daniel, director of the Office of Emergency Planning and the new White House liaison man with the governors.

Its interest lay in the fact that Republican governors saw it as Exhibit A in proof of their argument that the President—for his own political purposes—tries to maneuver personally to muster the governors' support of his war policies.

Fortified by this shipboard disclosure, GOP governors this year refused to back a Vietnam resolution, and none ever reached the conference floor.

But how the disclosure came about is still an unresolved mystery. And the inconsistent comments of some of the principals to the affair only deepened the mystery.

Daniel says that somewhere between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 18, a ship's steward tapped on his cabin door aboard the SS Independence and handed him the original of the message.

Reagan says he received a duplicate copy of Daniel's message among a batch of other messages while he sat in a full Governor's Conference session that same morning. A check of working schedules for Oct. 18 suggests this must have been between 9:30 and 10:45 a.m.

Reagan offers several versions of what happened at the outset. When he first spoke to newsmen that night, after his aides passed out duplicated copies of the White House telegram, he said an aide handed him the message at the conference and he gave it back when he saw it was not for him.

Next day he told a reporter he quickly concluded the message was for "general distribution" and had read it through—surprised at the end by stabs at Governors Rhodes of Ohio and Crafée of Rhode Island.

At Sacramento, after the cruise, Reagan told newsmen Daniel got the original 20 hours earlier than he got his copy, which would put Daniel's receipt of it back to the afternoon of Oct. 17.

But Daniel insists he got it the morning of Oct. 18. And ship company officials say it came in over regular ship's radio between midnight and 2:30 a.m. Oct. 18.

Reagan said at Sacramento that conference aides gave the message to his own helpers, one of whom passed it to him. In Des Moines one day later, he said he got it directly from a conference aide or a ship's crewman on the conference floor.

Reagan's whole effort to suggest that the affair was just a happy accident seems underscored by a smiling comment he made to aides on shipboard after the telegram story had broken widely: "Somebody up there must like me."

But the behavior and utterances of other principals in the case tend to cast more than a little doubt on the governor's cheerful accident theory.

The President also came out for strong legislation to disclose the cost of consumer credit, assure safer gas pipeline construction and extend inspection of meat to cover intra-state packing plants.

A Senate-approved truth-in-lending bill, omitting disclosure of annual interest charges for revolving fund credit accounts, is coming before the House Banking Committee on Nov. 21-22.

Rep. Leonor Sullivan (D-Mo.), chief House supporter of a stronger measure on credit disclosure, chided the consumer groups for not putting more steam in their campaigns.

"You are not reaching your own people and enlisting their active help," she said. "What's wrong? Is everyone tired?"

Chairman Wright Patman (D-Tex.) on the House Banking Committee added: "Your well-heeled opponents are besieging the congressional mail boxes and filling the hall with lobbyists."

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The case of the "misdirected" White House telegram which fell into California Gov. Ronald Reagan's hands aboard the Governors' Conference cruise ship is a fabric of inconsistencies that deserves to be highlighted rather than forgotten.

Except for a couple of minor jabs at two Republican governors, the message itself was an unexciting recital of past resolutions by the governors of both parties in support of President Johnson on Vietnam. It went from presidential aide W. Marvin Watson to Price Daniel, director of the Office of Emergency Planning and the new White House liaison man with the governors.

Its interest lay in the fact that Republican governors saw it as Exhibit A in proof of their argument that the President—for his own political purposes—tries to maneuver personally to muster the governors' support of his war policies.

Fortified by this shipboard disclosure, GOP governors this year refused to back a Vietnam resolution, and none ever reached the conference floor.

But how the disclosure came about is still an unresolved mystery. And the inconsistent comments of some of the principals to the affair only deepen the mystery.

Daniel says that somewhere between 9 and 10 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 18, a ship's steward tapped on his cabin door aboard the SS Independence and handed him the original of the message.

Reagan says he received a duplicate copy of Daniel's message among a batch of other messages while he sat in a full Governor's Conference session that same morning. A check of working schedules for Oct. 18 suggests this must have been between 9:30 and 10:45 a.m.

Reagan offers several versions of what happened at the outset. When he first spoke to newsmen that night, after his aides passed out duplicated copies of the White House telegram, he said an aide handed him the message at the conference and he gave it back when he saw it was not for him.

Next day he told a reporter he quickly concluded the message was for "general distribution" and had read it through—surprised at the end by stubs at Governors Rhodes of Ohio and Crafce of Rhode Island.

At Sacramento, after the cruise, Reagan told newsmen Daniel got the original 20 hours earlier than he got his copy, which would put Daniel's receipt of it back to the afternoon of Oct. 17.

But Daniel insists he got it the morning of Oct. 18. And ship company officials say it came in over regular ship's radio between midnight and 2:30 a.m. Oct. 18.

Reagan said at Sacramento that conference aides gave the message to his own helpers, one of whom passed it to him. In Des Moines one day later, he said he got it directly from a conference aide or a ship's crewman on the conference floor.

Reagan's whole effort to suggest that the affair was just a happy accident seems underscored by a smiling comment he made to aides on shipboard after the telegram story had broken widely: "Somebody up there must like me."

But the behavior and utterances of other principals in the case tend to cast more than a little doubt on the governor's cheerful accident theory.

Fall of 1969 Edict to Dixie On '64 Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has decided that all Southern school districts will have to totally dismantle dual school systems for whites and Negroes by the fall of 1969.

It is the first time officials of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare have set a hard date by which they expect complete compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The act prohibits federal support of any programs in which racial discrimination is practiced.

Spokesmen for HEW's Office for Civil Rights said in response to a reporter's inquiry that the decision has evolved over the past few months.

The decision apparently gained impetus from a recent report by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights criticizing HEW for achieving more desegregation sooner. The commission noted that some Negro children who began school after the Supreme Court outlawed separate but equal schools for Negroes in 1954 have gone all the way through school without having been in the same building with white students.

Schiskey Case Heads Nov. 15 Calendar

A criminal calendar of 92 cases has been prepared by District Attorney Joseph P. Tortora and will be called before County Judge Raymond J. Mino at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 15.

Heading the calendar is the first degree murder, second degree murder and first degree robbery indictment which names Arthur W. Schiskey, Garden Street, Kingston, as defendant. Schiskey is charged by the grand jury with death of Herman O. Dietz, operator of a small neighborhood grocery store at Hasbrouck Avenue and East O'Reilly Street, back in February. William A. Kelly appears for defendant.

Following the Schiskey case are two involving attempted first degree murder, assault and conspiracy. Donald A. Dunn and Lorraine Mae Strickland are accused by the grand jury of participating in a shooting at the Strickland premises. Strickland came home to his southern Ulster home in the evening and was greeted by a shotgun blast from the darkness. Hubert Richter appears for Dunn and William Gruner for Mrs. Strickland.

Miniskirt Rise In Controversy Of Stewardess

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — How high on the thigh can a stewardess, miniskirt rise?

Miniskirted stewardesses picketed Pan American Airways Tuesday to say that this is not a question for the airline to answer.

Local 505 of the Transport Workers Union said it was in protest against a threat by the company to fire pretty stewardess Kristina Goud, 23, for wearing too short a skirt during an off-duty flight on a Pan American plane.

"Up with miniskirts. Down with Pan Am," read banners waved by the six stewardesses at San Francisco International Airport.

A Pan Am spokesman said Miss Goud was told two weeks ago that her skirt did not seem to comply with the company's image.

Miss Goud said she was threatened with dismissal, but Pan Am publicity director Robin Kinkaid said this was not so.

Kinkaid said the company would require that "employees traveling on its planes off duty, both men and women, be dressed within conventional limits such as would apply in any office."

Miss Goud said her blue and white skirt wasn't at all too short.

"It was really only three or four inches above the knee," she said.

Kinkaid said company officials, the union and the girls will meet to iron out the issue.

Final Tributes Paid To John Nance Garner

BY GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Friends and neighbors paid last respects today to former Vice President John Nance Garner, who left Washington in 1941 swearing he would never cross the Potomac River again—and never did.

Garner died early Tuesday, just 15 days short of his 99th birthday.

"Cactus Jack," as he was known during most of his 46 years as an elected official in Austin and Washington, lay in state at a Uvalde funeral home. Simple services are set for Thursday afternoon.

Garner, with a bright red carnation in his coat lapel, lay in an opened steel gray color casket of copper. In death his shaggy white eyebrows bristled as prominently as a quarter century ago when he became the only person to walk directly from one side of the nation's Capitol as speaker of the House to the other side as vice president.

Hundreds who knew him as a Texas legislator, as a congressman for 30 years, and as vice president under Franklin D. Roosevelt from 1932 to 1940, sent condolences.

"Few have given so long a time and fewer still have used their years to such advantage," President Lyndon B. Johnson said in Washington.

"He enjoyed the respect of all Americans as the spokesman for the rugged and practical individualism that played such an important role in the building and growth of this nation," former President Harry S. Truman said at Independence, Mo.

Garner, who had been looking forward to his 99th birthday, Nov. 22 and then to a 100th birthday, died quietly without apparent pain following a coronary occlusion.

"It was just old age," said Don Large, 24, who had been one of Garner's paid companions for almost four years. Large will be one of 10 pallbearers.

"He had a wonderful life. This was the best way to go," said Tully Garner, 71, his son.

Ray Says . . .

Future That Counts

Asked of his plans for the future, Garraghan told The Freeman shortly after the election returns were in, "There's one point I'd like to clear up right now. Bob Gallo (T. Rob. Gallo, elected alderman-at-large) and I will work together and work well together. We've had our differences but Bob is a man whose opinion I respect. The past is gone forever, it's the future of Kingston that counts."

Garraghan also outlined plans for an expanding housing code department, additional personnel in the assessor's office and increased effort to make urban renewal a going project.

The mayor will be sworn in Jan. 1 with a Democratic alderman-at-large and a council 8-5 in his party's favor.

The Judge . . .

It is impossible for a candidate running for the office to promise legislation that would delight the voters. Nor can a judicial candidate promise to decrease taxes. The campaign has to be run on the highest level possible, free from those charges and accusations which the voters are quite familiar with.

Schick Strategy
Schick fought one of the hardest battles ever. He invaded the smallest of towns and talked to people in the hills who had never even met a county-wide candidate.

The Kingston attorney went to almost all of the Republican functions, dinners, picnics and testimonials, in an effort to pick up any dissident GOP votes and to demonstrate his verve and style.

Schick's strategy, worked out by himself and Stanley H. Mumford of Woodstock, relied heavily on the personal appearance, the on-the-spot exposure.

Unlike the other Democratic county candidates, Schick chose not to attend only the Democratic affairs, or to rely only on the press release, the advertisement, the spot commercial, or the billboard.

Not Much Aid, Feeling

The feeling is that there was not much aid to be had from the Democratic county organization, either in finances, strategy, or guest speakers in the candidate's behalf.

A Schick victory would have meant a personal tribute and a sweet reward to the strength of his organization, and not because of the Democratic machinery behind him.

It is believed that the defeat of the proposed Constitution—with the publicity given to it that it was a Democratic document—hurt Democrat Schick, but there can be no doubt that it was a stunning victory for the Republicans.

Wins Third Term

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Republican Edward A. Rath beat off the challenge of Dist. Atty. Michael F. Dillon, a Democrat, Tuesday and won a third term as Erie County executive.

Rath polled 199,748 votes against 167,732 for Dillon, to win by a 31,996 vote majority in the unofficial count.

Meanwhile, the Democratic-controlled Buffalo City Council lost one seat as Mrs. Alfreda W. Slominski, a Republican, was elected a councilman-at-large. The Democrats have held an 11 to 4 edge since 1962. Their margin beginning Jan. 1 will be 10 to 5.

Memorial

In loving memory of my husband and our father John Stahl who passed away two years ago today November 8, 1965. God took him home, it was his will. But in our hearts we love him still. His memory is as dear today as in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him when we are all alone. For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.

Youth in City Chase Faces Charge of DWI

A 19-year-old West Chestnut Street youth, charged with driving while intoxicated after a spectacular chase along Broadway that left a motorist injured in its wake this morning, pleaded innocent in City Court and had his case adjourned until Nov. 13, police said.

The accused, George D. Nelson, is presently in county jail in lieu of $250 bail. He was apprehended, police said, at the intersection of Broadway and O'Neil around 2:20 a. m.

Treated at Kingston Hospital for head injuries was Alfred Bell, 36, of 135 Spruce Street. His auto was smashed by the allegedly fleeing Nelson.

Investigators declared that Nelson was pulled to the curb on a routine check by a patrol car. However, before his license could be checked the youth allegedly took-off over the curb, knocked down a parking meter, rammed Saccomar's Jewelry store front, demolished another parking meter and sped into traffic, police stated.

In traffic Nelson collided with the Bell auto and was finally cut-off at the O'Neil Street intersection, officers disclosed. Along the way the youth's car severed a tree, police added.

Pennsy GOP Scores Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pennsylvania Republicans, with former Gov. William Scranton headlining their ranks, handily won political control in balloting for delegates to the state's fifth constitutional convention and first in 94 years.

Although four of the 50 senatorial districts were still undecided by early morning, Republicans could claim more than the 82 votes necessary to guarantee a majority among the 163 delegates.

The GOP on Tuesday elected 77 delegates in 46 districts. This plus seven votes on the 13-man legislative Preparatory Committee and at least minority representation from the districts still out, guaranteed the party at least 88 votes.

Democrats, in voting that generally followed traditional patterns, elected 60 delegates, were leading in six other instances and had six votes on the leadership preparatory committee which has ex-officio status in the convention.

DEATH CONFIRMED—Gustav Hertz, a U.S. aid official captured by the Viet Cong in February 1965, is dead, U.S. officials said Tuesday. The officials said they had confirmed the bare fact that Hertz was dead but were unable to provide details. He is shown in a 1965 file photo. UPI TELEPHOTO.

UAW, Chrysler In Round-Clock Bargaining

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of the United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. bargained around the clock today trying to avert what would be the second nationwide strike in the auto industry this year.

Some Chrysler operations were threatened with premature shutdown before tonight's midnight strike deadline as truck drivers moving parts in the Detroit area and workers at one of the firm's two most important stamping operations walked off their jobs Tuesday.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president for administration, led the negotiating teams that have been bargaining for a new contract covering 103,000 workers. The latest session of bargaining began at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

More than 6,000 Chrysler employees refused to work at five operations around the country, including the Sterling stamping plant, the Trenton engine plant, and the interplant transportation office, all in the Detroit area; the Newark, Del., car assembly plant; and the Missouri truck assembly plant near St. Louis.

UAW officials at the international level have been trying to keep their men on the job, a union spokesman said, but he pointed out that the work stoppages could not be called "wildcat strikes" since the union had no contract.

Union members have been working without a contract at Chrysler and General Motors since Sept. 6, when three-year pacts expired at the big three firms and the UAW struck Ford Motor Co. At Ford, production resumed at all but four of the firm's 16 assembly plants, two of the four—Dallas, Tex., and Lorain, Ohio—still have not settled individual plant contracts.

Night-Only Jail
STERLING, Ohio (AP) — A Northeastern Junior College student, convicted in Denver of driving his automobile while his license was suspended, served a five-day jail term without missing a class. The Denver judge agreed to let him serve nights in the Sterling jail.

Some Chrysler operations were threatened with premature shutdown before tonight's midnight strike deadline as truck drivers moving parts in the Detroit area and workers at one of the firm's two most important stamping operations walked off their jobs Tuesday.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, and John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president for administration, led the negotiating teams that have been bargaining for a new contract covering 103,000 workers. The latest session of bargaining began at 10 a.m. Tuesday.

More than 6,000 Chrysler employees refused to work at five operations around the country, including the Sterling stamping plant, the Trenton engine plant, and the interplant transportation office, all in the Detroit area; the Newark, Del., car assembly plant; and the Missouri truck assembly plant near St. Louis.

UAW officials at the international level have been trying to keep their men on the job, a union spokesman said, but he pointed out that the work stoppages could not be called "wildcat strikes" since the union had no contract.

Union members have been working without a contract at Chrysler and General Motors since Sept. 6, when three-year pacts expired at the big three firms and the UAW struck Ford Motor Co. At Ford, production resumed at all but four of the firm's 16 assembly plants, two of the four—Dallas, Tex. and Lorain, Ohio—still have not settled individual plant contracts.

Offenders Benefit From Novel Trade School in Pilot Project

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer
SPEICNER, Ala. (AP) — Marvin, a three-time loser, is out of prison and earns $700 a month—honestly.
Johnny, a junior high school dropout booted out of the Navy with an undesirable discharge, a convicted forger and embezzler, owns a part interest in a barber shop and attends college in his spare time.
Dwight tried to hold up a loan company with a toy pistol, but the stickup went sour and he went to the penitentiary. Now, he's assistant manager for a California laundry.
The three men (only the names are false) are products of a pilot project in prisoner education being conducted at Draper Correctional Center here. It has just celebrated its third anniversary.
Not Easy
"We don't have the easy ones to work with," says Mrs. Donna Seay, a program director in Draper's Vocational Education Demonstration Project.

Prisoners with the best records are sent to a minimum security prison. Draper keeps those more likely to cause trouble.
Only sex offenders are barred from the training program. Mrs. Seay says that's "just a precaution, but they really need more psychiatric help than we can provide."
The project has helped 271 inmates learn a trade. Prison gates have opened for 229 of the graduates and only 27 per cent have come back. Most of them are caught in what Mrs. Seay calls technical violations, such as excessive drinking and failure to report for work. Only 13 per cent have been returned for other crimes.
Before the Draper program began, about 70 per cent of Alabama's ex-cons were eventually returned to prison, Mrs. Seay says the national rate is about 60 per cent, although the experts don't agree on an exact figure.

Pick a Trade
Draper trains younger prisoners—their average age is 23—as welders, barbers, service station attendants and mechanics, electrical appliance repairmen, bricklayers and sign painters. Many of the courses are taught through programmed material developed here.
Courses in personal social adjustment and work relations are an important part of the program. Mrs. Seay calls these "the things that help them advance in a job."
The effectiveness of the training is reflected by the fact that a barber shop and a garage have each hired six graduates of the course.
Draper's 35 staff workers do not abandon the parolee after he is released. They watch his progress carefully and help him get necessary psychiatric or medical care—even an operation.

The Draper project is still growing. Mrs. Seay says plans are under way for centers in Alabama's major cities where trained counselors would be available at any hour to help ex-cons make the often painful adjustment to society.

Manor, Maple Leaf, Pine Grove House and Norrie Point Inn. In the northern New York area he has appeared at The Colony, The Showboat, 321 Club and the Three Rivers Inn.
His strong points in comedy are observations on the modern life around us and leading to the Why's and Wherefore's of the Martini set.
The event is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. Dancing will take place until 2 a.m. to music of Joey Vigna and his orchestra. Another feature of the ball will be the presentation of an award to the Marine of the Year.

CARMAN SCOTT

Will Entertain At Marine Ball

A gala floor show will be highlighted at the annual Ulster Detachment of the Marine Corps League ball and dance to be held Saturday night, Nov. 11 at The Capri Restaurant on Route 9W in Port Ewen.
Carman Scott, comedian master of ceremonies with many musical comedy credits in his background, will be one of the feature entertainers at the event. Also appearing will be Zafrana, one of the country's pretty exponents of the art of oriental dancing and a surprise act.
Scott has been headlined at such popular clubs as The Acra

LBJ Tax Hike Letter Request Backfires

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's request that people write their congressmen about his proposed tax hike is bringing results—but not exactly those Johnson hoped for, an Associated Press survey indicates.
Only a few congressmen queried said they had received letters from constituents asking for the tax boost. Most said the President's appeal for public support last week resulted in a flood of mail opposing the proposal.
Wrong Request
Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a House Ways and Means Committee member who has backed the tax hike measure, reported receiving a letter from home, saying: "I hear the President wants us to write you to ask for a tax increase. I am asking you to vote against a tax increase."
In the same vein was a letter to Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, whose district encompasses New York's wealthy Westchester County. The woman correspondent said her letter was prompted by Johnson's appeal, but added: "I don't want any higher taxes."
There were some scattered exceptions to the trend, however.
Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., received this message from a West Orange constituent:
"While I am not in sympathy with everything which has been emanating from the White House, I do believe that the best interests of the country will be served by the enactment of surtax of incomes."
Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes also drew backing from a rural Illinois man, who wrote his congressman:

"I never thought I would write you asking that you raise my taxes but I'm doing just that. My fear of inflation with the erosion of purchasing power is greater than my fear of the surtax proposed by the President."
Most Opposed
But by far most letters they've received oppose any tax hike, congressmen said. Ottinger put the mail count at 99 to 1 against and Rep. Peter H. B. Freylichusen, R-N.J., said his count is 98 to 2 against.
Others reporting mostly anti-tax hike mail were Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., 12 to 1 against; Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, R-Wash., 30 to 2; Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., 10 to 1.
Some representatives and senators said they had received little or no mail on the subject since Johnson's appeal.
Along with a lot of letters opposing the tax boost came a few suggestions.
"The honest and fair thing to do is to place the surtax on the excess war profits and not on the small taxpayers who have not had these gains," suggested one constituent of Van Deerlin's.
"End the war, quit giving our money to Communist countries, stop supporting the ingrates in the whole world and we don't need an increase in taxes," was a message received by Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla.

Kerhonkson

KERHONKSON — A union Thanksgiving service is planned at the Kerhonkson Federated Church for Wednesday evening, Nov. 22.
The Sunday school of the church will sponsor a demonstration party Tuesday 7:30 p. m. in the fellowship hall. Proceeds will be used for the Sunday school room equipment.
Members of the junior choir with their advisors, Mrs. Kenneth Tompkins and Mrs. John Saul gave a farewell party for Kristine Vestal who is moving to Long Island. She was presented with a gift. Refreshments were served.

Injured Fatally

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bruce Lloyd, 13, was injured fatally Tuesday when the stolen automobile he was apparently trying to leap from crashed into a parked car, crushing him between the two vehicles, police said.
They said Lloyd, of Buffalo, had been one of five teen-aged passengers in the car, which was stolen from a Buffalo man. The vehicle was being pursued by police when the accident occurred.
Lloyd lived at 81 Sherman St.

Women to Meet

Mrs. Wilfred Doolittle and Mrs. Karl Strobel will be in charge of refreshments.
All members are urged to attend.

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.
Years and years ago, when we decided to bake Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.
That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough delicious cake to hold together the bounty of cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.
IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $3.99.
That's the same low price as last year which makes it an even greater value.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.
One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.
P.S. Wouldn't it make a great gift for someone?

Draper's 35 staff workers do

not abandon the parolee after he is released. They watch his progress carefully and help him get necessary psychiatric or medical care—even an operation.

The Draper project is still growing. Mrs. Seay says plans are under way for centers in Alabama's major cities where trained counselors would be available at any hour to help ex-cons make the often painful adjustment to society.

CARMAN SCOTT

Will Entertain At Marine Ball

A gala floor show will be highlighted at the annual Ulster Detachment of the Marine Corps League ball and dance to be held Saturday night, Nov. 11 at The Capri Restaurant on Route 9W in Port Ewen.

Carman Scott, comedian master of ceremonies with many musical comedy credits in his background, will be one of the feature entertainers at the event. Also appearing will be Zafra, one of the country's pretty exponents of the art of oriental dancing and a surprise act.

Scott has been headlined at such popular clubs as The Acra

Manor, Maple Leaf, Pine Grove House and Norrie Point Inn. In the northern New York area he has appeared at The Colony, The Showboat, 321 Club and the Three Rivers Inn.

His strong points in comedy are observations on the modern life around us and leading to the Why's and Wherefore's of the Martini set.

The event is scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. Dancing will take place until 2 a.m. to music of Joey Vigna and his orchestra. Another feature of the ball will be the presentation of an award to the Marine of the Year.

LBJ Tax Hike Letter Request Backfires

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's request that people write their congressmen about his proposed tax hike is bringing results—but not exactly those Johnson hoped for, an Associated Press survey indicates.

Only a few congressmen queried said they had received letters from constituents asking for the tax boost. Most said the President's appeal for public support last week resulted in a flood of mail opposing the proposal.

Wrong Request

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., a House Ways and Means Committee member who has backed the tax hike measure, reported receiving a letter from home, saying: "I hear the President wants us to write you to ask for a tax increase. I am asking you to vote against a tax increase."

In the same vein was a letter to Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, whose district encompasses New York's wealthy Westchester County. The woman correspondent said her letter was prompted by Johnson's appeal, but added: "I don't want any higher taxes."

There were some scattered exceptions to the trend, however.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., received this message from a West Orange constituent:

"While I am not in sympathy with everything which has been emanating from the White House, I do believe that the best interests of the country will be served by the enactment of surtax of incomes."

Johnson's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes

UNICEF Drive

Several youngsters in the Tillson area spent time on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, October 29, 30 and 31, collecting money for children around the world through UNICEF contributions. They collected a total of $25.69 from homes in the Tillson area this year.

Collections in this area last year amounted to more than $50 but included the profits of a UNICEF Carnival sponsored by a group of local girls.

Participating in collections this year were Douglas Fox, Robert O'Dell, David Taylor, Gary Wright, Daniel and Lilla Woodham.

Women to Meet

The Rosendale Woman's Club will meet Thursday 8 p. m. at Williams Lake.

Mrs. Wilfred Doolittle and Mrs. Karl Strobel will be in charge of refreshments.

All members are urged to attend.

It's America's most popular! Why?

We think it's excellence of product.

Years and years ago, when we decided to bake

Jane Parker Fruit Cake, we also decided to bake the best.

That's why Jane Parker Fruit Cake was then and is today over 2/3 fruits and nuts.

Just enough delicious cake to hold together the bounty of cherries imported from France, pineapple from the Far East, citron from Italy, sun-drenched raisins from California and meaty pecans from the South.

We think, too, that value has made it popular.

IMAGINE, THE 5-LB. CAKE COSTS ONLY $3.99.

That's the same low price as last year which makes it an even greater value.

Now you know why Jane Parker Fruit Cake is America's most popular.

One other thing you should know: You can buy it only at A&P.

Cairo Demands Before Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council, already divided over rival proposals for a Middle East settlement, consulted today on Egyptian demands that it deal with Israel's refusal to withdraw from territory it occupied in the June war.

Delegates expressed belief that the 15-nation council would take up the Egyptian request Thursday.

One diplomat charged privately that Egypt was exerting a "disruptive influence" in calling at this stage for debate on territory that Israel seized from Egypt, Jordan and Syria last June.

Egyptian sources said the meeting was requested to "precipitate action" by the various parties still bogged down after weeks of fruitless negotiations.

Many diplomats felt, however, that the purpose was to prevent Jordan from accepting an American proposal, one of the two rival plans submitted.

The American draft, already rejected by the Russians, calls for the withdrawal of armed forces from occupied territories and stresses the need for "a visiting in the United States, had told U.S. officials that he would not 'interpose any objection' to the U.S. plan."

Chicago Students Stand in Line For Chance to Rent Art for Dorm

CHICAGO (AP) — Standing in line is the bane of most college students, but at the University of Chicago students scramble for a chance to do just that.

That's the queue for art works to decorate their rooms.

The competition for selection of favorites is so intense that many get in line the night before the pictures are loaned so they will have priority to select the work they want.

Hardly had the shoe soles cooled from standing in registration lines at the start of the autumn term than the art rental exhibition was announced.

For $1 a quarter, the students may rent pictures to hang in their rooms from the "Art to Live With" collection, which consists of 500 paintings, lithographs, silk screens and etchings. Represented in the collection are works by such artists as Chagall, Miro, Rouault, Hans Hoffman, Max Ernst, Francis Chapin, Max Kahn, Goya, Curt Seligman, Braque, Leger and Picasso.

The collection was donated by Joseph Randall Shapiro, a trustee of the university, well-known art collector and president of the new Museum of Contemporary Art in Chicago.

There is little damage to the works, Prof. Harold Haydon, university art professor, said in an interview, because the stu-

Shapiro continues to add to the collection, selecting the works himself and having them custom-framed by the man who frames his own private collection. The loan collection has grown from an initial 50 to its present size.

The nominal rental fee paid by the students covers insurance.

There is little damage to the works, Prof. Harold Haydon, university art professor, said in an interview, because the students treat the pictures "with the greatest respect."

Occasionally a glass has to be replaced and frames refinished, but this is routine and expected, he said.

Shapiro reflected this view. He said the students look upon the pictures "as something to be revered."

The idea for the art-loan program originated with Prof. Haydon.

From the loan program, Haydon says, "a lot of students have developed a lifelong interest in the arts."

Faculty and staff members of the university took envious note of the treasures made available to the students and asked if they, too, might not be included. They now rent works to hang in their offices.

Thailand Educators Tour Paltz College

Seven top Thailand educators studying American higher education came to State University of New York at Paltz, last week to examine the State University of New York as represented by the New Paltz College.

New Paltz was chosen because of its outstanding Asian studies programs and interest in international affairs, according to Dr. Robert Pyle, New Paltz biology professor and host to the group on campus. The educators also visited the State Education Department at Albany and a number of private colleges through arrangements with Columbia University. At New Paltz, the group examined the administrative relationship and policies of the State University system in a series of talks with the College's Dr. Dorothy Hayes, on teacher education, Dr. Joseph Stanmyer, on admissions problems particularly as they affect foreign students, Dr. Irving Barnett on international education and area studies, and Dr. Pyle on the overall State University. The Thai educators are spending several weeks in the United States under the guidance of Professor Walker H. Hill, Michigan State University, to study the various facets of American higher education and their applicability in their home country. New York's unique State University system proved of considerable interest, Dr. Pyle reported.

North Viet's Prisoner Policy Told to Mrs. JFK

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk disclosed today he told Mrs. John F. Kennedy that North Vietnam could not release the American fliers it holds prisoner "because it would be an encouragement to continue the bombing."

"They also consider the pilots as war criminals," Cambodia's ruling prince told a news conference after Mrs. Kennedy flew to Thailand.

The prince, whose government maintains close ties with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, said Mrs. Kennedy had brought up the subject of American prisoners and inquired particularly about American airman held in North Vietnam and about Donald Ramsey, an AID official captured in South Vietnam almost two years ago. Several Americans taken by the Viet Cong have been released through Cambodia in the past.

Mrs. Kennedy, looking a bit tired after her six-day stay in Cambodia, returned to Bangkok aboard a U.S. Air Force plane escorted to the Thai border by two Soviet-built Cambodian MIGs. After three days of social functions, sightseeing and shopping, she and her party leave for home early Saturday.

Sihanouk said three American Army sergeants the Viet Cong promised last week to release would probably be sent through Cambodia but added that he is "now awaiting a decision" from the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

"We are always willing to act as intermediaries," he said.

Reliable sources reported that the release of the three Americans was decided as a result of the death Sept. 24 of Gustav C. Hertz, a U.S. AID official kidnapped near Saigon February 1965. Hertz' death of malaria was announced in Washington Tuesday after news of it was relayed to his wife through Cambodia.

Sihanouk said Viet Cong leader Nguyen Hui Tho had informed him "they did their best to keep (Hertz) alive but he was too ill." Tho "apologized for this very sad event," he said.

Sihanouk said he told Mrs. Kennedy Ramsey's family should write to him directly. "Then I can intervene with Mr. Tho."

Gains outnumbered losses by more than 4 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 7 points or more.

The advance was sweeping, with stocks in many groups advancing from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

Chrysler added a fraction despite a midnight strike deadline and the start of walkouts in various Chrysler plants. Ford and General Motors tacked on about a point each.

Advances of 2 points or so were posted by a variety of issues, including Sperry Rand, Occidental Petroleum, Berman Leasing, General Dynamics, Raytheon, Kennecott, Eastman Kodak, Polaroid, and Westinghouse Electric.

Up about a point were many others, including Stokely-Van Camp, RCA, American Airlines, Zenith, International Telephone, Du Pont, New York Central, Reynolds Tobacco and Schering.

The advance was continuing the sharp recovery movement late Monday. The New York and American Stock Exchanges were closed Tuesday but there was a higher trend on the Midwest and Pacific Coast Stock exchanges.

U.S. Government Bonds were steady to unchanged, reversing their usual trend, one of the factors which has concerned the financial community.

Opening blocks included: Prices rose today on the American Stock Exchange. Extra Inc. gained 1. Most changes were fractional.

Operatic Tenor Albert Da Costa Killed in Crash

KOLDING, Denmark (AP) — Albert Da Costa, 39-year-old expatriate American operatic tenor, was killed in an automobile accident north of Kolding today. A Dutch singer with him was injured slightly.

Police said Da Costa was driving when his car skidded in the rain on a sharp curve, left the road and crashed through the trees for 30 yards. It overturned, pinning the tenor underneath. Police said he apparently died immediately.

Da Costa and his companion, Jan C. Gerkens, were en route from Germany to Aarhus to appear in Bizet's "Carmen" at the Jutland Opera.

Da Costa, a native of Amsterdam, N.Y., was with the Metropolitan Opera from 1955 to 1962. In the latter year he announced he was taking his wife and six children to Europe and would make his career there.

Recently he had been singing with the Cologne Opera.

Cases Ready For Jury

Two cases in Supreme Court were ready for submission to the juries today following completion of testimony and summations.

Before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg and a jury a negligence action brought by Celia Saperstein of Bronx, as guardian of her daughter, Nancy Saperstein, was submitted. Miss Saperstein seeks to recover for a broken leg which she suffered when thrown from a horse-drawn toboggan Feb. 1, 1964 at the Rocking Horse Ranch, Highland, where she was a guest.

The second negligence action tried before Justice Louis G. Bruhn and a jury, is brought by Gwendolyn L. Myer and her husband to recover for injuries suffered in an accident with a car of Anthony Riggi back in 1965. Mr. Myer sues for $20,000 damages for medical bills and loss of service and Mrs. Myer seeks $50,000 damages for injuries to her head and face. Michael Nardone appears for plaintiffs and Francis Vogt of Larkin and Vogt for defendant. Mrs. Myer was a resident of Woodstock at the time of the accident.

North Viet's Prisoner Policy Told to Mrs. JFK

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk disclosed today he told Mrs. John F. Kennedy that North Vietnam could not release the American fliers it holds prisoner "because it would be an encouragement to continue the bombing."

"They also consider the pilots as war criminals," Cambodia's ruling prince told a news conference after Mrs. Kennedy flew to Thailand.

The prince, whose government maintains close ties with North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, said Mrs. Kennedy had brought up the subject of American prisoners and inquired particularly about American airmen held in North Vietnam and about Donald Ramsey, an AID official captured in South Vietnam almost two years ago. Several Americans taken by the Viet Cong have been released through Cambodia in the past.

Mrs. Kennedy, looking a bit tired after her six-day stay in Cambodia, returned to Bangkok aboard a U.S. Air Force plane escorted to the Thai border by two Soviet-built Cambodian MIGs. After three days of social functions, sightseeing and shopping, she and her party leave for home early Saturday.

Sihanouk said three American Army sergeants the Viet Cong promised last week to release would probably be sent through Cambodia but added that he is "now awaiting a decision" from the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm.

"We are always willing to act as intermediaries," he said.

Reliable sources reported that the release of the three Americans was decided as a result of the death Sept. 24 of Gustav C. Hertz, a U.S. AID official kidnapped near Saigon February 1965. Hertz' death of malaria was announced in Washington Tuesday after news of it was relayed to his wife through Cambodia.

Sihanouk said Viet Cong leader Nguyen Huu Tho had informed him "they did their best to keep (Hertz) alive but he was too ill." Tho "apologized for this very sad event," he said.

Sihanouk said he told Mrs. Kennedy Ramsey's family should write to him directly, "then I can intervene with Mr. Tho."

Q—We are in our 60s and own shares of Aluminum Co. of America. Should we hold or sell?

—M. Z.

A—Aluminum producers still appear troubled by excess capacity and price weakness and this may take a while to work out. Alcoa shares have lost ground in the recent mixed market. Industry conditions should improve as the economy picks up, but action of the shares may be slow. I believe you would be better off if you switched this stock into Colgate Palmolive, a very able merchandiser. Colgate makes a wide line of cleansers and toiletries and has had a pretty consistent record of earnings growth.

The New York State Bridge Authority reports revenues down $7,783 for October compared to the same period a year ago, it was disclosed.

However, the amount of traffic using the bridges increased 90,020 over October of 1966. The financial loss is attributed to the change from 50 cents to 25 on the Newburgh-Beacon crossing.

October's monies collected amounted to $363,251 compared to last October's $371,034. Traffic counted totaled 1,323,074 vehicles. The same period a year ago reached 1,233,054.

$50,242 'Take'
The Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge showed the largest percentage increase in monies tabulated. The authority said the bridge yielded $50,242 compared to $47,003 last October. The increase amounted to 6.9 per cent. Traffic crossing the bridge hit 183,075 over 171,563 in October of 1966.

Poughkeepsie's Mid-Hudson Bridge brought in monies totaling $116,696 compared to $118,135 a year back. The decrease added to $1,438. Vehicles accounted for 434,535 from 437,728 last October.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge earned $42,188 for October.

Last year's figures were $42,976. Traffic reached 140,739 over 139,572 for October of '66.

Bear Mountain Bridge recorded $51,792 over last October's $50,159. Vehicles using the facilities added to 198,101 over 190,854 during the same period in 1966.

Traffic Up, Revenue Down

The New York State Bridge Authority reports revenues down $7,783 for October compared to the same period a year ago, it was disclosed.

However, the amount of traffic using the bridges increased 90,020 over October of 1966. The financial loss is attributed to the change from 50 cents to 25 on the Newburgh-Beacon crossing.

October's monies collected amounted to $363,251 compared to last October's $371,034. Traffic counted totaled 1,323,074 vehicles. The same period a year ago reached 1,233,054.

$50,242 'Take'
The Kingston Rhinecliff Bridge showed the largest percentage increase in monies tab-

ulated. The authority said the bridge yielded $50,242 compared to $47,003 last October. The increase amounted to 6.9 per cent. Traffic crossing the bridge hit 183,075 over 171,563 in October of 1966.

Poughkeepsie's Mid-Hudson Bridge brought in monies totaling $116,696 compared to $118,135 a year back. The decrease added to $1,438. Vehicles accounted for 434,535 from 437,728 last October.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge earned $42,188 for October.

Last year's figures were $42,976. Traffic reached 140,739 over 139,572 for October of '66.

Bear Mountain Bridge recorded $51,792 over last October's $50,159. Vehicles using the facilities added to 198,101 over 190,854 during the same period in 1966.

The Newburgh-Beacon Bridge counted receipts at $101,332 compared to $112,759 last October. However, traffic increased from October of '66's 293,337 to a high of 366,624 for this past month.

First Woman in Council; Jablonski Youngest Member

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Three precedents were set in this year's Common Council elections. A woman was elected for the first time, the youngest council member in history was elected and this year's council will serve only one year instead of the usual two.

Mrs. Shay Victor
Florence Shay Ludlow, running on the Democratic ticket, defeated incumbent Republican-Liberal George Margolis in the First Ward, 231-218. Mrs. Lud-

Clerics. Two Indicted for Blood Splash

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A federal grand jury has returned indictments against a Roman Catholic priest, a Protestant minister and two other men accused of splashing blood on draft board records Oct. 27 to protest the war in Vietnam.

The indictments Tuesday charge the four, all members of the Baltimore Interfaith Peace Mission, with injuring government property, mutilating public records, hindering selective service procedures and conspiring to break federal laws.

The Josephite priest is the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44, curate of St. Peter and Clave Church.

The others are the Rev. James Mengel, 33, a minister in the United Church of Christ; David Eberhardt, 26, a teacher and civil rights activist; and Thomas Lewis, 27, an artist.

Still Stays Dry

BANGALORE, India (AP) — Mysore State, which scrapped prohibition on Oct. 15, found it still would be comparatively dry.

The state has an unusual shortage of toddy, the fermented sap of a palm, which is a favorite drink of India's lower classes.

It seems that when prohibition was introduced in 1947, the toddy tappers went into other lines of work.

Reports on Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reported today to President Johnson, the National Security Council and some top leaders of Congress on his trip to South Vietnam and Southeast Asia.

low has the blessings of at least one man, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan who said, "That Flo is a sharp cookie. She'll keep those Republicans on their toes."

Democrat Mayor In Philadelphia Wins Reelection
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate beat the polls, his own party bosses and a young Republican challenger in a cliffhanger Tuesday to win reelection in the nation's fourth largest city.

The contest also served as a preliminary skirmish for Pennsylvania's 1968 presidential electoral votes. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had said the Keystone state could shift into the GOP column if Philadelphia elected a Republican mayor.

Republican Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, 37, a former Democrat, brought in the U.S. Senate's only Negro member, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, in a stab to siphon off some of the city's heavy Negro vote. But it didn't work.

The 57-year-old Tate, though failing to get a majority of the 717,182 votes cast, squeaked past Specter and three minority party candidates, two of them Negroes. The mayor called it "the fight of my life."

It was the tightest election here since 1911.

Democrats also captured most other offices, winning 13 of 17 council seats.

Tate got 350,585 in the unofficial tally; Specter 339,628; Cecil B. Moore of the Political Freedom party 8,775; the Rev. Leonard Small of the Consumers party 6,409; and Joseph J. Frieri of the Constitutional party 11,785.

Moore, former president of the Philadelphia chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and Smalls, a Baptist minister, are Negroes.

Tate's margin over Specter, first Jewish nominee in Philadelphia history, was 10,957, or about 1½ per cent of their combined total.

Interior Is Rocky

BOSTON (AP) — In general, New England is made up of a low coastal plain and two rocky interior uplands.

feated incumbent Emilio Primo Jr., 327-316. Primo ran on the Democrat-Liberal ticket, Jablonski on the Republican ticket.

et. A conservative, Ronald A. Cole, polled 47 votes.

This year's council, which is de-

8-5 Democrat, the same as last year's but with some different faces, will be up for election again next year due to reapportionment in the city.

One of the biggest percentages was wracked up by Peter Mancuso, incumbent Democrat-Liberal in the Eighth Ward, who won by an almost 3-1 margin over his Republican opponent, Louis Shafer. Shafer polled 178 votes, Mancuso, 506.

Newcomers ran in the Ninth, 10th and 11th Wards. James Madden (Democrat-Liberal) was victorious in the Ninth Ward over William B. Merrill,

The Tenth Ward race saw Peter C. Fisher (Republican) defeat Solly Present (Democrat-Liberal), 322-304. In the 11th Ward Joseph F. Conlin, the Democrat-Liberal, defeated Manuel Lipton, the Republican, by a 586-451 margin. Mrs. Lorraine B. Fisher, the Conservative, got four votes.

Incumbents fared better in other wards. John Naccarato was returned for his third term as the Republican alderman in the Third Ward, beating Stanley Petro Jr., the Democrat-Liberal, 810-741. Also running in that ward was Mrs. Joan Belser, a conservative, who got 57 votes.

Breeze for Epstein

Joseph Epstein (Democrat-Liberal) breezed to his second term, defeating Richard K. Fox, 57-9. Epstein's urban renewal decimated ward had a total of 82 registered voters.

Clifford Sinsabaugh also gained his second term as he beat Frank Fabbie, 320-252. Sinsabaugh is the Democrat-

Liberal, Fabbie, the Republican-Conservative.

Norton, Machione, Davis Win

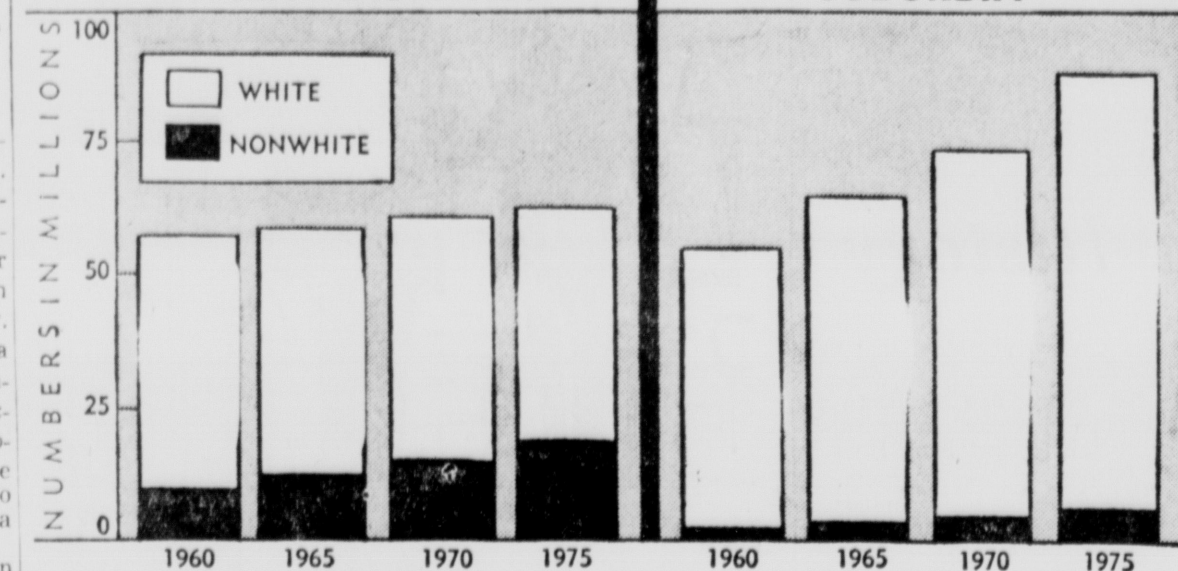

Edward Norton will be back in the council after beating his Republican opponent in the Seventh Ward, Richard Burns, 316-168. Norton ran under the Democrat-Liberal banner.

John Machione (Republican-Conservative) was reelected as he defeated James G. Gardiner (Democrat-Liberal), 1,239-837.

Finally, William G. Davis, a five-term alderman, was returned to office by the voters of the 13th Ward, defeating Theodore Letus 174-86. Mrs. Isabelle McHugh, the Conservative, polled four votes.

The council will be sworn in Jan. 1, 1968.

CHANGING CITIES

While the population of America's cities rises only slightly, their character is changing sharply. Nonwhites accounted for some 10 million out of a total 58-million central city population in 1960, about 12 per cent. Projections indicate it will be 17 million out of 61 million by 1975—28 per cent. Meanwhile, the suburbs where most of the metropolitan population increase is occurring, are becoming proportionately more solidly white. Forecasts are for nonwhites to increase from 2.85 million in 1960 to 3.5 million in 1975. But the non-white percentage of total suburban population will drop from 5 per cent to 4 per cent because of the much greater increase in white suburbanites.

Mouse House

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Raymond Gilbert, 17, hopes his "mouse ranch" will help put him through college. He began four years ago with a pair of white mice and now has more than 100 in his home at Boulder.

He sells them at anywhere from $1 to $5 a pair and says he has 27 varieties.

Profit in Drawer

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Harold Burgess paid $28 for a used cash register at a sheriff's sale, and then couldn't get the drawer open. When a repairman opened it for her, there was $76 in currency inside. Mrs. Burgess' overall profit was $3—she had to pay $45 to have the register put in working condition.

Named New England

BOSTON (AP) — Capt. John Smith, the English explorer, gave New England its name when he explored its shores in 1614.

Upstate Marine

Killed in Viet

GENEVA, N. Y. (AP) — Marine Cpl. Kenneth J. Helstrom, 20, died in Vietnam Tuesday; his parents said today.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Helstrom said their son died of a fragmentation wound suffered while in the vicinity of Quang Tri.

Senior Discounts

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Five thousand older residents of the town of Hempstead are eligible for store discounts and other benefits under a plan established by the Older Americans Advisory and Action Committee.

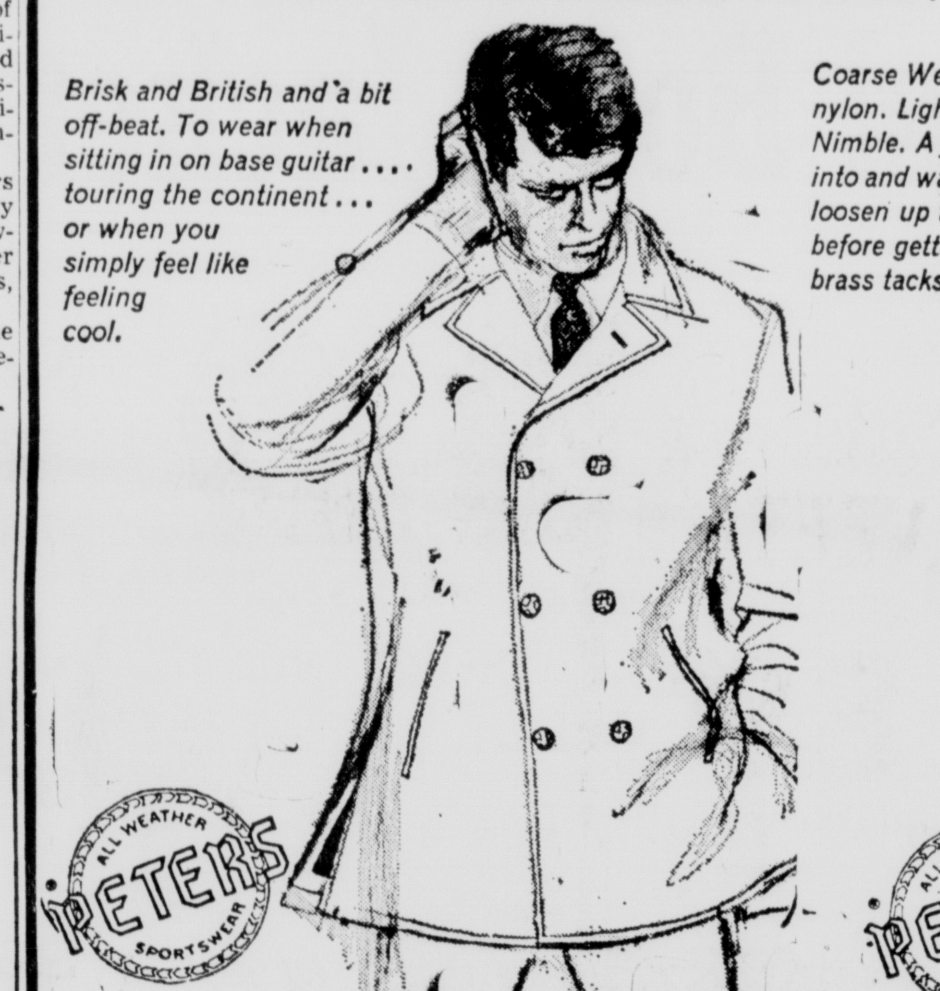

Residents 65 or more years old have been issued identity cards which entitle them to lower prices at 125 stores, lower fees at town and country parks, and half fare on one bus line.

The plan was set up by the Hempstead town board and presiding officer two years ago.

Card Burners Face Early Draft Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — College students who have turned in their draft cards to Selective Service offices as a protest gesture against the Vietnam war face the prospect of immediate call-ups.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, draft director, has told local Selective Service boards that college deferments should be denied men who refuse to carry their classification cards or who physically interfere with armed services recruiting officers visiting college campuses.

Hershey said registrants with out their cards should be reclassified as available for service, with their names advanced to the top of the draft lists.

Albany County Dems Control Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Albany County Democrats retained the party's 47-year-old control of the county Tuesday by electing a majority of representatives to the newly created county legislature.

Unofficial returns gave Democrats 23 seats on the 39-member legislature. Republicans captured 13 and the Citizens party in nearby Cohoes elected three county legislators.

Democrats controlled the previous Board of Supervisors, 30-9, but the county was redistricted this year to follow the U.S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" edict.

In the only countywide contest, the Board of Supervisors, test, Democratic incumbent, John S. Bartlett Jr., county clerk, apparently turned back a spirited bid by Mrs. Rena Posner, a Republican allied with U.S. Rep. Daniel Button. Button upset a Democratic candidate in last year's congressional elections.

In the county clerk race, Gov. Rockefeller ordered the ballots impounded at the request of the GOP county chairman, Joseph Frangella, who maintained that the election was close enough to be in doubt.

In adjoining Rensselaer County, Con G. Cholakis, a Republican-Conservative, handily defeated Democratic incumbent M. Andrew Dwyer in a contest for district attorney. Republicans also captured 24 of 35 seats on the Board of Supervisors.

Mozambique Miners

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Forty-eight per cent of the workers in coal, uranium and gold mines in neighboring South Africa are from Mozambique, the South African government's recruiting agency says.

The total number of natives from the Portuguese East African territory working in South African mines last year was 163,914, the agency said.

The workers sign up for work periods of 18 months.

Joseph Lohmaier, Republican, was reelected assessor for the four year term over Ward D. Houle, Democrat, by 1,399 votes. For the two year term as assessor Edwin F. Callahan, Republican, led his Democratic opponent, Robert E. Meyers by 1,169 votes.

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, Republican, was elected to the office of Justice of the peace over his Democratic opponent, Peter F. Tiano, by 872 votes. Councilman Anthony Cicoria, Republican, defeated his Democratic opponent, William Harbig, by 1,059 votes.

Toastmasters Hear Speakers

"Nothing is as precious as the breath of life and that breath should not be polluted," so said Gene Merigliano in a speech on Clear Air. The talk was delivered at a regular meeting of Kingston Toastmasters, held recently at the Amberlight Restaurant.

Another member, John Cielo, presented a speech entitled "Land Without People for a People Without Land, dealing with the troubled situation in the Middle East. Dr. Harry McNamara, in his talk, noted that the one ingredient to a good speech is audience. His remarks were directed toward a desire for growth in the local Toastmaster organization. Since its organization in 1924, Toastmasters International has provided training in public speaking for more than a million men. The Kingston Toastmaster Club welcomes men who are interested in learning how to conduct meetings and how to speak in public. The club meets at 7 p. m., on the first and third Thursdays of the month, at the Amberlight Restaurant, Route 28.

Toastmasters Hear Speakers

"Nothing is as precious as the breath of life and that breath should not be polluted," so said Gene Merigliano in a speech on Clear Air. The talk was delivered at a regular meeting of Kingston Toastmasters, held recently at the Amberlight Restaurant.

Another member, John Cielo, presented a speech entitled "Land Without People for a People Without Land, dealing with the troubled situation in the Middle East. Dr. Harry McNamara, in his talk, noted that the one ingredient to a good speech is audience. His remarks were directed toward a desire for growth in the local Toastmaster organization. Since its organization in 1924, Toastmasters International has provided training in public speaking for more than a million men. The Kingston Toastmaster Club welcomes men who are interested in learning how to conduct meetings and how to speak in public. The club meets at 7 p. m., on the first and third Thursdays of the month, at the Amberlight Restaurant, Route 28.

$20,000 Is Pledged to Philharmonic Society

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society has received a pledge of $20,000 to the matching endowment fund from Mrs. William W. Smith, 2nd of Poughkeepsie, it was announced today by Mrs. Sidney N. Miller, Philharmonic Society president. This gift increases to $187,329 the amount pledged to the endowment fund of $250,000 required by the Ford Foundation to match its grant to the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra.

In advising Mrs. Miller of the gift to the orchestra, Mrs. Smith stated, "Please accept my congratulations on having received a Ford Foundation grant. This is a real tribute to Mr. Monteu, yourself, and many others who have worked so hard for the Philharmonic." Acknowledging Mrs. Smith's gift, Mrs. Miller said, "We are deeply grateful to Mrs. Smith for having made such a major commitment to the continuing support of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. Her generosity and the generosity of many others who have assisted us in meeting deficit funds in the past nine years has been a most positive force in the growth of quality and achievement of the Orchestra which earned it the Ford Foundation grant. Now, that same generous spirit and pride of giving from these same people, plus many additional ones, has brought us to within within five years. The grant and the matching funds are to benefit the orchestra only as an endowment. The interest from both will be used, along with the sums raised by special benefit projects and outright gifts of cash from the annual maintenance drive, to meet the deficit of the orchestra. The operating deficit of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society for the 1967-68 season is projected to be $105,050.

$62,671 of the required amount." The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra was one of the 61 American symphonies to receive a grant from the Ford Foundation in July of 1966. Of the seven New York State orchestras included in the program, only three are located outside of New York City. The Ford Foundation grant requires that a matching amount be pledged by local supporters of the orchestra

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Why do helpless young people get chewed up by the wolves which lurk inside many humans? To make my point I've got first to tell you about the dream of a young woman under psychoanalytic treatment who had stood by while her marriage was destroyed by a wolfish mother-in-law. In her dream, an old woman was dying. Somehow, the young woman dreamer knew that the old woman had a knife hidden under her pillow. In her dream she stooped over the old woman and with utmost gentleness said:

"You don't have to hide your knife any more. We both know you own it. So I'm shipping it out from under your pillow to place it openly in the kitchen knife rack where it will be available to you whenever you must use it to cut with."

And in the dream she did precisely this. Describing it later to her doctor, she experienced what his profession calls "insight." She knew that the dying old woman was dying in herself of an old notion that she had to hide her knife—her power to defend herself against enemies. She knew what the dream's symbolic language had meant by her open placement of the knife in the kitchen rack. It had told her:

"The choice to use or not to use your sharp tongue against attackers had at last been made available to you. Your knife is ready whenever you feel it necessary to cut with it."

You young people have been trained to hide your self-defensive knives. Unaware that you own them, you've got no choice but to continue to offer Christian kindness to the werewolves when they attack you. The trouble is, it isn't either Christian or kindness. It's your effort to glorify your helplessness.

Sonata Recital

The Program of Music Instruction at UCC is sponsoring the concert.

The 45-minute program will include these selections: "Sonata in D Minor" by Debussy; "Sonata in B-flat Major" by Mozart; and "Six Rumanian Folk Dances" by Bartok.

In her dream, an old woman was dying. Somehow, the young woman dreamer knew that the old woman had a knife hidden under her pillow. In her dream she stooped over the old woman and with utmost gentleness said: "You don't have to hide your knife any more. We both know you own it. So I'm slipping it out from under your pillow to place it openly in the kitchen knife rack where it will be available to you whenever you must use it to cut with."

And in the dream she did precisely this. Describing it later to her doctor, she experienced what his profession calls "insight." She knew that the dying old woman was dying in herself of an old notion that she had to hide her knife—her power to defend herself against enemies. She knew what the dream's symbolic language had meant by her open placement of the knife in the kitchen rack. It had told her:

"The choice to use or not to use your sharp tongue against attackers had at last been made available to you. Your knife is ready whenever you feel it necessary to cut with it." You young people have been trained to hide your self-defensive knives. Unaware that you own them, you've got no choice but to continue to offer Christian kindness to the werewolves when they attack you. The trouble is, it isn't either Christian or kindness. It's your effort to glorify your helplessness.

Now, if any of you get the

AN OPEN HOUSE TO RENEW ACQUAINTANCES

Dear Mrs. Post: A few days after we were married in May, 1966, my husband and I moved to a city 350 miles from our home town. He was in the Air Force at that time. We kept in touch with a few close friends and relatives through letters. Eight months later, when we moved back to our home town, I sent out little notes to about 75 friends and acquaintances, announcing our new address and phone number. I thought this would be sort of a "hint" for each one to contact us, rather than my calling 75 people. Now after seven months, we have not received any phone calls or letters from any of these people. Was I wrong in not telephoning them? — Kathleen A.

Dear Kathleen: You were perfectly right in sending cards. I would not expect the more remote acquaintances to do more than file your card for future reference for Christmas cards, etc., but it was emiss of close friends not to call you. Although it is really up to the residents to welcome the new arrival, why don't you give a very informal open house for those you really want to see — just to get the ball rolling?

WHEN GODPARENTS COME FROM OUT-OF-TOWN

Dear Mrs. Post: We are expecting our second child next month. The Godparents we have asked are from separate families, and they live over four hundred miles away. We have only a two-bedroom house and my mother will be visiting to care for the new baby. I have two questions: 1) Should we write and explain our situation and ask if they approve of proxies? 2) Should we offer to pay their motel bill if they care to come? — Shirley Karna

Dear Mrs. Karna: When you write to request your friends to be Godparents, ask them if they will be able to attend the christening. You need not ask if they approve of proxies—I have never heard of anyone objecting to them—but explain that you will appoint proxies for them if they cannot be there, so that they will not feel too obligated if they have financial or other reasons for not attending.

You do not need to offer to pay their motel bills, but you should explain your situation, and tell them you will make motel reservations if they would like you to. If they cannot afford it, they should feel free to say so, and possibly a friend or family member might put them up for you.

Personal Remarks in Bad Taste
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it good manners, when out visiting, for a husband to speak strongly about weight and the problems his wife is having? Also, is it in good taste for one's spouse to correct a wife in front of anyone? My husband feels he is in good taste and privileged to do so, even though my friends have corrected him in my behalf. — Mrs. McG.

Dear Mrs. McG.: The answer is NO. Whether the person making the statement is a husband or a mere acquaintance, personal remarks are in the worst of taste and should be reserved for the privacy of one's own home.

Tiny Tips

When making a small girl's dress of attractive printed cotton, there is usually enough material left over to make a ruffle around a petticoat to enhance the outfit.

If you use an aluminum pan as a water bath when you are baking custard, add a tablespoon of vinegar to the water in the pan to prevent discoloring the aluminum.

Save all cherry pits, peach and plum seeds. Wash and dry them and use as filler for a child's bean-bag. They are ideal for this because they are lightweight. If the bean bag accidentally hits a youngster, it can't hurt him as a heavier bag might.

LONDON, England (AP) — "All these hippies are supposed to love everyone, yet they don't even care for those who love them most — their parents."

Shena has four works on the bookshelves already and No. 5, "Old Crow," is on the way.

Her first novel, "Toddler on the Run," was adapted for television and actors Albert Finney and Michael Medwin snapped up the option to turn it into a movie.

"When I wrote the books I wanted people to read them, but I never expected this. I'm a bit overwhelmed by it all," says Shena, who might be mistaken for one of London's small-framed miniskirted models.

And her offbeat ideas do not embrace today's young people.

"I'm a committed vegetarian said. 'When ideas came into my head during the night I wrote them down. Unfortunately, I don't do this anymore. Occasionally, even now, I get passing glimpses of what might have been my best novel.'

Shena's writing these days takes second place to her two daughters, Sarah, 2½ and Rebecca, just over a year, and her 24-year-old Anglo-Indian draftsman husband, Robin Brown.

"I do most of my writing at night when the children have gone to bed. It's not so noisy and I can think, but it takes a long time this way."

Her books are usually woven around slightly absurd situations which manage to smack of life. The reader is given an impression of sensitivity and turning wit into observation. Death is a fairly constant theme, yet Shena denies preoccupation with it. "It's the logical ending," she says. "I'm sure that we would always go on the Ban-the-Bomb Aldermaston marches at Easter."

Little Gardens Club Reviews Year's Accomplishments

The Little Gardens Club of Kingston met Thursday, Nov. 2, at the home of the president, Mrs. James J. Carroll, Mountain View Avenue, Hurley.

Mrs. George Swart was welcomed as a new member into the club.

Mrs. Marshall Hughes reported on the progress of the club's Beautification Through Planting project in the Hurley Library area. Mrs. Helen Gill had attended the Hurley Town Board meeting to ask permission to undertake this project. Approval was received from the Town Board and the matter will now be brought up at the Town of Hurley Library Board meeting on Sunday, Nov. 12.

Meeting Wednesday
There will be a planning committee meeting at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Hughes, on Wednesday to finalize the drawings which will be submitted to the National Spring Garden Planting Committee.

Mrs. LeRoy Jones gave the annual report as follows: The Little Gardens Club of Kingston with an active membership of 24 members, nine associate members and an honorary member, met from April to November on the first and third Thursdays of the month.

The program committee consists of the Mmes. George Brown, Everett Landers, LeRoy Jones. The 1967 theme was, "Gardens Are For People."

The horticulture committee included the Mmes. Marshall Hughes and Frank Hill. Members' accomplishments were evidenced by the increasing number of ribbons and awards received for entries in the Horticulture Division of the Saugerties Flower Show. Mrs. Kenneth Odell was awarded honorable mention; Mrs. George Brown won three blue ribbons, an award of merit and the sweepstakes award.

Mrs. George Brown was appointed honorary chairman of the horticulture committee due to the outstanding awards which she received. Mrs. Marshall Hughes and Mrs. Everett Landers were awarded blue ribbons in artistic arrangement division; Mrs. Race and Mrs. Brown received honorable mention awards in artistic arrangement classification.

Civic Endeavors
The club's civic endeavors included the conducting of the Arbor Day program at the Hurley Elementary School. Mrs. David Fox wrote a conservation narrative for this event and the Arbor Day committee, Mrs. Marshall Hughes, chairman; Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. LeRoy Jones, committee members, worked with fifth and sixth grade students in arranging for a most successful program. An evergreen, donated by Mrs. Helen Gill on behalf of club members, was planted at this event; flower boxes were placed at the Home for the Aged of Ulster County; 24 arrangements were made for Old Stone House Day in Hurley. A member, Miss Jane Austen, is serving as secretary of the Street, Trees and Beautification committee in Kingston and the club donated a check for $50 to this committee's tree planting project.

An associate member, Mrs. David Fox, was the recipient of a New York State Federated Garden Club Scholarship to attend on Audubon Camp in Maine for two weeks in July.

The Little Gardens Club of Kingston was invited to exhibit in the Horticultural Show at the Dutchess County Fair. A committee, composed of the Mmes. James J. Carroll, Everett Landers, Marshall Hughes and LeRoy Jones, worked diligently and produced a prize-winning theme and exhibit, "Retreat from Confusion." This award brought honor and a monetary gift of $100 to the club.

A Friendship Show was held on September 14 at the Hurley Reformed Church hall. Mrs.

Frank Race, chairman, appointed Mrs. Everett Landers and Mrs. James J. Carroll to serve with her. Mrs. Clifford Henze served as commentator for the show which was named "Composition in Melody."

Ten members attended the Third District Fall meeting in New Paltz. Mrs. Alvin McKaig gave a lecture-slide program on wildflowers and birds. Mrs. Anteo Marchetti was appointed publicity chairman for the Third District Federated Gardens Club in April 1967 and her tenure runs until April 1969.

Officers Elected
The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Harold Schadevall, Mrs. Clifford Henze and Mrs. James J. Carroll, submitted the following slate of officers for the 1967-68 Garden Club year: Mrs. Marshall Hughes, vice president; Mrs. LeRoy Jones, secretary; Mrs. Mildred Shelhorse, treasurer. The new president announced that the annual luncheon would be held at the Old Fort in New Paltz on November 9. Mrs. LeRoy Jones is in charge of arrangements. Committees for the year will be appointed at that time.

Some Library Study Necessary

By The Reading Laboratory
(Excerpted from the World Publishing Company Book, "Study Faster and Retain More.") Illustrations by Roy Doty

Now that you are familiar with the circulating section of your library, let's find out about the reference section. What materials are in it? When and how do you use them?

You recall that reference books can be used only in the library because they contain information that should be accessible to everyone, and at a moment's notice. Dictionaries, encyclopedias, atlases and almanacs are examples of reference books. They are found together in one section of the library.

You use these reference books either to collect or to collect or to check facts. They are storehouses of information — names, dates, places, words, etc. Consequently, you should not expect to spend a leisurely afternoon browsing around the reference section. When you go there, you want to find answers to specific questions, quickly.

For example, you will find a collection of dictionaries in the reference section. There will be English dictionaries, foreign language dictionaries, subject dictionaries and biographical dictionaries.

Now is the time to bring out the vocabulary lists you've been keeping for each course. Why not set aside a certain period each week to look up these words in the dictionaries in your library? You'll learn a lot about the reference section and a lot about the words.

Dictionaries tell you how to pronounce a new word, how to divide it into syllables, its derivation and its definitions.

Which brings us to another reference book for words — the thesaurus. The thesaurus helps you choose the exact word to express your thought. For every word it contains, it lists numerous synonyms and antonyms. Using the dictionary and the thesaurus will increase your vocabulary and knowledge. You will be able to spell more accurately and write more maturely.

Now consider the encyclopedias. Your library has a general encyclopedia and, perhaps, several on special subjects. They are great for verifying facts and for getting a general summary of a subject. Reading an encyclopedia article is often a good place to begin when you are trying to choose a topic for a paper. Sometimes these articles are followed by a list of books on the subject. You might look up those books if you want to do further reading.

Finally, don't forget the almanac and the atlas. If you have trouble with information that is presented visually pick a map in the atlas and for practice try describing it in words. Better still, you could even outline and summarize it.

There are many, many kinds of books for reference in the library, too many to discuss here. By now you should be aware that using the reference section is like playing detective. Follow your clues. Collect interesting facts to bring up in class or tuck away for a test. Without realizing it, you'll be building a better vocabulary, collecting a lot of background information and writing better papers.

DeGaulle's Intentions Vague Even to Closest Followers

By HARVEY HUDSON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — Mind reading and explaining are twin political obligations for the followers of President Charles de Gaulle. It is not always easy, and some times downright embarrassing.

Only a restricted few of his closest confidants can claim to know what De Gaulle really wants, what he is trying to do, where he would lead France and the world. Even those few can never be sure they are right.

De Gaulle drops copious hints of his intentions, but often uses fuzzy language that leaves room for different interpretations.

Former Premier Michel Debre was still promising that France intended to stay in Algeria long after De Gaulle had decided—on the basis of evidence available today—to get out.

That doesn't stop Gaullists from making educated guesses about the general's aims. One of them, Rene Capitant, has now come out with a succinct outline of Gaullist global strategy. De Gaulle has supplied the individual building blocks, but Capitant has fitted them together to make a clearer overall design than De Gaulle has ever sketched.

Writing in the Gaullist weekly Notre Republique—Our Republic—Capitant said: "The world of tomorrow will have three poles: in the West, the Anglo-Saxon world; in the East, China; in the center, Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals."

"There, defined with a singular force, are the essential elements of the European problem."

"On one side are the partisans of a little Europe, historically linked to the twin poles (Russia and the United States) of 6947. Their aim is to tie as tightly as possible Western Europe to America. This was only half of Europe, of a Europe divided and torn apart as Poland was for a long time.

"The Gaullist vision of a big Europe is much different. It is of a Europe that is reconciled, reunified, finding again with its historical frontiers its essential structure of nations recovering their independence but henceforth resolved to organize their cooperation on a basis of quality."

"In such a perspective, national independence is the condition for European reunification: The independence of the nations of Western Europe from Washington; the independence of the nations of central Europe from Moscow; without in any way questioning the fact that Russia belongs to Europe. Because Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev are European and it would be a new mutilation of Europe to stop at Brest-Litovsk."

Capitant is a law professor who was minister of education in De Gaulle's provisional government in Algiers during World War II, then in the first Cabinet of De Gaulle in Paris in 1944-45. He is a leader of the left wing of the Gaullist majority in the French National Assembly.

De Gaulle moves slowly and cautiously on all of his big undertakings, leaving himself ample room for maneuver.

Every branch of the French government is straining to set up new political, economic, cultural and technical links with Eastern European nations. De Gaulle himself has made highly publicized trips to the Soviet Union and Poland. Premier Georges Pompidou and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville also have the satellite nations on their travel schedules. Eastern European officials, from premiers on down, are given extremely warm welcomes in France.

Commercial relations are expanding but are still at an extremely low level.

Although French officials have insisted they have no objection in principle to the eventual entry of Great Britain into the Common Market, Capitant's definition of the "Anglo-Saxon world" in the West would seem definitely to lump Great Britain with the United States and Canada, outside the pale of De Gaulle's Europe.

Through historical affinity, tradition, commercial and cultural habits, France has long been much more closely attached to its Atlantic neighbors than to the Eastern European nations.

But this pattern does not conform to De Gaulle's visions of the future. He has not yet completely broke with his old friends—though he has strained their patience—but the general direction of his movements seems more and more clear.

Kingston League of Women Voters Nearing End of Annual Fund Drive

The League of Women Voters of Kingston is hoping to complete its annual financial drive in the next few weeks.

Funds are badly needed to support the various community services which the League sponsors. This year, as in the past, the League of Women Voters has been active in helping the voter to gain information on current campaign issues.

Last week a voter information center was set up at the Kingston Plaza, and thousands of copies of the Freeman supplement, Voters Guide, were distributed throughout the county along with other non-partisan publications.

On Oct. 30 the League sponsored a local candidates meeting which gave the voters of Kingston a chance to hear and question candidates for the County Legislature. League members have worked hard to encourage registration and to teach citizens how to use the voting machine.

In addition, the League of Women Voters maintains a speaker's bureau to serve any local organizations who are interested in presenting a program relevant to citizenship education.

These community services require financial backing as well as volunteer workers, and unless additional funds can be obtained there is a continued need for League activities must necessarily be curtailed, a spokesman said.

There have been many citizens who have expressed an interest in the League's non-partisan policies. Anyone who feels that there is a continued need for such an organization in the community can express their support by a contribution sent to UPO Box 564, Kingston.

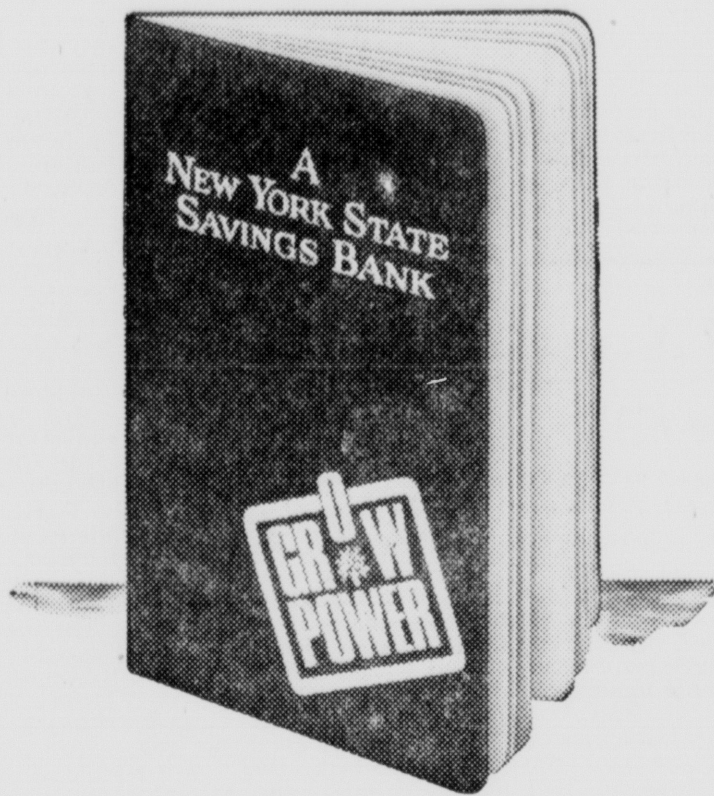

Lions' Governor Coming

District Governor Albert H. LaVine will make an official visit to the Kingston Lions Club and has been a director for 10 years. He has won the Key Member award, the District Governor award, and has had 13 years perfect attendance as a Lion.

LaVine has also been the author of several articles which have appeared in The Lion, the magazine of Lions International, which is sent to over 800,000 members throughout the world. LaVine graduated from Syracuse University in 1942 with a degree in landscape engineering. He served as photogrammetric engineer during World War II. He is married to the former Blanche Pollets of Middletown where they reside with their four children. LaVine is sales manager and secretary treasurer with the Orange County Plumbing Supply, Middletown.

Girl Scout Volunteers Feted At Annual Recognition Dinner

More than 90 adult volunteers attended the annual recognition buffet dinner of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts recently at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Richard B. Mathews acted as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Mrs. Randolph Siegel, president of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, in a short talk, Eagles, Trefoils, Feathers, emphasized the importance of people involving themselves in community affairs. Mrs. Calvin Wygant of Marlboro made the introductory speech introducing a group of scouts who had joined the organization as Brownie Girl Scouts and moved through the progressive levels into adult scouting. Outstanding members of this group was Mrs. Harry Hoffman, who received also the thanks of the council for the excellent work she has performed as neighborhood chairman in building the Saugerties neighborhood into the second largest in the Council.

Chester Award

William Stall, Community Chest representative accepted an Appreciation Certificate from the Scout council to the chest thanking them for their support of scouting. Stall in turn presented Mrs. William Fisher and Mrs. Marlon Hutchinson, co-chairmen of the Woodstock-

West Hurley Chest drive with a "Chester" award for a thoroughly successful drive having reached 140 per cent of their quota, due largely to their untiring efforts.

Mrs. Helene Fagan accepted an award for Mrs. Robert Dolan, who was unable to attend, whose advice and constructive criticism has resulted in some very good Girl Scout publicity.

Mrs. Ronald Hill, Council Piper, received commendation for the Girl Scout float which participated in the Chest Parade. As part of her function to provide more scouting opportunities to girls in the area Mrs. Hill introduced Senior Scout graduates Patricia Umhey, Ontario; Kathleen Halstead and Elizabeth Benson, Highland; and Patricia Sommers, Kerhonkson. Each girl received a miniature scout pin and an invitation to continue in scouting on the adult level. These were all girls who had been Girl Scouts from Brownie through Senior Scouting.

Camp Service

Miss Anne Lummis, field advisor, presented Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cornwell with scrolls in appreciation of their many hours of volunteer service on the camp committee. Mrs. Walter Bojman, Day Camp Director thanked the many people present who had volunteered their aid to the day camp pilot project this summer and presented each with a token award.

A very special award of a Girl Scout Statuette was made to Miss Esther Riseley of Alban, who was unable to attend. The presentation was made on behalf of the council by Mrs. David Ennie who emphasized the many years of service given to scouting by Miss Riseley and of her special ability to sense the special needs of each girl and the wisdom to help them develop into useful citizens.

Mrs. John Murdoch, dinner chairman received the thanks of all present for an excellent evening's program.

Pete Mathews entertained the group with his banjo playing and led the group in singing a number of old time favorites.

Albany Hot Election Town

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Albany area firemen were kept busy election night, extinguishing 90 fires which, they said, were started by roving gangs of teen-agers.

All but a few were bonfires, apparently started from igniting pools of gasoline. One erupted in a sewer in nearby Rensselaer, firemen said, after youths emptied gasoline from the tank of an automobile and it drained into the sewer.

Police received numerous complaints of teen-agers spreading gasoline on leaves and pouring it into trash cans. All of the fires, including at least three in buildings, were brought under control quickly, firemen said.

Killed in Crash

WELLSBORO, Pa. (AP) — Robert A. Erway, 45, of Rt. 2, Middlebury, was killed Monday night when, police said, he apparently fell asleep while returning from work in Corning, N.Y., and his auto left the road and struck an abutment.

Girl Scout Volunteers Feted At Annual Recognition Dinner

More than 90 adult volunteers attended the annual recognition buffet dinner of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts recently at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Richard B. Mathews acted as master of ceremonies for the evening.

Mrs. Randolph Siegel, president of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, in a short talk, Eagles, Trefoils, Feathers, emphasized the importance of people involving themselves in community affairs. Mrs. Calvin Wygant of Marlboro made the introductory speech introducing a group of scouts who had joined the organization as Brownie Girl Scouts and moved through the progressive levels into adult scouting. Outstanding members of this group was Mrs. Harry Hoffman, who received also the thanks of the council for the excellent work she has performed as neighborhood chairman in building the Saugerties neighborhood into the second largest in the Council.

Chester Award

William Stall, Community Chest representative accepted an Appreciation Certificate from the Scout council to the chest thanking them for their support of scouting. Stall in turn presented Mrs. William Fisher and Mrs. Marlon Hutchinson, co-chairmen of the Woodstock-

West Hurley Chest drive with a "Chester" award for a thoroughly successful drive having reached 140 per cent of their quota, due largely to their untiring efforts.

Mrs. Helene Fagan accepted an award for Mrs. Robert Dolan, who was unable to attend, whose advice and constructive criticism has resulted in some very good Girl Scout publicity.

Mrs. Ronald Hill, Council Piper, received commendation for the Girl Scout float which participated in the Chest Parade. As part of her function to provide more scouting opportunities to girls in the area Mrs. Hill introduced Senior Scout graduates Patricia Umhey, Onteora; Kathleen Halstead and Elizabeth Benson, Highland; and Patricia Sommers, Kerhonkson. Each girl received a miniature scout pin and an invitation to continue in scouting on the adult level. These were all girls who had been Girl Scouts from Brownie through Senior Scouting.

Camp Service

Miss Anne Lummis, field advisor, presented Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cornwell with scrolls in appreciation of their many hours of volunteer service on the camp committee. Mrs. Walter Bojman, Day Camp Director thanked the many people present who had volunteered their aid to the day camp pilot project this summer and presented each with a token award.

A very special award of a Girl Scout Statuette was made to Miss Esther Riseley of Allaben, who was unable to attend. The presentation was made on behalf of the council by Mrs. David Ennie who emphasized the many years of service given to scouting by Miss Riseley and of her special ability to sense the special needs of each girl and the wisdom to help them develop into useful citizens.

Mrs. John Murdoch, dinner chairman received the thanks of all present for an excellent evening's program.

Pete Mathews entertained the group with his banjo playing and led the group in singing a number of old time favorites.

Albany Hot Election Town

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Albany area firemen were kept busy election night, extinguishing 90 fires which, they said, were started by roving gangs of teen-agers.

All but a few were bonfires, apparently started from igniting pools of gasoline. One erupted in a sewer in nearby Rensselaer, firemen said, after youths emptied gasoline from the tank of an automobile and it drained into the sewer.

Police received numerous complaints of teen-agers spreading gasoline on leaves and pouring it into trash cans.

All of the fires, including at least three in buildings, were brought under control quickly, firemen said.

Needs Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's signature is all that is needed to continue Secret Service protection for Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children until March 1, 1969.

The Senate approved the measure by a voice vote Tuesday and sent it on to the White House. The House passed the measure 302-11 Monday.

We'll Miss You

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Singer Anita Bryant, for the first time in eight years, will not accompany Bob Hope on his annual Christmas visit to U.S. servicemen.

"It's just that my children are getting old enough to understand Christmas and I feel I should be with them," she explained.

Marks 105th

NEW YORK (AP) — Bishop Herbert E. Welch of Christ Methodist Church said he felt "pretty good, considering" as he celebrated his 105th birthday Tuesday.

The bishop was president of Ohio Wesleyan University from 1905 to 1916. In later years he worked primarily in the far east.

Bishop Welch lives with his daughter.

May Be Blonde

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The driver wheeling a big city bus through downtown commuter traffic in Spokane next week could turn out to be a demure blonde.

R. W. Harder, manager of Spokane City Lines, said the firm has been unable to find qualified men for the job and woman drivers have worked out well.

"They are dependable and have received many compliments from bus passengers," he said of the nine housewives hired recently to work part time and on split shifts.

Harder said three of the nine will be made full-time drivers next week.

Favors Move Asking LBJ Copper Action

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Jack Williams suggested today that the Arizona legislature should pass a joint resolution asking the White House to take action toward ending the current copper strike.

Williams, at a news conference, said an estimated $21.5 million in wages have been lost to 10,800 copper workers in Arizona.

The governor said that if the strike is not settled by Jan. 1, the state may have to refund $2 million to $3 million in tax money to the copper companies as a "tax loss carry back."

"Should the strike last into December or later, it is not unlikely that the mining companies in their Arizona operations will show a loss for the calendar year and will file for a tax loss carryback," Williams said.

In suggesting that the legislature, now in a special session, pass a resolution, Williams noted that appeals by the governors of the copper states for White House action have failed.

The first railroad passenger and freight station in the United States was opened in Baltimore, Md.

Airline, 2 Pilots Sue For $694,619

NEW YORK (AP) — Greylock Airways and a pilot and co-pilot — both injured in a two-plane crash that killed three persons — have filed a $694,619 damage suit.

Among the defendants is Raymond J. Holleran, a Federal Aviation Administration employee who allegedly was negligent "in the failure to render air traffic control services" at La Guardia Airport at the time of the crash last May 1.

The suit was filed in Federal Court Tuesday by Greylock, Russell L. Pomeroy of Lanesboro, Mass., a pilot for the company, and Douglas A. Arnold of Richmond, Mass., co-pilot.

Pomeroy and Arnold were in the cockpit of an airliner which was in collision with a small private plane on a La Guardia Airport runway.

All three persons in the rented single-engine Piper Cherokee were killed. Thirteen persons on the airliner, a two-engine DeHavilland Dove, were injured.

Greylock's Yankee Airlines Service has operated a shuttle between Pittsfield, Mass., and La Guardia Airport for five years.

The complaint in the suit alleges an equipment fault in the small plane.

Defendants named with Holleran, who was in the control tower, are the estate of Joseph R. Buccini of Binghamton, N.Y., named as the pilot of the small plane; Buccini's employer, MacIntosh Laboratories Inc., for which he was on a business trip and Broome County Aviation Inc., which rented the plane to Buccini.

The suit asks $250,000 each for Pomeroy and Arnold for their injuries; $144,619 for replacement of the Greylock plane and $50,000 for the cost of renting a substitute until the plane could be replaced.

Needs Signature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's signature is all that is needed to continue Secret Service protection for Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children until March 1, 1969.

The Senate approved the measure by a voice vote Tuesday and sent it on to the White House. The House passed the measure 302-11 Monday.

We'll Miss You

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Singer Anita Bryant, for the first time in eight years, will not accompany Bob Hope on his annual Christmas visit to U.S. servicemen.

"It's just that my children are getting old enough to understand Christmas and I feel I should be with them," she explained.

Marks 105th

NEW YORK (AP) — Bishop Herbert E. Welch of Christ Methodist Church said he felt "pretty good, considering" as he celebrated his 105th birthday Tuesday.

The bishop was president of Ohio Wesleyan University from 1905 to 1916. In later years he worked primarily in the far east.

Bishop Welch lives with his daughter.

May Be Blonde

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — The driver wheeling a big city bus through downtown commuter traffic in Spokane next week could turn out to be a demure blonde.

R. W. Harder, manager of Spokane City Lines, said the firm has been unable to find qualified men for the job and woman drivers have worked out well.

"They are dependable and have received many compliments from bus passengers," he said of the nine housewives hired recently to work part time and on split shifts.

Harder said three of the nine will be made full-time drivers next week.

Favors Move Asking LBJ Copper Action

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Gov. Jack Williams suggested today that the Arizona legislature should pass a joint resolution asking the White House to take action toward ending the current copper strike.

Williams, at a news conference, said an estimated $21.5 million in wages have been lost to 10,800 copper workers in Arizona.

The governor said that if the strike is not settled by Jan. 1, the state may have to refund $2 million to $3 million in tax money to the copper companies as a "tax loss carry back."

"Should the strike last into December or later, it is not unlikely that the mining companies in their Arizona operations will show a loss for the calendar year and will file for a tax loss carryback," Williams said.

In suggesting that the legislature, now in a special session, pass a resolution, Williams noted that appeals by the governors of the copper states for White House action have failed.

The first railroad passenger and freight station in the United States was opened in Baltimore, Md.

Airline, 2 Pilots Sue For $694,619

NEW YORK (AP) — Greylock Airways and a pilot and co-pilot — both injured in a two-plane crash that killed three persons — have filed a $694,619 damage suit.

Among the defendants is Raymond J. Holleran, a Federal Aviation Administration employee who allegedly was negligent "in the failure to render air traffic control services" at La Guardia Airport at the time of the crash last May 1.

The suit was filed in Federal Court Tuesday by Greylock, Russell L. Pomeroy of Lanesboro, Mass., a pilot for the company, and Douglas A. Arnold of Richmond, Mass., co-pilot.

Pomeroy and Arnold were in the cockpit of an airliner which was in collision with a small private plane on a La Guardia Airport runway.

All three persons in the rented single-engine Piper Cherokee were killed. Thirteen persons on the airliner, a two-engine DeHavilland Dove, were injured. Greylock's Yankee Airlines Service has operated a shuttle between Pittsfield, Mass., and La Guardia Airport for five years.

The complaint in the suit alleges an equipment fault in the small plane.

Defendants named with Holleran, who was in the control tower, are the estate of Joseph R. Bucci of Binghamton, N.Y., named as the pilot of the small plane; Bucci's employer, MacIntosh Laboratories Inc., for which he was on a business trip and Broome County Aviation Inc., which rented the plane to Bucci.

The suit asks $250,000 each for Pomeroy and Arnold for their injuries; $144,619 for replacement of the Greylock plane and $50,000 for the cost of renting a substitute until the plane could be replaced.

Incomplete returns for 14 districts, A. Michael Schovel, Saugerties businessman unseated incumbent Republican Supervisor Peter M. Williams, who had served the township for 18 years.

Schovel, Democratic candidate and owner of Schovel Tree and Landscaping Service won by a 627 plurality 3,299 to 2,672.

Williams, a prominent legislator on the county level also lost his bid for one of the four seats allocated to Saugerties on the county board. He ran eighth in a field of 12.

The Democrats elected two members to the county board, Richard Thornton and Paul Brazier. The other two posts were won by Republicans, Clifford Snyder and C. Freeman Lasher. The totals were Thornton D. 3,061; Snyder R. 2,931; Lasher R. 2,899, and Brazier D. 2,789.

A. MICHAEL SCHOVEL

tals were Rinaldi R. 2,935; Turner R. 2,734; Howard A. Wittenbecker D. 2,727; Robert E. Gardner D. 2,660; Edwin Olsen, Conservative, 533 and Thomas B. Atkins, Cons., 421.

Republican Michael E. Catalinotto won the justice of the peace post over Nathan A. Aaron, 3,019 to 2,619. Frank Greimel, Cons. polled 357.

Republican incumbent Town Clerk Marion Newkirk was returned to office, winning 3,686 to 2,292 for Joan W. Keefe, Democrat.

William R. Brown, incumbent Republican town superintendent of highways was reelected 3,362 to 2,655 for Salvatore L. Ferraro, Democrat.

Ernest E. Schirmer, Republican incumbent police justice headed the local GOP ticket, winning 3,384 to 2,195 over Joseph J. Lack, Democrat. Schirmer also polled 458 Conservative votes.

Saugerties voters soundly defeated all four referendum proposals.

Schovel in his upset victory over Williams won 13 out of 14 Saugerties districts, losing only in District 4.

Red Offensive Looms

SAIGON (AP) — A fierce U.S. Marine battle with North Vietnamese troops, Communist attacks up and down the country on provincial capitals and refugee hamlets, and heavy air strikes against North Vietnam that cost three American warplanes were reported today.

U.S. Marines charged through a screen of American tear gas to take a heavily fortified village which the North Vietnamese abandoned Tuesday after nearly 24 hours of hard fighting and bombardment in the coastal lowlands 27 miles south of Da Nang.

Saturn Poised For Thursday Workhorse Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 5 super-rocket is poised today for Thursday's high-stakes flight to test its worthiness as a thoroughbred workhorse of the American space program.

Technicians scrambled in the shadow of the 36-story-high machine to complete the countdown ticking toward a 7 a.m. EST Thursday launch.

The workmen spent Tuesday readying an Apollo spacecraft, much like the one astronauts will use for the moon trip, for its ride atop Saturn 5. Today's chores called for checkouts and first fueling of the rocket itself. Worksheets for today were punctuated with stop-points where the space agency must decide if things are going well enough to continue. If work lags, a built-in 7½-hour hold can be used to catch up, and a Thursday launch could be delayed to as late as midday.

Never before has the space agency launched anything as big, powerful and complicated as Saturn 5, but this is the vehicle built to send Americans on their way to the moon.

The mighty ship is crammed with equipment untested in space. Although its maiden flight is to be unmanned and only 8½ hours long, cameras and sensors aboard seek answers to thousands of open questions about the rocket's limitations.

The Saturn 5 weighs 6 million pounds, of which 5.6 million pounds is propellant, enough to orbit the combined weight of everything America has sent into space before.

Its first stage, untested in flight, is to spend most of the total rocket's fuel and thrust to lift it 38½ miles over the Atlantic.

There, the oxygen-hydrogen powered second stage, also making its flight debut, is to take over and carry the vehicle up to 117 miles. The proven third stage is to place itself and the Apollo craft into a circular parking orbit.

After two revolutions, the third stage will be called upon to restart in space for the first time, sending the Apollo ship on a course much like the one through the tribes during 1616 moon-bound astronauts would fly.

machine-gun crossfire from the enemy. The Leathernecks said they found 36 enemy bodies, but terrified villagers said the retreating Communists carried away at least two dozen of their dead.

Communist units also showed increased ferocity in meeting U.S. probes in which 30 Americans and 78 of the enemy were reported killed at Loc Ninh, 71 miles northwest of Saigon, and near Dak To, in the central highlands.

The step-up Communist activity and in Red opposition to U.S. search operations appeared to indicate that the Communists are not being as elusive as they have been and may be moving into positions for new thrusts on several fronts now that the monsoon rains have moved north. Intelligence reports indicate there are at least five Communist divisions in central Vietnam that may be poised for new offensives.

In the Mekong Delta, the Viet Cong launched a series of mortar and ground assaults before dawn on an airfield, a South Vietnamese special forces company with American advisers and the provincial capital of Cao Lanh. Fifty mortar rounds slammed into the provincial capital, killing two children and an adult and wounding 68 others.

Near China Border

In the air, Air Force fighter-bombers flew to within 21 miles of Red China's border Tuesday to again attack one of North Vietnam's two rail links with China. Navy planes hit the An Ninh Ngao shipyard and repair facility 12 miles northwest of Haiphong, apparently for the first time.

The Marine battle below Da Nang began Monday with a helicopter assault into a valley to kick off Operation Essex but the U.S. Command kept the drive under security wraps until today.

AP correspondent Bob Ohman, with units of the 5th Marine Regiment in the assault, reported two platoons were pinned down in rice paddies in a crossfire from enemy machine guns shortly after the landing.

$1.7 Million Pact

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Four contracts totaling $1.7 million to supply ceramic armor for protection of U. S. service men in Vietnam have been received by the Carborundum Co.

The largest contract, a $1.2-million order for the armor, was placed by Sikorsky Aircraft Co. for use in its CH54 Flying Crane helicopter, Carborundum said Monday.

A $450,000 order of the protective material was made by the U. S. Defense Supply Agency for personnel body armor. Carborundum received smaller contracts from Grumman Aircraft Co. for the material's use in its YAS 2D aircraft, and from Bell Aerosystems Co. for protection of its air-cushion vehicle.

Today in Washington

No Intervention
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — An expert on Communist China says that country isn't likely to get into the Vietnam war.

Alice Langley Hsieh of the Rand Corp., a research organization, told a House-Senate Atomic Energy subcommittee that despite China's public warlike attitude, its thinking is "entirely defensive" when it comes to possible nuclear war with the United States.

Cablegram Joke
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson got a good laugh when he alluded to Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's public release of a White House message to a Johnson aide during the recent ocean-going National Governors Conference.

The radio message, sent to director Price Daniel of the Office of Emergency Planning, discussed strategy for gaining support among the governors for Johnson's Vietnam policy, but ended up in the hands of the California governor—who made it public.

The President, speaking at the White House Tuesday before signing the Public Broadcasting Act, discussed the miracles of modern communications and how "every minute, billions of telegraph messages chatter around the world."

Then Johnson broke out in a wide grin, looked around at his East Room audience and said "Some are intercepted on ships."

There was a burst of laughter.

Reagan has maintained he got a copy of the message by accident during the governors' cruise aboard the SS Independence last month. He said he had not intercepted the message.

Capital Footnotes
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The State Department says this country will provide four planes to the International Red Cross for evacuation of some 2,000 mercenaries and Katangese rebels who fled following recent defeat in the Congo, provided the air lift is an international effort and that safety plans for air crews are worked out.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has told the airlines they can continue for another year to charge extra for jet transportation if they also extend reduced fares for "Discover America" flights.

Geneva GOP Win
GENEVA, N. Y. (AP)—Republican Michael Simeone was elected mayor Tuesday as he led the GOP to a smashing victory over the ruling Democrats.

Simeone defeated Democrat William Toner by a better than 2 to 1 majority.

Mayor Donald Eades, a Democrat, declined to seek reelection after serving two terms.

Democrats, in control of the City Council, 5 to 4, surrendered to the GOP, 8 to 1.

Too Much Muscle
HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Hawaii Island archers are too strong-armed for an indoor archery range in Hilo.

County Safety Coordinator Peter Crivello reports that arrows have been piercing the walls of the county band's practice room and bandmaster's office, which are back to back with the range, protected only by bales of excelsior.

Crivello has recommended relocating the indoor archery range.

McGowan Never State Official: Rocky's Office

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A prominent Republican from Suffolk County, alleged to have profited from the land deals involving zoning changes, never was considered a state official even though he headed a state committee, Gov. Rockefeller's office says.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Rockefeller's press secretary said Edward McGowan "is not now and has never been a state employee..."

On Span Group

Leslie B. Slote said that McGowan, a former Islip Town leader, was named in 1964 as chairman of a state committee that studied putting a bridge across Long Island Sound.

Slote's statement was issued in connection with a report in Newsday, a Long Island newspaper, that McGowan and his partners realized large profits in real estate through McGowan's political office and his inside information on zoning.

In a copyrighted story last Thursday, Newsday said one transaction involved a garden apartment development in Central Islip. McGowan and his partners allegedly made a profit of $450,000 on an investment of $38,825, Newsday said.

Slote's statement was based on a report submitted by the governor's counsel, Robert R. Douglass.

The governor had requested Douglass to study the Newsday report.

Unsalaries Post

Slote said McGowan served on "an unsalaried advisory committee to the superintendent of public works."

The committee was investigating the feasibility of constructing a bridge between Long Island and New England.

Slote said the bridge committee's function ended in March 1967.

The Suffolk County district attorney has been asked by the governor to make a "thorough investigation" of the reports, Slote said.

In September, Newsday reported land transactions involving Walter M. Conlon of Sayville, appointed by Gov. Rockefeller as a member of the State Tax Commission.

Douglass also investigated those allegations at the request of Rockefeller and reported finding no evidence of wrongdoing.

Shot to Death

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Sylvester Collins, 28, is dead of a bullet wound inflicted during a fight at Genesee County labor camp Saturday.

Collins died Tuesday at Rochester General Hospital. Police previously had charged Henry Randolph, 37, with first-degree assault.

They said the shooting at the Robert Smith labor camp at East Bethany, southwest of here, climaxed a two-day dispute between the men, both camp residents.

Randolph was arrested after the shooting.

The labor camp is on East Road.

Jamestown Upset

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Charles B. Magnuson was elected mayor, upsetting Democratic Mayor Frederick H. Dunn as Republicans took all 12 seats on the city council Tuesday.

The council was controlled by the Democrats 11 to 1 before the Republicans scored their landslide victory. The GOP takes over Jan. 1.

Magnuson defeated Dunn by an unofficial vote of 9,255 to 5,259.

No State Secret

DENVER (AP) — When Dr. Johnnie Ains was in Bucharest, someone stole a technical paper from her hotel room. The University of Denver speech professor said if the thief decoded it, he must have been puzzled.

It was written in phonetics on the subject, "The Anglicization of Hispanic Place Names in Colorado."

Schoharie County Elects Dead Man

SUMMIT, N.Y. (AP)—Voters in this Schoharie County community Tuesday re-elected as a justice of the peace a man who died while campaigning for the office.

Stephen P. Martin, 65, died Monday of an apparent heart attack. Martin, a Democrat, received 210 votes while 135 votes were cast for his opponent, Republican Howard Edwards.

Kentucky Has GOP Governor, First Since '43

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Louie B. Nunn, a country lawyer, has been elected the first Republican governor of Kentucky in 24 years but Democrats have kept control of the legislature and lieutenant governorship.

The mild upset Tuesday did not provide a firm clue on whether Nunn's denunciation of President Johnson's policies was a major contributing factor.

Nunn said, "Perhaps it's a victory for the people of America because I'm sure they're taking not tonight at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue."

Nunn defeated Democrat Henry Ward, a former highway commissioner supported by the state regime, by about 21,000 votes in a moderate turnout.

With 2,927 of 3,031 precincts reporting, Nunn had 429,931 and Ward 408,403.

The victory was a comeback from a previous defeat in 1963 when Nunn lost to Gov. Edward T. Breathitt by only 13,000 votes.

Ward, 58, had three decades of political and governmental experience but was regarded by many as an unglamorous candidate lacking voter appeal.

Nunn, a 43-year-old former county judge from South Kentucky, criticized Ward's record and the two past Democratic regimes for what he called reckless spending and disregard of the little man.

His basic theme was that it was time for a change at the state capitol at Frankfort and an opportunity to show the President that Kentuckians oppose national and Vietnam policies.

However, his campaign was a departure from the 1963 script—when he heatedly denounced an integration order of then-Gov. Bert Combs and emotionally defended Bible reading in schools despite a U.S. Supreme Court decision to the contrary.

Although Ward repeatedly said Nunn was running a disgraceful campaign filled with bigotry, Nunn's pitch on state issues was comparatively mild.

For example, both nominees opposed open housing, but Nunn declared it should be a local issue and Ward came out for a state statute against local open occupancy ordinances.

Ward disassociated himself with the Democrats nationally, inviting no out-of-state speakers on his behalf and never raising the question of national policies.

2 Upstate Marines Killed in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two more upstate New York servicemen have been killed in the Vietnam war, the Defense Department said Tuesday.

The victims were: Marine Cpl. Willett R. Amendola, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Amendola, Loomis Hill, Deposit.

Marine Lance Cpl. Patrick J. Dearborn, son of Gilbert Dearborn, Buffalo.

Dies in Fire

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Lorrie Hotaling, 16-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hotaling, perished in a fire that swept a home on the city's outskirts Tuesday.

Hotaling suffered burns on his hands while trying to rescue the child, who apparently was asleep in her crib when the fire started.

McGowan Never State Official: Rocky's Office

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A prominent Republican from Suffolk County, alleged to have profited from the land deals involving zoning changes, never was considered a state official even though he headed a state committee, Gov. Rockefeller's office says.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Rockefeller's press secretary said Edward McGowan "is not now and has never been a state employee."

On Span Group

Leslie B. Slote said that McGowan, a former Islip Town leader, was named in 1964 as chairman of a state committee that studied putting a bridge across Long Island Sound.

Slote's statement was issued in connection with a report in Newsday, a Long Island newspaper, that McGowan and his partners realized large profits in real estate through McGowan's political office and his inside information on zoning.

In a copyrighted story last Thursday, Newsday said one transaction involved a garden apartment development in Central Islip. McGowan and his partners allegedly made a profit of $450,000 on an investment of $38,825, Newsday said.

Slote's statement was based on a report submitted by the governor's counsel, Robert R. Douglass.

The governor had requested Douglass to study the Newsday report.

Unsalaries Post

Slote said McGowan served on "an unsalaried advisory committee to the superintendent of public works."

The committee was investigating the feasibility of constructing a bridge between Long Island and New England.

Slote said the bridge committee's function ended in March 1967.

The Suffolk County district attorney has been asked by the governor to make a "thorough investigation" of the reports, Slote said.

In September, Newsday reported land transactions involving Walter M. Conlon of Sayville, appointed by Gov. Rockefeller as a member of the State Tax Commission.

Douglass also investigated those allegations at the request of Rockefeller and reported finding no evidence of wrongdoing.

Former Resident Wants Infantry Duty in Vietnam

Sergeant Major Ira S. Rion, a former resident of Kingston and a brother of Mrs. Raymond Armater of 84 Washington Avenue, who served as command sergeant major of Headquarters, 18th Artillery Group, for the Pittsburgh Defense, recently volunteered for service in Vietnam. He traded his artillery brass for infantry as he departed for duty with the 1st Infantry Division in Vietnam.

Army Commendation Medal and the Purple Heart. Along with his enlisted rank of sergeant major, SMG Rion also holds a commission as a major in the United States Army Reserve.

Cancer Research

KOHALA, Hawaii (AP) — A jellyfish that has shown promise in producing an anticancer agent is being studied by Dr. Frank L. Tabrah, assistant professor of clinical pharmacology at the University of Hawaii's School of Medicine.

Dr. Tabrah has been experimenting with an abstract from the tenacles of sea creatures in the treatment of mouse cancer.

He scooped up the jellyfish, shaped like a eight-inch dinner plate with a knobby teacup on top and trailing its tenacles from the central mass, in Hawaii Island's Kawaihae Harbor.

A career man, SMG Rion was given a farewell party at Pittsburgh Defense Headquarters, at which time Colonel M. R. McCarthy, commanding officer of the 18th Artillery Group, pointed out that SMG Rion had done an outstanding job for the Pittsburgh Defense. He said he had been a fine liaison between the commander and enlisted men as well as an administrator of the Group S1 Section. He was presented with a wrist watch.

During his 24 years in the army, SMG Rion has received numerous awards and commendations, including the Bronze Star with V Device, the Combat Infantry Badge, the

6 County Executive Seats Go Republican

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republican emerged today from election contests for six county executive seats with four definite victories and hopes of adding a fifth—in Nassau, where Democrats held a narrow lead. The GOP nailed down triumphs in county executive races in Dutchess, Erie, Onondaga and Otsego counties and demanded a re-count of the ballots in the Nassau test.

Appears Winner

Incumbent Democrat Eugene H. Nickerson appeared early today to have defeated Republican Sol Watchler by an 845 vote margin. But Nassau County Republican Chairman Edward J. Speno called for another tabulation in the hard fought contest.

The county executive battles were among scores of local contests that aroused an unusual amount of voter interest in the off-year election.

From elections in 48 cities—some of which involved no contests—Republicans came out with control of at least 24 city halls, Democrats with at least 14 and an independent party with one.

At Utica, scene of one of the most heated mayoral campaigns in many years, Dominick Assaro, a 41-year-old Democrat who bucked the Democratic organization successfully, unseated incumbent Republican Frank M. Dulan.

The contest had been marked by Assaro's charge accusing Dulan of spreading false rumors linking Assaro with the Mafia.

Assaro received strong personal support from U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

other county executive contests wound up.

County Contests

In Suffolk, Democratic incumbent H. Lee Dennison won a third, four-year term, defeating Republican Gilbert C. Hanse, a Baylon supervisor.

In Erie, Republican Edward A. Rath won a third term with an easy victory over Dist. Atty. Michael F. Dillon, a Democrat.

In Dutchess, David C. Schoen-tax, chairman of the county board of supervisors, became the first county executive elected under the new county charter. He defeated Democrat Robert C. Fouby of Poughkeepsie, an IBM executive, by more than 5,000 votes.

The race for Onondaga County executive was won by Republican Harry S. Daniels, over Democratic Liberal Eugene Madden.

Republican incumbent John Mulroy scored a relatively easy victory over Democrat Groge P. Savage.

Among the cities in which Republicans won the mayoralities were Auburn, Canandaigua, Corning, Cortland, Geneva, Hornell, Hudson, Jamestown, Lockport, Middletown, Mt. Vernon, New Rochelle, Newburgh, Norwich, Peekskill, Port Jervis, Poughkeepsie, Rome, Salamanca, Saratoga Springs, Schenectady, Tonawanda, Troy, White Plains and Yonkers.

Among the cities in which Democrats won election as mayor were Amsterdam, Elmira, Glen Cove, Ithaca, Kingston, Little Falls, Niagara Falls, Ogdensburg, Olean, Oswego, Plattsburgh, Utica, Watertown and Watervliet.

SCHROON LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — After 18 years as a town supervisor, including a year in which he was selected the best supervisor in the state by the State Association of Towns, Horace E. Noxon's bid for re-election was defeated Tuesday. Noxon, who was named supervisor of the year in 1955, is a Republican who was running as an independent Tuesday because he had not decided whether to seek re-election when the GOP named its candidates earlier.

William Fountain, the man who gained the Republican nod, defeated Noxon, 482-180, in official returns from this Adirondack community.

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the House of Representatives has erected a dam of determination against President John F. Kennedy's tax increase proposal, its counterparts in the Senate have opened the flood gates.

As it stands now, the President's request for higher income taxes has been buried in the House. But the Senate, paradoxically, hopes to raise Social Security taxes even more than the President requested.

This situation appears to say that members of Congress may be willing to see their constituents taxed for a specific purpose but not for the general purpose of supporting the administration's spending plans.

Ironically, the people in the lower income brackets would be taxed the most, relatively, if the Senate Social Security bill finds sympathy in the House and is enacted.

If it is passed, and if the nation continues to have inflation at the rate of more than 3 per cent a year, then most Americans are going to find themselves paying out nearly as much as they would through an income tax increase.

The Social Security bill seeks an increase in the tax on incomes from 4.4 per cent to 5 per cent, to apply not just to the first $6,600 earned, as under the present law, but to the first $8,800.

This means that the maximum amount to be deducted for Social Security would jump from $290.40 to $440, a whopping $149.60 advance and considerably more than the President had requested.

Now compare this with the additional money that would be paid out under the Johnson income tax proposal, which seeks a 10 per cent surtax on corporate and personal incomes.

In sending his proposal to Congress last August, Johnson said that a family of four with an income of $10,000 would pay "at most" an added tax of $9.25 a month. This comes to only $111 a year. For many it would be less.

For three out of every four American families, the burden of this increase will be between a few cents and $9 a month," the President said. The increase in Social Security taxes would average more than $12.

The Senate, therefore, through approval of a bill that would draw billions of dollars out of the economy, would bring about much of the restraint that the President has failed to extract from the House. The Senate action, however, would tax many who can little afford to pay increase. The person earning $10,000, for example, would pay no more than the worker earning $8,800.

The problems of those in the lower income brackets don't stop there, for another tax is hidden in the maze of present government fiscal policy. This is the tax of inflation.

Seldom Obvious
Commonly, inflation is not known as a tax, but only because it works clandestinely. Inflation seldom is very obvious until it reaches runaway proportions. It is a sneak thief or, using Johnson's term, it is a pick-pocket. It is presently taking 3.1 per cent of your dollar.

If, for example, you have $1,000 in the bank at 4.75 per cent interest, your deposit will earn $47.50 a year. But if prices are rising at the rate of 3.1 per cent a year, that $47.50 is reduced to $16.50.

It seems, therefore, that American consumers are going to be paying out more of their salaries next year regardless of what Congress does.

If Social Security taxes are raised the strain on pocket-books will show. If income taxes also are raised the strain will become a real burden. If inflation persists, as it is likely to, the strain becomes painful.

These painful prospects perhaps explain the unusual behavior of the administration and of Congress. They very likely explain also why the American consumer has been guarding his money so closely this year.

Planning to Cure Ills of Cinerama

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cinerama, long the sick giant among film companies, appears to be finally doing something about curing its ills.

At least that's the prognosis from Seymour Poe, new president of Cinerama. Poe was Darryl Zanuck's right-hand man in the rebuilding of 20th Century-Fox from near-bankruptcy to blooming prosperity, and he has the same hopes for Cinerama.

The wide-screen process burst on the movie scene in 1952 with its stomach-fluttering roller coaster ride, and its corporate fortunes have followed the same general course. Cinerama has experienced highs with its initial travelogue films and "How the West Was Won" and lows with "The Hallelujah Trail" and "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

The company's finances were a jumble when they were taken over a couple of years ago by William R. Forman, a California theater chain owner. Poe reported that Forman has since cleaned up Cinerama's money woes, and a new $8-million loan from Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. was announced last week.

"Now we are able to proceed on a three-prong program for Cinerama," said Poe, here briefly to discuss projects.

Poe outlined the general areas:

1. Cinerama outlets will increase from the present 75 U.S. theaters to 200, including two in the biggest cities. "For the first time, we have a profusion of pictures to offer theaters," said Poe.

Among them: "Custer of the West" and "East of Java," both sponsored by Cinerama itself; "2001: A Space Odyssey" and "Ice Station Zebra," both from MGM. Other possibilities are two from Columbia, "Anzio" and "McKenna's Gold," plus Cinerama's "Royal Hunt of the Sun" and ABC's "Song of Norway."

2. Production of other films will be sponsored by Cinerama.

San Francisco Soundly Beats Viet Peace Bid

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco voters soundly rejected Tuesday a peace proposition calling for an immediate cease-fire and U.S. withdrawal in the Vietnam war.

The final count from all 1,341 precincts gave 132,406 votes against cease-fire and U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam and 76,632 in favor.

Joseph Alioto, Democratic attorney elected as mayor in the nonpartisan municipal election, declared, however, he did not see the peace proposition result as a victory for Vietnam war hawks.

"Proposition P was defeated because it called for unconditional surrender for the United States," Alioto said.

The peace initiative, placed on the ballot only after successful appeal to the State Supreme Court, put this question to San Francisco voters:

"Shall it be the policy of the city and county of San Francisco that there be an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam so that the Vietnamese people can settle their own problems?"

Alioto said he believed the peace proposition result should encourage those supporting a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam conflict.

"I personally feel there should be a negotiated peace, followed by an American withdrawal, and then a return to Vietnam with a massive American aid program," he said.

Voters in Cambridge, Mass., cast ballots on a similar peace proposition Tuesday. But the result may not be known for three weeks because Cambridge elects a city council by proportional representation with second and third choices.

Cambridge officials said the peace referendum would not be counted until the council tabulation is completed.

Dearborn Mich., voted a year ago on a peace advisory resolution. It was defeated 20,667 to 13,124.

Attempts to place the peace question on the ballot in other major cities, including New York, have failed.

Hatcher Wins In Gary Vote

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Democrat Richard G. Hatcher's 1495-vote victory in the race for mayor of Gary was assailed today by the loser as fraudulent.

Refusing to concede victory to the 34-year-old bachelor lawyer, who ran without the help of the local Democratic organization, Hatcher told his supporters, "We feel there is need for further investigation before it can be decided who won this election." No formal demand for a recount had yet been made. Complete but unofficial returns showed that a record turnout had given Hatcher 39,904 votes to 38,409 for Radigan.

Hatcher told 600 jubilant supporters at his headquarters, "We're convinced that we have won this election. Despite fears and rumors, our city is still intact."

Campaign tensions in the steel-making city of 180,000, whom some 100,000 are Negroes, had prompted Gov. Roger D. Branigin to order National Guard and state police units to standby duty on the fringes of the city.

But the election went off without incident and Mayor A. Martin Katz, whom Hatcher defeated in the Democratic primary, said it was "the quietest election in the history of Gary."

In his victory speech, Hatcher urged that the peaceful tone continue.

"Any incident in the city tonight will spoil that victory. I am confident that all the people will honor this request."

The more than 78,000 votes cast exceeded the previous record of 72,847 in the 1964 presidential election.

Hatcher was denied support by John Krupa, Lake County Democratic chairman, who accused the nominee of refusing to denounce Black Power and militant Negro leaders.

Auto Registration Lists Help Feed 'Junk Mailers'

By ANTHONY DE NIGRO
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've been wondering how your name got on the latest "junk mail" list, you might ask your state motor vehicle department.

An Associated Press survey shows that most states sell their motor vehicle registration lists—at prices ranging from $70,000 in New York to $8 in West Virginia. Some apparently give them away.

One firm, R. L. Polk & Co. of Detroit, appears to be practically the only customer for the lists and uses them as what must be one of the largest reservoirs in the country for direct mail advertisers.

Polk won't say how much it pays for them—or how much it makes on them—but the survey showed it gets the bulk for a total of not much more than $500,000.

Two Go to Court

Disclosures of the sale of official public records for commercial use has stirred invasion of privacy controversies in some parts of the country. At least two citizens have gone into court about it.

Most motor vehicle department officials interviewed in the survey considered the sale routine. Typical was the reaction in North Carolina, which sold Polk 2 million names and addresses for $36,000 this year.

"By law our records are open to the public unless they are specifically declared confidential and I guess that's the statute under which we've been proceeding," said Miss Foy Ingram, the North Carolina registration director.

Polk is a 97-year-old firm which also publishes 1,400 city directories. "We do not invade anyone's privacy," said Alvin Kropf, Polk's senior vice president. "As business statisticians and publishers, we gathered public information and refine and publish such facts and figures which are set out in open public records."

The AP survey found that Polk buys or trades for most of the 95 million names and addresses of auto registrants directly through the state capitals at prices apparently dependent on how much the particular state thinks its list is worth.

Polk even has the list of states which say they don't sell them. These are Illinois, Alaska, South Dakota, Kentucky, Washington and Washington, D.C.

N.Y. Highest

New York State's $70,000 a year is the highest price Polk pays for one list. California, which has the biggest motor vehicle population in the country, gets $47,000. Rural Alabama gets $52,000 while auto state Michigan gets $1,200. South Carolina charges $75. Wisconsin gets $120. All sell to Polk.

Sometimes Polk trades for the lists. In New Jersey, for instance, Polk is the super sleuth who tracks down 400,000 parking scofflaws a year. In return, it gets the state's registration list free.

Because New Jersey law forbids the sale of auto registrations, the state motor vehicle department has been trading the lists to Polk for more than a decade. Under the arrangement, municipal courts send the state unanswered parking summonses which list only the license number of the vehicle. The state sends numbers to Polk and Polk sends back the name and address of the car's owner.

Pays My Clerk

In Nebraska, Polk pays the salary of a clerk in the motor vehicles department. She sends the lists to Detroit, where the slips are alphabetized and returned to Lincoln.

Besides the auto registration list Minnesota sells to Polk, the state sells 50 to 100 lists of various types to various interests. They range from lists of dentists, doctors and restaurants to a computer printout of 210,000 boat owners—the latter for $500.

Every year since 1922, Polk has compiled a complete nationwide list of auto registrations. It uses them primarily, it says, for some 50 statistical reports sold within the automotive industry and secondarily for sale to direct mail advertisers.

Polk, a privately owned company that doesn't make public financial statements, would say only that 10 per cent of its income is derived from the registration lists. It did say, however, that the lists are expensive to the average direct mail buyer.

When it sells to direct mail houses, Polk actually keeps the list and mails the sample or brochure for the advertiser. The auto industry is its largest single user, principally for the mailing of multipaged color brochures at the beginning of a new model year. Other chief customers are auto accessory firms, tire and oil companies, publishing houses and newspapers.

Polk sells direct mail lists to a wide range of firms, from bankers to fertilizer manufacturers. Recently two suits were brought in connection with the sale of the lists, one in federal court in Manhattan and the other in Superior Court in Hartford, Conn. Both were filed on the invasion of privacy issue and both are still in litigation. They are apparently the only two court challenges of the practice of selling official records for commercial uses.

In Connecticut, clerical worker Norman S. Chapin of Warehouse Point got angry at the volume of junk mail in his mailbox and decided to do something about it. He moved and refused to furnish his new address to the department of motor vehicles.

Chapin was threatened with loss of his license and relented. But on the day he furnished his new address he also filed suit charging the state was invading his privacy by selling his name to Polk.

Judge Joseph W. Bogdanski issued a temporary injunction last May stopping Connecticut's motor vehicle department from selling its list to Polk for an estimated $20,000 a year. But he did it on grounds the state furnished Polk more than a 1965 law allowed.

Judge Bogdanski refused to rule on the constitutionality of selling the lists, leaving that for later full trial.

Appeals Ruling

In New York, writer Corliss Lamont is appealing a federal district court ruling against his contention that the state's sale of its six-million-name list for $70,000 a year is an invasion of privacy.

Trial Judge Marvin E. Frank-son ruled out the constitutional question. "The short, though regular journey from mailbox to trash can... is an acceptable burden, at least so far as the Constitution is concerned," he said.

It is no invasion of privacy at all, he said, merely another battle in the state's effort to tap a small source of revenue.

Virginia sells its two million auto registrants to Polk for about $11,000 and A. T. Beale, more, we cannot cut it off once it is in the channels of delivery. "Actually," he said, "I believe the sale of our list... reduces the amount of junk mail since the automotive industry is able to send mailers to specific customers it wants to reach."

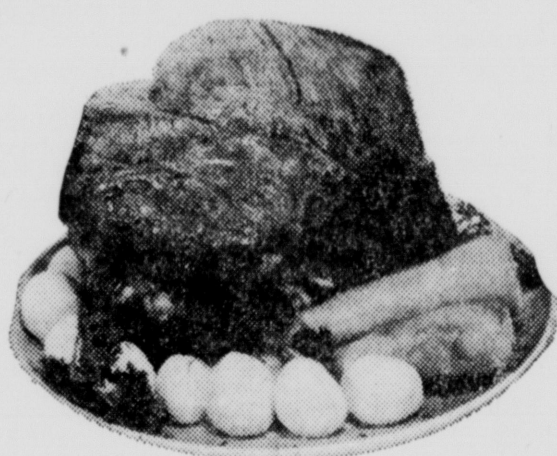

Postmaster Lewis Moore of Nashville, Tenn., hears more often, however, from those who don't agree. "A lot of people complain," he said, "they call us and say they don't want any more. We cannot cut it off once it is in the channels of delivery."

County CSEA Meets Tonight

The Ulster County Chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association announced today that the president of the 1,000-member Dutchess County Civil Service Employees Association Chapter would address the Ulster County employees meeting scheduled for the County Office building tonight at 8 p. m.

According to Ulster County President Harold F. DeGraff, William P. Schryver, head of the Dutchess CSEA Chapter, is scheduled to speak to county employees regarding the formation of a new county unit made up exclusively of people employed by Ulster County for the sole purposes of bargaining with the County Board of Supervisors under the terms of the newly enacted Taylor Bill.

The Taylor Bill passed by the legislature last year requires the county board to recognize employees and their representatives for purposes of negotiating salaries, fringe benefits and other conditions of employment with the employer.

Edward J. Gusty, area field representative for the CSEA, indicated that a recent membership drive was producing favorable results and expected attendance from all County Departments for this evening's meeting. The Ulster County CSEA Chapter is undertaking a complete revision of its internal structure and individual units for bargaining are being set up for the county, city and school district employees.

DeGraff stated that a meeting has been set up with Chairman Peter Savago, of the board of supervisors and the Salary Committee to discuss salaries of the county employees. This meeting is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Book Jersey Man In Holdup of Hartwick Bank

WEST PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — Eugene C. Stoesser, 25, an unemployed carpenter, has been arrested in connection with a $28,620 holdup of a Hartwick, N.Y., bank last Friday.

The FBI announced the arrest Tuesday. They said Stoesser, whose address was given as Box 73, East Branch, N.Y., faces a federal charge of bank robbery.

The National Commercial Bank & Trust Co., Hartwick branch, was held up about 3 p. m. Nov. 3 by a man who brandished a revolver and told employees to "get the money and hurry up."

The bank manager complied and the man left the bank. About two hours later, State Police recovered a car about 25 miles from Oneonta, believed to have been the get-away vehicle.

The FBI said Stoesser was sought on a warrant issued Tuesday by the U.S. commissioner at Albany. Stoesser was arrested at 17 Rifle Camp Road here, where he was allegedly visiting relatives.

Stoesser is married and has one child, the FBI said. He was scheduled to be arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Theodore C. Kiscaras in Rutherford.

Ducks Surgery

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Kenneth Baumeister, 12, was due to have his tonsils out but when he saw one of his brothers after a similar operation, he got lost—fast. He dashed from a hospital—hospital gown flowing and bare-feet flashing—and hid in a thicket of bushes 1 mile away.

Ninety minutes later two neighbors found Kenneth and took him home. His mother said he agreed to surrender his tonsils at a later date.

Auto Registration Lists Help Feed 'Junk Mailers'

By ANTHONY DE NIGRO
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've been wondering how your name got on the latest "junk mail" list, you might ask your state motor vehicle department.

An Associated Press survey shows that most states sell their motor vehicle registration lists—at prices ranging from $70,000 in New York to $8 in West Virginia. Some apparently give them away.

One firm, R. L. Polk & Co. of Detroit, appears to be practically the only customer for the lists and uses them as what must be one of the largest reservoirs in the country for direct mail advertisers.

Polk won't say how much it pays for them—or how much it makes on them—but the survey showed it gets the bulk for a total of not much more than $500,000.

Two Go to Court

Disclosures of the sale of official public records for commercial use has stirred invasion of privacy controversies in some parts of the country. At least two citizens have gone into court about it.

Most motor vehicle department officials interviewed in the survey considered the sale routine. Typical was the reaction in North Carolina, which sold Polk 2 million names and addresses for $36,000 this year.

"By law our records are open to the public unless they are specifically declared confidential and I guess that's the statute under which we've been proceeding," said Miss Foy Ingram, the North Carolina registration director.

Polk is a 97-year-old firm which also publishes 1,400 city directories. "We do not invade anyone's privacy," said Alvin Kropf, Polk's senior vice president. "As business statisticians and publishers, we gathered public information and refine and publish such facts and figures which are set out in open public records."

The AP survey found that Polk buys or trades for most of the 95 million names and addresses of auto registrants directly through the state capitals at prices apparently dependent on how much the particular state thinks its list is worth.

Polk even has the list of states which say they don't sell them. These are Illinois, Alaska, South Dakota, Kentucky, Washington and Washington, D.C.

N.Y. Highest

New York State's $70,000 a year is the highest price Polk pays for one list, California, which has the biggest motor vehicle population in the country, gets $47,000. Rural Alabama gets $52,000 while auto state Michigan gets $1,200. Wisconsin charges $75. Wisconsin gets $120. All sell to Polk.

Sometimes Polk trades for the lists. In New Jersey, for instance, Polk is the super sleuth who tracks down 400,000 parking scofflaws a year. In return, it gets the state's registration list free.

Because New Jersey law forbids the sale of auto registrations, the state motor vehicle department has been trading the lists to Polk for more than a decade. Under the arrangement, municipal courts send the state unanswered parking summonses which list only the license number of the vehicle. The state sends numbers to Polk and Polk sends back the name and address of the car's owner.

Pays MV Clerk

In Nebraska, Polk pays the salary of a clerk in the motor vehicles department. She sends the lists to Detroit, where the slips are alphabetized and returned to Lincoln.

Besides the auto registration list Minnesota sells to Polk, the state sells 50 to 100 lists of various types to various interests. They range from lists of dentists, doctors and restaurants to a computer printout of 210,000 boat owners—the latter for $500.

Every year since 1922, Polk has compiled a complete nationwide list of auto registrations. It uses them primarily, it says, for some 50 statistical reports sold within the automotive industry and secondarily for sale to direct mail advertisers.

Polk, a privately owned company that doesn't make public financial statements, would say only that 10 per cent of its income is derived from the registration lists. It did say, however, that the lists are expensive to the average direct mail buyer.

When it sells to direct mail houses, Polk actually keeps the list and mails the sample or brochure for the advertiser. The auto industry is its largest single user, principally for the mailing of multipaged color brochures at the beginning of a new model year. Other chief customers are auto accessory firms, tire and oil companies, publishing houses and newspapers.

Polk sells direct mail lists to a wide range of firms, from banks to fertilizer manufacturers. Recently two suits were brought in connection with the state sale of the lists, one in federal court in Manhattan and the other in Nimrod interest centers on deer hunting these days but there are reports of some fine catches of bass at the Downsville reservoir. The bass season closes Nov. 30.

Brothers Ed and Vern Radel and Charles Cole, the BPW superintendent, busy preparing for the upcoming ice fishing season. Well ahead of schedule, they are making inquiries and plans for secret hideaways in Sullivan county.

We can recall some fine days on the ice of Silver Lake, near Red Hook, in their company, and along with Jack Delvan, Sonny Barnes, Ed Cogswell and Em Mayes had our share of pickerel. Another old faithful was Al Montavani.

ON HAND IS A standing invitation for a weekend at Winky Movers' trailer and some fishing on Brant Lake in the Chestertown section of the Adirondacks. Locally, the Binnewater Lakes also provide some good, early season fishing and good catches of perch are recorded. A good fire, plenty of cats, plus a touch of Thunderbird, make for a great outdoor fiesta.

Richard Luhrs of Saugerties came home a proud hunter with a fine 8-point buck taken in the Adirondacks. . . Roland Theoret heading for Manchester, Vt. for deer hunting this weekend. He will hunt this fall with his new 30.06 recently awarded to him by the Rifton Gun Club. . . Millie Berardi, the tonsorial artist, and his painting staff have their camp refurbished in the Stony Clove sector for the upcoming season.

A COMMUNIQUE TO Old Rip describes the tribulations of five hearty deer hunters:

"The famed Adirondack guide, Abner Hall, who aided Charlie Goble to get his deer last season after 21 years of hunting the creatures, coupled with the skills of guide Bun Arndt failed to produce a set of horns for our party this past week.

"The chief reason for lack of buck movement seemed to have been the warm, bluebird weather we experienced while chasing the elusive animals. It is said that the rutting season starts when the cold weather commences. Then the two sexes are found traveling together.

"The first day's drives produced doe deer every time. The second day we were drenched with pouring rain that caused us to bring our clothes to the laundromat dryers in town to dry out. On the morning of the third day, we arrived at the Cedar River to take our daily boat ride across to the hunting ground only to find that the 2.36 inches of rain that had fallen had raised the river to 39 inches. It had also taken the boat, chain and the tree to which it was attached, down the river. When we finally got another boat to ferry us across the river, we found most of our hunting ground inaccessible because of the flood conditions.

On Friday night, we visited the entrance to the Moose River Plains area at the headquarters site. We spoke to Curly Yeaple and Jimmy Bell of Kingston, who had been there since last Sunday. Yeaple reported sighting four doe.

"At the Conservation Department sign-in shack, the following figures were obtained: As of Nov. 2, 1967, there were 259 deer taken from the area. On the same date in 1966, only 207 deer were registered. On another chart on the wall, which was broken down in percentages on the first 103 deer taken, it revealed that 35 per cent were fawn, 40 per cent adult does and 24 per cent were adult buck. It was estimated that approximately 7,600 hunters had been in the area over the weekend—Emerson Mayes, Ernie and Steve Ryan, Bob Saehloff and Dave Stewart.

AND THE RABBITS WENT round and round at the Saugerties Fish and Game Club's sixth annual field trial for rabbit dogs. First place went to a fine female, Sarah, owned by Duffy Moore of Veteran. Second place went to Reaper, owned by Murray Craft, with Lenny Sperl's Spot coming in third. The show dogs were Colonel, owned by Tom Dengler and handled by Ike Perks, and True, owned by Randy Craft.

Several other fine dogs gave good accounts in the rabbit pursuit. Even the bunnies cooperated and the judges were amazed at the size and agility they showed. Judges were Richard Booth and Joe Malone of Cairo and Frank Douigh of South Cairo.

A fine pancake breakfast was served by the club members before the trials. Winner of the beagle pup award was Walt Decker. A fine promotion, we thought, and we hope that perhaps next year more entries will compete. Also a salute to Carl Sperl, chairman of the event.

SHORT SHOTS: A tip of the hat to Phil Gillen, local game warden, for his apprehension and arrest of the "boys from the big city" and their bag of robins. . . These are the sportsmen we do not choose for our fraternity. . . On the distaff side the ladies of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary are readying plans for their annual Christmas banquet on Dec. 5 at the Dutch Rathskeller. Filet mignon will be the order of the day. Of course, Santa will distribute the gifts. . . Now that the fishing season is about ended, Nick Nekos is readying his equipment for the deer season. We predict a fine mount to go with his latest addition (a sunfish) for his popular Wall street pharmacy and coffee bar.

OLD RIP SEZ: "A man's home—or his land—is his castle. Ask permission before you hunt. Remember, you are a guest on landowner's land.

Eagle Ace Timmy Brown Can't Get Started in '67

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This has been a year of frustration for Timmy Brown, one of only eight players to gain more than 10,000 yards in the National Football League.

It started in August in Hawaii, where he was modeling bathing suits. Picking up a newspaper one day, he read the Philadelphia Eagles could do without him this year.

The story quoted coach-general manager Joe Kuharich as saying he didn't expect Brown to play football this season and the Eagles weren't counting on him.

"THIS HURT me deeply," said the 30-year-old Brown. "I had told him (Kuharich) I would be back."

Brown, a running back, said Kuharich later denied the story. Brown signed his contract and went through what he describes as the "best training

Select Trojans Over Beavers

NEW YORK (AP) — Perhaps a saliva test is in order. Last week's average of .776 lifted the season's average to .726.

Here are this weekend's winners:

Southern California over Oregon State: The Beavers say they will trot onto the field whistling Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Trojans but Orange Juice Simpson will save the day for the Californians.

Tennessee over Tulane: Dewey Warren will do the throwing for Tennessee and Richmond Flowers will do the catching.

North Carolina State over Penn State: In a squeaker.

Purdue over Minnesota: When you have Mike Phipps and Leroy Keyes in the same backfield as the Boilermakers do, you generally score more points than the opposition.

Michigan State over Indiana: All those party Hoosier dreams go boom in this one.

Wyoming over New Mexico: The Wyoming Cowboys well on their way to their second straight conference title and a possible bowl bid.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: Strangely, the Oklahoma Sooners became of age in their mid-season loss to Texas. Granville Liggins is their defensive ace.

Notre Dame over Pittsburgh: The Panthers have no claws this season.

Houston over Memphis State: Houston beat Wake Forest by 54 points. Memphis State defeated Wake Forest by 32 points.

Georgia over Florida: Some of the suspended Georgia players have been returned to the squad.

Louisiana State over Alabama: The home crowd will be the 12th man in the LSU lineup.

Florida Star Lineman of Week

By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer

Florida State Coach Bill Peterson got on the telephone early this fall and asked Dale McCullers if he would like to play football.

Now Memphis State is the latest opponent of the Seminoles who wished Peterson had gotten the wrong number.

McCullers, a junior linebacker, figured in more than half his team's tackles last Saturday, leading the defense that sparked Florida State over Memphis State 26-7 for its fifth straight victory.

"It was the greatest game I've ever seen a college linebacker play," said Peterson, and for that performance, McCullers was named The Associated Press Lineman of the Week today.

The 6-foot-2, 198-pounder made 17 tackles and assisted on six others as Memphis managed only 38 plays from scrimmage. He also threw Memphis quarterbacks for losses totaling 38 yards and recovered a fumble at the Seminole 21 when Memphis appeared on its way to a touchdown on the game's first series of downs.

"It was McCullers, more than anybody, who stopped their running game cold when it looked like early in the game they were going to run us off the field with it," Peterson said after Memphis gained 180 yards in the first half and only four in the second.

Florida State almost lost McCullers, but for Peterson's phone call a month before the season began, Peterson had not figured on him because McCullers took a job and missed spring practice.

"We heard just before fall practice that he might be interested in coming back out for football," Peterson said, "and we gave him a call. I hate to think what shape we'd be in if we hadn't made that call."

Claim Dolphin

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Defensive tackle Rich Zecher was on the roster of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills today after being claimed on waivers from the Miami Dolphins.

Zecher, 6 feet 2 and 255 pounds, turned 24 in October. He was acquired by the Bills Tuesday.

Brown said, "But I could learn to live with it. I'd rather go out an Eagle though. I haven't slipped any. I'm a smarter player too."

BROWN FEELS he hasn't been used right since Kuharich took over in 1964. He's not complaining, just explaining. He says the style of play is the coach's business. He accepts it, but doesn't have to like it.

The hamstring is healed, trainer Moose Deity reports. He figures Brown should be ready to play again.

In National League

Cepeda Is First Unanimous MVP

By M. MARTINEZ-ROUSSET SAN JUAN (AP) — Puerto Rican Orlando Cepeda, named the National League's Most Valuable Player in a unanimous vote, is a very happy and proud man.

Interviewed at his Bayamon home after his selection today, Cepeda gave most of the credit for his award and tremendous comeback with the world champions St. Louis Cardinals to team trainer Dr. Robert Bauman, "whose selflessness and hard work helped me greatly this year."

The Cards' big first baseman became the first player in the history of the National League to receive unanimous support from the MVP award.

He won with the highest batting average since Pittsburgh's Dick Groat won it batting .325 in 1960. Cepeda finished the season also with .325, hit 25 homers and batted in 111 runs, top in the circuit.

"This is the most marvelous thing that could happen to a ball player," Cepeda said after receiving a telephone call from St. Louis announcing the award.

"I feel very proud, but I really don't know what to say. I want to thank all the people who helped me."

Close to Quitting

"This is so big, specially when I was so close to quitting the game because of my knee injury. Imagine, for the second year in a row a Puerto Rican player wins the award," Cepeda added.

He was referring to Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates' outfielder winner last year and third in the voting this year. Clemente received 129 points this time and finished behind catcher Tim Lincecum of the Cardinals, who got 136 points.

Ron Santo, Chicago third baseman, was fourth and Hank Aaron, Atlanta outfielder was fifth.

Cepeda was named as the number one choice on all the 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America named to pick the MVP. He received 280 points.

The 30-year-old player in his 10th season in the majors. He was traded last year by the San Francisco Giants to the Cards for pitcher Ray Sadecki.

Four players have been unanimous MVP selections in the American League. They were Hank Greenberg of Detroit in 1931, Al Rosen of Cleveland in 1953, Mickey Vernon of the New York Yankees in 1956 and Frank Robinson of Baltimore in 1966.

Only one player, though, even approached unanimity in the NL. He was Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1936. The scheduled voting that year encompassed eight ballots. However, two among the eight writers did not vote and Hubbell was the choice of all six who did.

10th Cardinal

This is the 10th time that a Cardinals' player has taken the MVP. Stan Musial won it in 1943, 1946 and 1948, Frank Frisch in 1931, Dizzy Dean in 1934, Joe Medwick in 1937, Mort Cooper in 1942, Marty Marion in 1944, and Ken Boyer in 1964.

Barry Blasts NBA's New Player Policy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Barry, the National Basketball Association's leading scorer last season and now the lone super star in the new American Basketball Association, said Tuesday.

"It's been unfair to the players to have only one pro league," he added.

"People misunderstand about the NBA," said the former San Francisco Warrior now under contract to the Oakland Oaks, but inactive because of a Warrior injunction.

"Only a few young players make the NBA each year. There are few opportunities and it's just tough to make a team or even improve."

Gives More Chance

Barry said players coming out of college now have better chances for making a name and money in the new league.

While Barry was in Indianapolis, the Indiana Pacers announced they would be hosts for the first ABA All-Star game in January. The tentative date is Jan. 9, either in the State Fairgrounds Coliseum (10,000 capacity) where the Pacers play their home games or Butler University's Hinkle Fieldhouse (14,000).

Barry, who won the NBA scoring title only two years after graduating from the University of Miami, was critical of his former league.

"They talk about NBA caliber," he said. "A lot of players in the NBA couldn't make it in the ABA."

"This baloney about the NBA being the prestige league and having a high level of competition doesn't mean much."

Barry, 23, said there are players who fail to make the NBA because their positions are filled and not because of their play.

The handsome star said he doesn't feel competition will be less in the new league.

Makes Comparisons

"Guys who guarded me in the NBA mainly were not the Oscar Robertsons but good defense players who didn't have a big name," he said. "I'll still be pressed and still have to play my best."

As far as the ABA having a

Wilt Chamberlain, Bill Russell or Nate Thurmond, Barry said, "there's only one of each and I only had to play against two (he played with Thurmond)."

After Barry switched to the Oaks, San Francisco owner Franklin Mieuli gained a court injunction barring him from playing in the ABA this season. Barry decided to sit out the season.

The articulate player, explaining his move, said, "I love the game but it's business to me. The basic reason I changed was financial — that and my father-in-law (former Miami Coach Bruce Hale who now is directing the Oaks)."

"I wanted to play for people who paid me what I was worth," Barry said. "I knew what Oakland offered. I told Mieuli and felt his offer was far less than Oakland's."

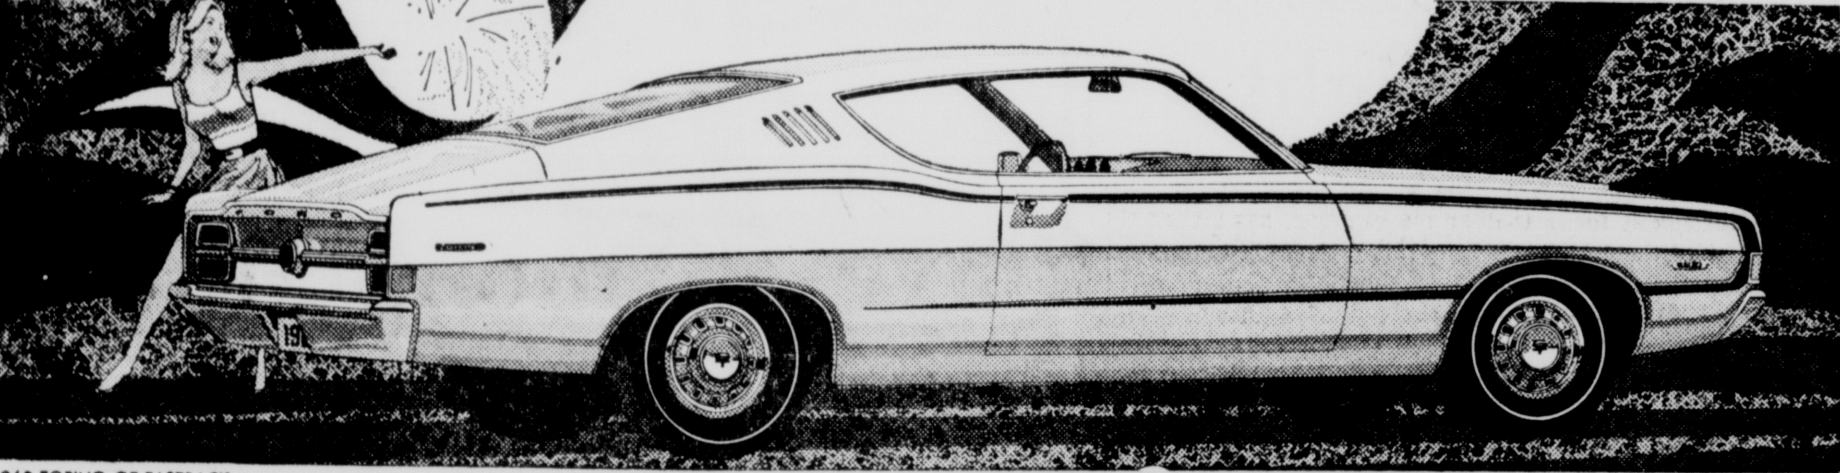

Middletown JVs Beat KHS, 13-0

The locals gave the Middies touchdowns in the first and second periods as the visitors recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass.

ROD 'N GUN REPORT

Old Rip

Nimrod interest centers on deer hunting these days but there are reports of some fine catches of bass at the Downsville reservoir. The bass season closes Nov. 30.

Brothers Ed and Vern Radel and Charles Cole, the BPW superintendent, busy preparing for the upcoming ice fishing season. Well ahead of schedule, they are making inquiries and plans for secret hideaways in Sullivan county.

We can recall some fine days on the ice of Silver Lake, near Red Hook, in their company, and along with Jack Delvan, Sonny Barnes, Ed Cogswell and Em Mayes had our share of pickerel. Another old faithful was Al Montavani.

ON HAND IS A standing invitation for a weekend at Winky Myers' trailer and some fishing on Brant Lake in the Chestertown section of the Adirondacks. Locally, the Binnewater Lakes also provide some good, early season fishing and good catches of perch are recorded. A good fire, plenty of eats, plus a touch of Thunderbird, make for a great outdoor fiesta.

Richard Luhrs of Saugerties came home a proud hunter with a fine 8-point buck taken in the Adirondacks. . . Roland Theoret heading for Manchester, Vt. for deer hunting this weekend. He will hunt this fall with his new 30.06 recently awarded to him by the Rifton Gun Club. . . Millie Berardi, the tonsorial artist, and his painting their camp refurbished in the Stony Clove sector for the upcoming season.

A COMMUNIQUE TO Old Rip describes the tribulations of five hearty deer hunters:

"The famed Adirondack guide, Abner Hall, who aided Charlie Goble to get his deer last season after 21 years of hunting the creatures, coupled with the skills of guide Bun Ardit failed to produce a set of horns for our party this past week.

"The chief reason for lack of buck movement seemed to have been the warm, bluebird weather we experienced while chasing the elusive animals. It is said that the rutting season starts when the cold weather commences. Then the two sexes are found traveling together.

"The first day's drives produced doe deer every time. The second day we were drenched with pouring rain that caused us to bring our clothes to the laundromat dryers in town to dry out. On the morning of the third day, we arrived at the Cedar River to take our daily boat ride across to the hunting ground only to find that the 2.36 inches of rain that had fallen had raised the river to 39 inches. It had also taken the boat, chain and the tree to which it was attached, down the river. When we finally got another boat to ferry us across the river, we found most of our hunting ground inaccessible because of the flood conditions.

On Friday night, we visited the entrance to the Moose River Plains area at the headquarters site. We spoke to Curly Yeaple and Jimmy Bell of Kingston, who had been there since last Sunday. Yeaple reported sighting four doe.

"At the Conservation Department sign-in shack, the following figures were obtained: As of Nov. 2, 1967, there were 259 deer taken from the area. On the same date in 1966, only 207 deer were registered. On another chart on the wall, which was broken down in percentages on the first 103 deer taken, it revealed that 35 per cent were fawn, 40 per cent adult does and 24 per cent were adult buck. It was estimated that approximately 7,600 hunters had been in the area over the weekend—Emerson Mayes, Ernie and Steve Ryan, Bob Saehloff and Dave Stewart.

AND THE RABBITS WENT round and round at the Saugerties Fish and Game Club's sixth annual field trial for rabbit dogs. First place went to a fine female, Sarah, owned by Duffy Moore of Veteran. Second place went to Reaper, owned by Murray Craft, with Lenny Spel's Spot coming in third. The show dogs were Colonel, owned by Tom Dengler and handled by Ike Perks, and True, owned by Randy Craft.

Several other fine dogs gave good accounts in the rabbit pursuit. Even the bunnies cooperated and the judges were amazed at the size and agility they showed. Judges were Richard Booth and Joe Malone of Cairo and Frank Douglis of South Cairo.

A fine pancake breakfast was served by the club members before the trials. Winner of the beagle pup award was Walt Decker. A fine promotion, we thought, and we hope that perhaps next year more entries will compete. Also a salute to Carl Spel, chairman of the event.

SHORT SHOTS: A tip of the hat to Phil Gillen, local game warden, for his apprehension and arrest of the "boys from the big city" and their bag of robins. . . These are the sportsmen we do not choose for our fraternity. . . On the distaff side the ladies of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary are readying plans for their annual Christmas banquet on Dec. 5 at the Dutch Rathskeller. Filet mignon will be the order of the day. Of course, Santa will distribute the gifts. . . Now that the fishing season is about ended, Nick Nekos is readying his equipment for the deer season. We predict a fine mount to go with his latest addition (a sunfish) for his popular Wall street pharmacy and coffee bar.

OLD RIP SEZ: "A man's home—or his land—is his castle. Ask permission before you hunt. Remember, you are a guest on landowners land."

Select Trojans Over Beavers

NEW YORK (AP) — Perhaps a saliva test is in order. Last week's average of .776 lifted the season's average to .726.

Here are this weekend's winners:

Southern California over Oregon State: The Beavers say they will trot onto the field whistling Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Trojans but Orange Juice Simpson will save the day for the Californians.

Tennessee over Tulane: Dewey Warren will do the throwing for Tennessee and Richmond Flowers will do the catching.

North Carolina State over Penn State: In a squeaker.

Purdue over Minnesota: When you have Mike Phipps and Leroy Keyes in the same backfield as the Boilermakers do, you generally score more points than the opposition.

Michigan State over Indiana: All those party Hoosier dreams go boom in this one.

Wyoming over New Mexico: The Wyoming Cowboys well on their way to their second straight conference title and a possible bowl bid.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: Strangely, the Oklahoma Sooners became of age in their mid-season loss to Texas. Granville Liggins is their defensive ace.

Notre Dame over Pittsburgh: The Panthers have no claws this season.

Houston over Memphis State: Houston beat Wake Forest by 54 points. Memphis State defeated Wake Forest by 32 points.

Georgia over Florida: Some of the suspended Georgia players have been returned to the squad.

Louisiana State over Alabama: The home crowd will be the 12th man in the LSU line-up.

Florida Star Lineman of Week

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Florida State Coach Bill Peterson got on the telephone early this fall and asked Dale McCullers if he would like to play football.

Now Memphis State is the latest opponent of the Seminoles who wished Peterson had gotten the wrong number.

McCullers, a junior linebacker, figured in more than half his team's tackles last Saturday, leading the defense that sparked Florida State over Memphis State 26-7 for its fifth straight victory.

"It was the greatest game I've ever seen a college linebacker play," said Peterson, and for that performance, McCullers was named The Associated Press Lineman of the Week today.

The 6-foot-2, 198-pounder made 17 tackles and assisted on six others as Memphis managed only 38 plays from scrimmage. He also threw Memphis quarterbacks for losses totaling 38 yards and recovered a fumble at the Seminole 21 when Memphis appeared on its way to a touchdown on the game's first series of downs.

"It was McCullers, more than anybody, who stopped their running game cold when it looked like early in the game they were going to run us off the field with it," Peterson said after Memphis gained 180 yards in the first half and only four in the second.

Florida State almost lost McCullers, but for Peterson's phone call a month before the season began, Peterson had not figured on him because McCullers took a job and missed spring practice.

"We heard just before fall practice that he might be interested in coming back out for football," Peterson said, "and we gave him a call. I hate to think what shape we'd be in if we hadn't made that call."

Claim Dolphin

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Defensive tackle Rich Zeher was on the roster of the American Football League's Buffalo Bills today after being claimed on waivers from the Miami Dolphins.

Zeher, 6 feet 2 and 253 pounds, turned 24 in October. He was acquired by the Bills Tuesday.

This is the 10th time that a Cardinals player has taken the MVP. Stan Musial won it in league career.

Cardinal players have won the award the most times. The Dodgers, in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, are next with eight MVPs.

No Dodger players, however, were in the list of 29 included in this year's voting. In addition, longtime slugger star Willie Mays of San Francisco was omitted from the balloting for the first time in his 16-year big league career.

Mays hit .263 with 22 homers and 68 RBI last season. The voting was based on performances during the regular season.

Eagle Ace Timmy Brown Can't Get Started in '67

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — This has been a year of frustration for Timmy Brown, one of only eight players to gain more than 10,000 yards in the National Football League.

It started in August in Hawaii, where he was modeling bathing suits. Picking up a newspaper one day, he read the Philadelphia Eagles could do without him this year.

The story quoted coach-general manager Joe Kuharich as saying he didn't expect Brown to play football this season and the Eagles weren't counting on him.

"THIS HURT me deeply," said the 30-year-old Brown. "I had told him (Kuharich) I would be back."

Brown, a running back, said Kuharich later denied the story.

Brown signed his contract and went through what he describes as the "best training camp of my career. I worked harder than ever for what I expected to be my greatest year."

Then, while warming up before an exhibition game against Buffalo, he pulled a hamstring on the side of the left thigh. He has played less than one half of a game since.

A TEAMMATE, split end Gary Ballman, later in a speech reportedly rapped Brown, insinuating the half back was malingering. Timmy tossed it aside, saying, "I've grown up a lot and don't let things such as this throw me into moods of depression. He (Ballman) wants to win, but he doesn't know me as a person. I don't have to prove my integrity."

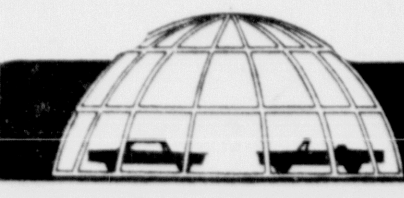

Brown doesn't want to put any rap on his coaches, but he has heard the rumors. Kuharich wanted to trade him.

"I don't want to be traded," Brown said. "But I could learn to live with it. I'd rather go out an Eagle though. I haven't slipped any. I'm a smarter player too."

BROWN FEELS he hasn't been used right since Kuharich took over in 1964. He's not complaining, just explaining. He says the style of play is the coach's business. He accepts it, but doesn't have to like it.

The hamstring is healed, trainer Moose Detty reports. He figures Brown should be ready to play again.

Wappingers Lone Undefeated, Unscored on Team

Wappingers Central which figures to tie Poughkeepsie for DCSL honors emerged as the only undefeated, unscored on high school football team in the mid-Hudson area.

The Dutchess county eleven has won seven games and played a scoreless tie with Poughkeepsie, rolling up 183 points while blanking the opposition.

Poughkeepsie has a 6-1 record and is the second toughest team to score against, yielding only 20 points in seven contests.

Rondout Valley Central Gander, the newly crowned UCAL champions won 7 games and played a scoreless tie with Marlboro. Coach Meehan's raked up the highest point total in the area—221—despite the scoreless game and limited the opposition to 48. They yielded more than one touchdown in only one game.

The DUSO championship for 1967 will not be settled until Thanksgiving Day.

Wappingers Lone Undeclared, Unscored on Team

Wappingers Central which figures to tie Poughkeepsie for DCSL honors emerged as the only undefeated, unscored on high school football team in the mid-Hudson area.

The Dutchess county eleven has won seven games and played a scoreless tie with Poughkeepsie, rolling up 185 points while blanking the opposition.

Poughkeepsie has a 6-1 record and is the second toughest team to score against, yielding only 20 points in seven contests.

Rondout Valley Central Gander, the newly crowned UCLAL champions won 7 games and played a scoreless tie with Marlboro. Coach Meehan's racked up the highest point total in the area—221—despite the scoreless game and limited the opposition to 48. They yielded more than one touchdown in only one game.

The DUSO championship for 1967 will not be settled until Thanksgiving Day.

Jimenez said the foot pained him but it didn't hurt his game during his practice round or dampen his good humor.

Rodriguez said he expects the toughest team competition to come from Americans Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer and South Africa's Gary Player and Harold Henning. A 277 total, 11-under-par, should win individual honors, he predicted.

The United States is paired against Ireland in the first round Thursday.

Rodriguez and Jimenez will be among 80 golfers when play opens in the 72-hole tournament for national pride and personal prestige. Entries come from 36 countries, Wales, Hawaii, Scotland and Ireland.

The Puerto Ricans, playing on three good legs and an injured foot, had their first practice round on the narrow, hazard-filled course Tuesday and only a few of the 80 or so members of their gallery abandoned them when word came that Jack Nicklaus of the United States had started his practice round.

Rodriguez and Jimenez traded banter between themselves and with spectators as they visited the practice tee before setting out for a quick nine holes.

"Watch this one go out of the park," the 130-pound Rodriguez said as he took aim at a 50-foot fence at the far side of the practice tee. "See if you can match it," he told Jimenez.

The ball did clear the fence, as did three of Jimenez' drives.

"A drawer fell on my right foot," said the young Puerto Rican making his third World Cup appearance. "It's cut at the root of the toe and bruised on the arch."

As FSU displayed perhaps the nation's most advanced passing techniques before a regional television audience, Hammond boosted his total offense mark for the season to 1,580 yards, 102 up on Sal Olivias of New Mexico State.

The modest Hammond, a senior, takes little credit for himself and gives much to his teacher, Coach Bill Peterson.

"Mechanically, I think I could improve," he said. "I've had better games."

"A lot of it is the coaching. Peterson is the best coach in college football with the pro passing attack."

"And our line has been steadily improving. I had excellent protection."

Robertson and Harding: Players Among Missing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cincinnati didn't have Oscar Robertson and missed him. Chicago didn't have Reggie Harding and didn't.

The Royals were whipped by Boston 113-103 in a National Basketball Association game Tuesday night and the lack of the injured Big O was critical.

The Bulls were beaten, too, 111-106 by St. Louis, about as close as the have-not Bulls have been to their second victory this season.

Harding, the big Chicago center, was suspended for failing to rejoin the club after leaving it when his mother died in Detroit.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia downed San Diego 130-105 and San Francisco whipped Seattle 126-112.

Sam Jones led the Celtics to victory over the Royals, scoring 10 straight points in the third quarter, the only points he scored in the game. John Havlicek was Boston's high scorer with 23 points while Adrian Smith had 27 for Cincinnati.

The Hawks, 12-1 on the season as opposed to the Bulls' 1-10 mark, almost blew the game after having a 17-point lead in the second period. Chicago tied the game with a minute to go, but consecutive baskets by Paul Silas and Joe Caldwell iced the verdict.

Wilt Chamberlain got 19 points, his high for the season, six of them sparking a 12-point Philadelphia spurt in the second quarter against San Diego. Hal Greer was high for the 76ers with 30. Dave Gambee got 20 for San Diego.

The victory put Philadelphia back on top in the Eastern Division by a half game over Boston.

San Francisco surged in the second half, scoring 33 points in each of the last two periods after Seattle had trailed by only one point at halftime. Fred Hetzel paced the Warriors with 25 points while Bob Weiss topped the Supersonics with 20.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana whipped Pittsburgh 100-83 and Dallas defeated Oakland 118-112.

Huarte Signs With Eagles, Is Placed on Taxi Squad

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It's

been three years since John Huarte knew the glory of being a great quarterback at the mecca of college football, Notre Dame.

Huarte recalled it well Tuesday as he signed with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. He was assigned to the Eagles' taxi squad, a little group whose members are called upon in the event of injury to a regular.

Huarte was everybody's choice in 1964 as the Heisman Trophy winner, symbolic of college football's standout player. The Eagles drafted him sixth.

The New York Jets of the then struggling American Football League selected him second.

The Jets also picked a No. 1 that year by the name of Joe Namath. They reportedly gave Namath a $400,000 package, and Huarte a $200,000 deal. Huarte wound up on the Jets' taxi squad with Namath and Mike Taliaferro kept as quarterbacks.

After one season, the sidearm thrower from South Bend was traded to the Boston Patriots where he became a seldom used substitute. This year he decided to play out his option with Boston, so he could become a free agent in 1967.

Asked why he invoked the option clause, Huarte said, "I just wanted to play."

Boston didn't wait for the option to expire. The Patriots let Huarte go last month. Now, the 23-year-old passer has rejoined the coach who first recruited him for Notre Dame, Joe Kuharich.

Now general manager and coach of the Eagles, Kuharich told Huarte there was no guarantee he would play with the Eagles as long as Norm Snead and King Hill are healthy.

Philadelphia's taxi squad is made up of players who are not on the active roster but who can be called upon in the event of injury to a regular.

"We'll take him to camp next year," Kuharich said. "We think this boy is as well qualified as any boy (quarterback) in college this year. But we have no plans of playing him now."

"We just want him to work with the taxi squad and get a little acclimated to our style."

Bobby Winning Battle of Dobbs

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual passing war between brothers Bobby and Glenn Dobbs is in full swing with Bobby winning the latest battle in the college football offensive statistical rankings.

The University of Texas at El Paso, coached by Bobby, replaced Tulsa, coached by Glenn, as the passing leader this week with an average of 330.8 yards a game through the air. National Collegiate Sports Service statistics showed today.

The battle between the brothers has been going on since Bobby left Tulsa for UTEP three years ago and Glenn replaced him. Discounting the first two warmup weeks of each season since 1965, Tulsa and UTEP have ranked 2 or 2-1 nationally in passing 16 times in 21 weeks.

Tulsa also gave up its month-long lead in total offense to UTEP, 436.0 yards a game to 429.8.

Texas Tech climbed from fourth to take the rushing lead with 269.4 yards a game on the ground, ahead of East Carolina's 251.3. Tech rolled up 359 yards rushing in a 24-10 victory over Rice.

In scoring, it was again UTEP and Tulsa, 43.2 points a game to 35.2, the same places they held last week.

Army, Utah Battle Promises Excitement

WEST POINT—When Army

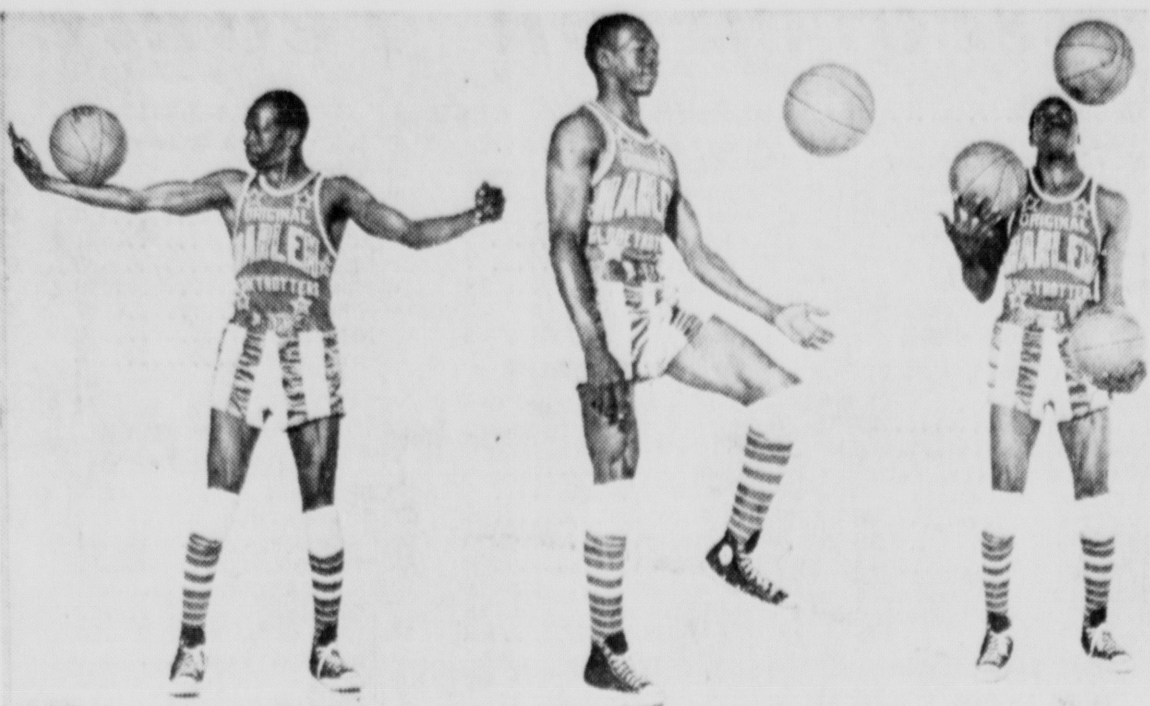

and Utah get together for football, excitement is guaranteed. That's the gridiron promise for Army football fans in the final home game of the season this Saturday at Michie Stadium.

A sell-out crowd, the fourth at home this fall, is assured as the Cadets stake their 6-1 record against the Utes who are seeking to boost their mark to 4-4.

Twice before the two have met in a November game in Michie Stadium. Lee Grosscup matched his passing magic against the running power of all-America Bob Anderson of Army in 1957, and Army won the ding-dong affair, 39-33.

In 1963, quarterback Rollie Stichewent went for the two-point conversion in the final quarter to give the Cadets an 8-7 win. That's how close the games have been.

Basketball Buffoonery by Globetrotters, Leon Hillard

Rate Trotters' Hillard With Finest Dribblers

Showboat Hall is the top rated comedian-basketball magician with the famed Harlem Globetrotters who are scheduled to play in Kingston on Friday, Nov. 24 in the benefit game for the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County.

But not far behind Hill in the theatrical department, and mechanically a greater ball player, is the Trotters' player-coach Leon Hillard.

Hillard is one of the greatest show dribblers the sports has ever known, ranking with the immortal Goose Tatum and Marquis Haynes of earlier Globetrotter glories.

Still a comparatively young man in his prime as a player, Hillard has been told by the team owners he can play as long as he wants to before devoting full time to the coaching end.

"I love playing," is his re-

Reserved Ticket Assures a Seat

All persons who purchase reserved seats for the Harlem Globetrotters contest are guaranteed a seat, it was announced today.

Tickets may be purchased at the following locations in the Kingston area:

Gov. Clinton Hotel, Uptown Freeman, YMCA, United Pharmacy, Sears Roebuck, Wallace's, Montgomery Ward and Ulster Community College.

Out-of-town locations: Saugerties, Flower Garden; New Paltz, State of N.Y. National Bank; Rhinebeck, Beckman Arms; Ellenville, Sinick's Stationery.

Leon came to the Globetrotters from a spectacular career at McKinley High School in Chicago, where the Trotters also are quartered. He made it big from the start, as a speedy all-around cager, as the team's show dribbler par excellence, as a master ball handler and one of the finest comedians ever to grace the Globetrotters' scene.

Hillard, Showboat Hall and other members of this world famous sports troupe will battle the New York Nationals in the YMCA contest. The Trotters also will stage their spectacular halftime vaudeville revue.

A preliminary involving the Ulster County Community College Senators will be announced.

Meanwhile, early ticket reservations are advised for what promises to be a complete sell-out.

KHS Harriers Set For State Meet

Seven members of the Kingston High Section 9 championship and seven other runners will represent Class A in the intersectional cross country meet Saturday at the Elma Meadows Golf course, just outside Buffalo. The race will be contested over a 2.4 mile course.

John Gilligan, who coached the local school to the DUSO and Section 9 titles, will coach the Section 9 squad. Kingston runners competing will be Gary Boice, Gene Ballou, Bill Brinnier, Gary Flowers, Wayne Sickler, Jim Gilpatrick and John Salzman. Also making the trip upstate will be alternate Ed Freer and manager Paul Markes.

Other Section 9 schools competing will be Suffern (Class B) and Highland Falls (Class C).

Houston Back Player of Week

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston fullback Paul Gipson gave the Cougar offensive line credit today for his being named Associated Press College Back of the Week.

The 206-pound junior's performance last Saturday in the Cougars' 15-14 defeat of fifth ranked Georgia earned him the honor.

He ground out 229 yards on 29 carries, scored on a 25-yard run and raced around end for the winning two-point conversion.

He also added a 13-yard gain and Georgia defensive halfback Terry Sellers was left groggy after tackling the bruising fullback. On the next play Houston quarterback Dick Woodall hit split end Ken Herbert with a 57-yard scoring pass. Both Houston and Georgia players felt Sellers' slightly dazed condition was a big factor in Hebert's catch of the pass.

Those guys up front did a great job all night," Gipson said of the offensive line. "Even after we muffed a couple of drives, scoring chances, they kept opening up holes—they never gave up."

"I wanted to be the one to try for the two points after our second touchdown," Gipson added. "I didn't want to let the offensive line down after the way it had blocked for me."

Shooters Score Perfect "100s"

George Keesler of Peekskill and Don MacFadden of Sands Point tied with a perfect 100x100 performances in the Grouse Shooters Open at Mohonk Valley Gun Club.

Janet Fochi led the women with 90x100 in the women's 12-gauge division. Runnerup was nine-year-old Mark Gannett of Sloatsburg with 74-100.

Cleveland Pads Margin in AHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Barons, already threatening to make a runaway of the race in the Western Division of the American Hockey League, have given the other teams further food for thought.

Howie Glover scored a three-goal hat trick for the Barons Tuesday night as they beat Baltimore 6-3 to make their season's record 9-2.

Glover scored all his goals within one minute and 36 seconds in the final period. The first game at 7:17, the second at 7:47 and the last at 8:53.

In other games, Quebec beat Rochester 8-3 and Buffalo lost to Vancouver of the Western League 6-4.

Doug Senior, Jim Paterson and Norm Ferguson scored the other Cleveland goals. Bob Rivard, Sandy McGregor and Willie Marshall tallied for the Clippers.

Five different players scored in the first two periods for the Aces and Bob Courcy added a pair in the final frame. Courcy's goals came within a minute of each other.

Vancouver broke a winless 10-game streak by beating Buffalo. A goal by Larry Popen at 1:12 of the second period broke a 2-2 tie and put Vancouver ahead to stay. Terry Clancy, Guy Trotter, Gerry Oulette and Bill Knibbs got the Bison goals.

HAMILTON, N. Y. (AP) — Sophomore Al Pearman has been switched from wingback to tailback in an effort to give Colgate University's football team more speed in its game Saturday against Bucknell here. Coach Hal Lahar announced the change Tuesday.

Hawks End Season

Brockport Decisions State U. Booters, 6-0

BROCKPORT—1

All-America Don Prozik scored twice and Brockport State defeated the visiting Hawks of New Paltz, 6-0, in a SUNYAC soccer finale Tuesday at the upstate field.

Coach Bob Durkin's team finished with a 5-6 record in his first year as head coach. However, the Hawk coach loses only co-captains Bob Mountz and Bob Spadoni, Don Commerford, Pasquale Pap-peals, Richie Farrell and Bill Roche through graduation. The others will return.

Other scorers for Brockport were Ron Leszyk, Jim Smith, Tom Bingham and Mike Greco, the former Rhinebeck ace.

The game was played on a rain soaked field which hampered the play of both sides.

Rate Trotters' Hillard With Finest Dribblers

Showboat Hall is the top rated comedian-basketball magician with the famed Harlem Globetrotters who are scheduled to play in Kingston on Friday, Nov. 24 in the benefit game for the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County.

But not far behind Hall in the theatrical department, and mechanically a greater ball player, is the Trotters' player-coach Leon Hillard.

Hillard is one of the greatest show dribblers the sports has ever known, ranking with the immortal Goose Tatum and Marcus Haynes of earlier Globetrotter glories.

Still a comparatively young man in his prime as a player, Hillard has been told by the team owners he can play as long as he wants to before devoting full time to the coaching end.

"I love playing," is his re-

Reserved Ticket Assures a Seat

All persons who purchase reserved seats for the Harlem Globetrotters contest are guaranteed a seat, it was announced today.

Tickets may be purchased at the following locations in the Kingston area:

Gov. Clinton Hotel, Uptown Freeman, YMCA, United Pharmacy, Sears Roebuck, Wallace's, Montgomery Ward and Ulster Community College.

Out-of-town locations: Saugerties, Flower Garden; New Paltz, State of N.Y. National Bank; Rhinebeck, Breckman Arms; Ellenville, Sinick's Stationery.

sponse, "and I'll keep going for sometime yet."

Leon came to the Globetrotters from a spectacular career at McKinley High School in Chicago, where the Trotters also are quartered. He made it big from the start, as a speedy all-around cager, as the team's show dribbler par excellence, as a master ball handler and one of the finest comedians ever to grace the Globetrotters' scene.

Hillard, Showboat Hall and other members of this world famous sports troupe will battle the New York Nationals in the YMCA contest. The Trotters also will stage their spectacular halftime vaudeville revue.

A preliminary involving the Ulster County Community College Senators will be announced.

Meanwhile, early ticket reservations are advised for what promises to be a complete sell out.

KHS Harriers Set For State Meet

Seven members of the Kingston High Section 9 championship and seven other runners will represent Class A in the intersectional cross country meet Saturday at the Elma Meadows Golf course, just outside Buffalo. The race will be contested over a 2.4 mile course.

John Gilligan, who coached the local school to the DUSO and Section 9 titles, will coach the Section 9 squad. Kingston runners competing will be Gary Boice, Gene Ballou, Bill Brinnier, Gary Flowers, Wayne Sickler, Jim Gilpatrick and John Salzman. Also making the trip upstate will be alternate Ed Freer and manager Paul Markes.

Other Section 9 schools competing will be Suffern (Class B) and Highland Falls (Class C).

Houston Back Player of Week

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston fullback Paul Gipson gave the Cougar offensive line credit today for his being named Associated Press College Back of the Week.

The 206-pound junior's performance last Saturday in the Cougars' 15-14 defeat of fifth-ranked Georgia earned him the honor.

He ground out 229 yards on 29 carries, scored on a 25-yard run and raced around end for the winning two-point conversion.

He also added a 13-yard gain and Georgia defensive halfback Terry Sellers was left groggy after tackling the bruising fullback. On the next play Houston quarterback Dick Woodall hit split end Ken Herbert with a 57-yard scoring pass. Both Houston and Georgia players felt Sellers' slightly dazed condition was a big factor in Hebert's catch of the pass.

"Those guys up front did a great job all night," Gipson said of the offensive line. "Even after we muffed a couple of scoring chances, they kept opening up holes—they never gave up."

"I wanted to be the one to try for the two points after our second touchdown," Gipson added. "I didn't want to let the offensive line down after the way it had blocked for me."

George Keesler of Peekskill and Don MacFadden of Sands Point tied with a perfect 100x100 performances in the Grouse Shooters Open at Mohonk Valley Gun Club.

Janet Fochi led the women with 90x100 in the women's 12-gauge division. Runner up was nine-year-old Mark Gannett of Sloatsburg with 74-100.

Cleveland Pads Margin in AHL

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Barons, already threatening to make a runaway of the race in the Western Division of the American Hockey League, have given the other teams further food for thought.

Howie Glover scored a three-goal hat trick for the Barons Tuesday night as they beat Baltimore 6-3 to make their season's record 9-2.

Glover scored all his goals within one minute and 36 seconds in the final period. The first game at 7:17, the second at 7:47 and the last at 8:53.

In other games, Quebec beat Rochester 8-3 and Buffalo lost to Vancouver of the Western League 6-4.

Doug Senior, Jim Paterson and Norm Ferguson scored the other Cleveland goals. Bob Rivard, Sandy McGregor and Willie Marshall tallied for the Clippers.

Five different players scored in the first two periods for the Aces and Bob Courcy added a pair in the final frame. Courcy's goals came within a minute of each other.

Vancouver broke a winless 10-game streak by beating Buffalo. A goal by Larry Popein at 1:12 of the second period broke a 2-2 tie and put Vancouver ahead to stay. Terry Clancy, Guy Trotter, Gerry Oulette and Bill Knibbs got the Bison goals.

School dropouts are becoming less of a national problem, judging from Department of Labor statistics. An increasing need for better-educated workers to keep pace with the effect of rapid technological change on industry is credited with shrinking the proportion of dropouts in the nation's young adult population. In October of 1960, there were 5.2 million dropouts in the 16-24 age group totaling 20.6 million. Six years later, there were 4.8 million dropouts in the now much-larger group, 26.4 million.

Voting Paradox

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—

A state law resulted in rejection Tuesday of a proposal that would have established an elected county executive for Broome County, although the question drew a plurality of affirmative votes.

The contradiction came about when voters in the city of Binghamton approved the county executive proposal, 10,246 to 6,635, but voters in the towns in Broome County turned it down, 21,355 against to 18,021. The Egyptians say "Syrian corn."

Corn, America's great food gift to the world, goes by many names. The Dutch, Hungarians and French sometimes call corn "Turkish wheat." The Turks call it "Egyptian corn" and the Egyptians say "Syrian corn."

Dear Abby

Silence of Theft a Crime

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y.)
DEAR ABBY: I am going to write this quickly and mail it, so I won't have a chance to reconsider and close my eyes to a wrong.

My son recently told me about some youngsters in our neighborhood who steal bikes, remove parts, rebuild and sell both rebuilt bikes and extra parts. I asked him how these youngsters managed to get away with it without their parents knowing about it, and he says the kids tell their parents that the bike belongs to another boy, and they bought the spare parts with their allowances.

I am appalled at the whole thing. I can't expect my boy to reveal the names of these boys, and my husband would think it unseemly if I were to bring this to the attention of the authorities.
You are the only way I have of warning parents who unknowingly may be allowing their children to continue this practice.
I do not condone my own child's acceptance of this behavior, and have asked him to avoid this group of friends until they

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: A boy who is old enough to "rebuild" a bike, is old enough to know he is breaking the law. While your son may not be guilty of stealing, he is guilty of another "crime." (Knowing of theft and keeping quiet.) I do not approve of friends informing on one another, but a real "friend" would do all in his power to set his companions straight.
I hope the parents of the guilty boys see this, and check out the stories their sons tell about "buying" spare parts, and repairing another boy's bike. And if they discover that their sons have stolen bikes, they should insist they are returned to their rightful owners. Otherwise they should report their own sons to the authorities. Stealing is stealing. And the successful petty thief goes on to bigger things.

When playing the Landy convention, what do you do when your partner asks you to bid a major suit and you don't have one?

You aren't happy and you may be in trouble, but you should pass his two club bid only with something like seven clubs and singletons in both majors. If you have three cards in one major, just bid it and hope for the best; otherwise bid two diamonds, two no-trump or three clubs.

Two diamonds says, "You got us in trouble. Get yourself out into the best spot." Two no-trump says, "I have a good hand with nothing in the majors. I am willing to play here or in either minor if you have three cards there." Three clubs says, "I have a good hand with three cards in each major."

Today's hand shows the Landy Convention misused. South should simply pass one no-trump. If everyone passed, East would be set at least two tricks. As it was, South had to struggle at three spades.

He won the diamond lead in dummy, took a spade finesse and played his king of hearts. East was in with the ace and cashed his king of clubs. Then he led a second diamond. South won in dummy, cashed his ace of spades and led out hearts. It didn't matter what East did with his king of trumps. All he could make was a total of four tricks.

What was wrong with South's use of Landy? Simply that he was sticking out his neck a mile. The Landy convention is meant to be used when you have at least five cards in each major and occasionally with 5-4 in the back in seat where it is a trifle safer to get into action. When you bid right in back of a no-trump, you may find your partner with a bust.

Why We Say--

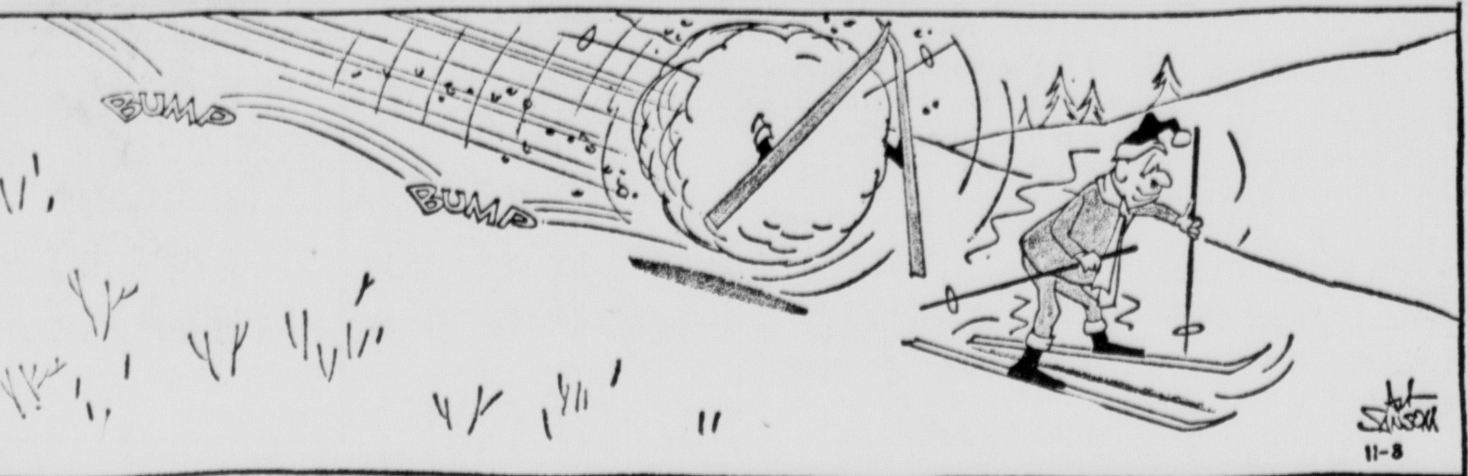

END OF THE LINE: Many people have guessed how this popular expression began, but few have hit upon the real explanation. The "bitter end" comes from two small fixtures on the decks of ships which are called bitts. When a boat is at anchor, a cable is stretched and at the end of the cable are bitts . . . so naturally when a ship goes to the extreme limit of its anchor cable, it is at the "bitter end."

Dear Abby

Silence of Theft a Crime

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am going to write this quickly and mail it, so I won't have a chance to reconsider and close my eyes to a wrong.

My son recently told me about some youngsters in our neighborhood who steal bikes, remove parts, rebuild and sell both rebuilt bikes and extra parts. I asked him how these youngsters managed to get away with it without their parents knowing about it, and he says the kids tell their parents that the bike belongs to another boy, and they bought the spare parts with their allowances. I am appalled at the whole thing. I can't expect the whole to reveal the names of these boys, and my husband would think it unseemly if I were to bring this to the attention of the authorities.

You are the only way I have of warning parents who unknowingly may be allowing their children to continue this practice. I do not condone my own child's acceptance of this behavior and have asked him to avoid this group of friends until they too, become aware of their unacceptable behavior and stop it.

DEAR CONCERNED: A boy who is old enough to "rebuild" a bike, is old enough to know he is breaking the law. While your son may not be guilty of stealing, he is guilty of another "crime." (Knowing of thievery and keeping quiet.) I do not approve of friends informing on one another, but a real "friend" would do all in his power to set his companions straight.

I hope the parents of the guilty boys see this, and check out the stories their sons tell about "buying" spare parts, and repairing another boy's bike. And if they discover that their sons have stolen bikes, they should insist they are returned to their rightful owners. Otherwise they should report their own sons to the authorities. Stealing is stealing. And the successful petty thief goes on to bigger things.

Networks Excel on Election

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The three television networks provided smooth and adequate coverage of election returns Tuesday night without going overboard with electronic gadgetry or engaging in a contest of computer efficiency.

Pleasant Evening

The New York flagships stations of the networks, whose operation was undoubtedly typical of their stations and affiliates all over the country, zoomed in on the local contest, but also kept viewers informed of races elsewhere—especially Boston, Cleveland and Gary—of special national interest. The local news programs in the late evening on all network stations concentrated, of course, on the elections.

It was, generally, a rather pleasant viewing evening for people awaiting the word on the elections.

Miss Gale, a cute blonde, is an excellent dancer, and was interesting to watch since she has become the trademark of the exuberant Miss Heatherton. She did very well.

CBS's second and final program on "Where We Stand in Vietnam" concentrated on the Vietnamese and their problems. Charles Collingwood's commentary, calm and clear, was especially noteworthy. He spoke of the lack of training of the army, of the general weariness of its fighting men.

Bride—Something's worrying you, darling. Please tell me what. You know, your worries are our worries now.

Groom—Well, some girl in Toledo is suing us for breach of promise.

To improve the golden moment of opportunity and catch the good that is within our reach is a great art of life.

He who laughs last doesn't catch on very quick.

St. Peter—Now, Sir, how did you get here?

New Arrival—Flu.

ed its programming a couple of times during the evening to present some brief returns on races of particular interest. All news departments occasionally ran headlines across the screen without breaking into programs.

GOP Wins Control of County Board 28 to 5; City Elects 6 Republicans

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Republicans will control the first County Legislature in the history of Ulster County when it replaces the old Board of Supervisors according to unofficial, incomplete returns recorded after Tuesday's election.

Incomplete figures indicate that the Legislature will comprise 28 Republican members and five Democrats, with the city's representatives comprising six GOP members and two Democrats.

Duties Split

The 33 legislators will create and pass laws and proposals relative to the county at large, while supervisors elected yesterday will head the local government in the townships.

Eighty-two candidates representing the Republican, Democratic, Conservative and Liberal parties waged spirited campaigns seeking election to fill the 33 seats on the new county governing body.

Unofficial returns show that two Democrats and two Republicans were elected in the Town of Saugerties. Kingston voters elected two Democrats, and one Democrat was elected in the Seventh Legislative District.

ADDISON JONES

According to incomplete figures the breakdown is as follows:

First District 2 Democrats, 2 Republicans; Second District five Republicans; Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth Districts (City of Kingston) 6 Republicans, 2 Democrats; Seventh District 2 Republicans, 1 Democrat; Eighth District 2 Republicans; Ninth District 5 Republicans; Tenth District 3 Republicans; Eleventh District 2 Republicans; Twelfth District 1 Republican.

Elected to the County Legislature (according to unofficial tallies of the results) were:

Second District (Town of Hurley, Kingston, Marlborough, Ulster): Douglas V. Dye (R-C); Lester C. Elmendorf (R-C); Frank L. Miller, Robert S. Kel-

ROGER W. MABIE

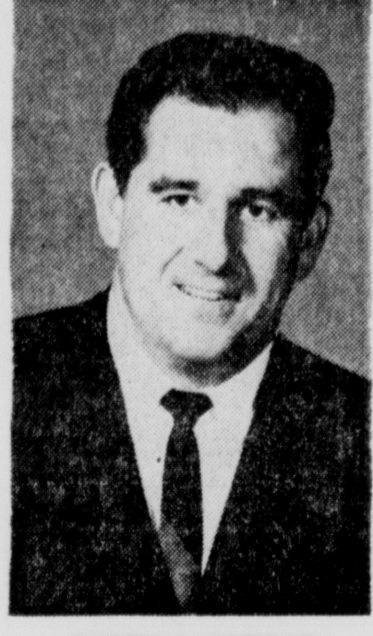

Mones, Addison Jones, John C. Sangaline, Wendell Scherer, Republicans; Orrie R. Riehl and William F. Edelmuth (D-L). The eighth post was in doubt as results were checked.

Seventh Legislative District (Towns of Esopus and Rosendale): E. Stirling Potter (R-Cons.) Irving P. Maurer (R-Cons.) and Roger W. Mabie (D).

Savago Wins

Peter J. Savago (R) incumbent chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and Robert L. Harp, Republican who had the endorsement of the Conservative party, were elected legislators in the Eighth District which comprises the Town of New Paltz and Gardiner.

Five Republican candidates were victorious in the Ninth Legislative District, which includes the Towns of Shawangunk, Plattkill, Lloyd and Marlboro. They were Eugene O. Corey, Eugene K. Noe, Joseph Martorana and Frederick Pizzuto, Republicans and Brian R. White, Republican who had the endorsement of the Conservative Party.

PETER J. SAVAGO

lative District, which encompasses the Town of Wawarsing, elected the three Republican candidates. They were Lawrence D. Craft, former county clerk; Frank Muller and Robert H. Kuhlmann.

Philip H. Davis and Ernest J. Gardner, Republicans, were elected legislators in the Eleventh District, which comprises the Towns of Denning, Hardenbergh, Olive, Rochester and Shandaken. Davis had the endorsement of the Conservative party.

Incumbent supervisor in the Town of Woodstock, William R. West, (R) was elected as legislator in the Twelfth District, which comprises that township. West was endorsed by the Conservatives.

Poughkeepsie Council Democratic

Mitchell Retains Mayoralty

Richard W. Mitchell retained his seat in the mayor's office in Poughkeepsie over Louis O. Fiore by a scant 375 votes in one of the hardest fought elections in the Queen City of the Hudson in recent memory.

Mitchell, the Republican-Liberal polled 6,027 votes to his Democratic-Conservative opponent's 5,652. The city council, however, went to the Democrats, 5-4. Fiore held his own throughout the city but was beaten in Poughkeepsie's Eighth Ward by 1,132 votes.

Board GOP 29-8

Although the Democrats did well in Poughkeepsie as far as the overall city government went, they were beaten badly in the Board of Representatives. Six posts in Poughkeepsie went to Republicans to add to an overwhelming majority of the county board of 29-8, Republican.

The leader of that board will be David C. Schoentag, former chairman of the old Dutchess County Board of Supervisors, who polled 26,820 to defeat Robert Foughy, who drew 19,998 votes.

In northern Dutchess County, five Republicans were elected. District Five, which comprised Hook and Rhinebeck, elected William S. Moore and Kenneth Stewart. Moore also had the Conservative Party endorsement. Moore polled an even 3,000 votes while Stewart had 2,264. Democrats running in the six-man race included Ellinor T. Closs (1,570 votes) John Gilfeather (1,434 votes) and Fred J. Dahl, the Liberal who polled 121 votes.

In District Three, which comprises the Town of Hyde Park and the Town of Clinton, William Bartles, William Reynolds and Charles Talleur, all Republicans, got the voters' nod. Bartles polled 3,848 to lead the ticket; Reynolds had 3,828 and Talleur had 3,441. Democrats who ran in a losing cause were Donald McDonald, with 2,521 votes, Beatrice Fredriksen with 2,388 votes and John Kuhn with 2,457 votes.

Simmons, Ruge Cop

In the Town of Red Hook, Warren Simmons won handily over his Democratic opponent. Simmons, running on the Republican-Conservative ticket, polled 1,487 votes to Walter G.

Bayer's 857 votes. Bayer ran under the Democratic banner.

Otto Ruge retained his seat as supervisor in Rhinebeck, polling 1,328 votes to his Democratic opponent Edward Gumiony's 750 votes. Fred Dahl, the Liberal candidate, polled 118 votes.

Hyde Park's new supervisor will be Clayton Clearwater, who beat Arthur Marx, a former Dutchess County treasurer, 3,136-2,027. Clearwater had perhaps the briefest campaign, if any, of any of the candidates. He was thrown into the race for supervisor after a court ruling barred William Bartles from running for both supervisor and county representative. Bartles, the former Hyde Park supervisor, chose the county position and Clearwater was picked to run only seven days before elections.

Clearwater was a councilman in Hyde Park.

The results in Dutchess County were similar to those in Ulster where Democrats won big in the city (Poughkeepsie and Kingston) but were swamped out in the county. Mitchell, the mayor reelect in Poughkeepsie, slipped through with 375 votes even though he had the endorsement of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

GOP Wins Control of County Board 28 to 5; City Elects 6 Republicans

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Republicans will control the first County Legislature in the history of Ulster County when it replaces the old Board of Supervisors according to unofficial, incomplete returns recorded after Tuesday's election.

Incomplete figures indicate that the Legislature will comprise 28 Republican members and five Democrats, with the city's representatives comprising six GOP members and two Democrats.

Duties Split

The 33 legislators will create and pass laws and proposals relative to the county at large, while supervisors elected yesterday will head the local government in the townships.

Eighty-two candidates representing the Republican, Democratic, Conservative and Liberal parties waged spirited campaigns seeking election to fill the 33 seats on the new county governing body.

Unofficial returns show that two Democrats and two Republicans were elected in the Town of Saugerties. Kingston voters elected two Democrats, and one Democrat was elected in the Seventh Legislative District.

ADDISON JONES

According to incomplete figures the breakdown is as follows:

First District 2 Democrats, 2 Republicans; Second District five Republicans; Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth Districts (City of Kingston) 6 Republicans, 2 Democrats; Seventh District 2 Republicans, 1 Democrat; Eighth District 2 Republicans; Ninth District 3 Republicans; Tenth District 2 Republicans; Twelfth District 1 Republican.

Elected to the County Legislature (according to unofficial tallies of the results) were:

Second District (Town of Hurley, Kingston, Marlborough, Ulster): Douglas V. Dye (R-C); Lester C. Elmendorf (R-C); Frank L. Miller, Robert S. Keller Sr., and Richard D. Nace,

ROGER W. MABIE

Republicans. Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth District (City of Kingston): Clarence Raichle, Melvin Mones, Addison Jones, John C.

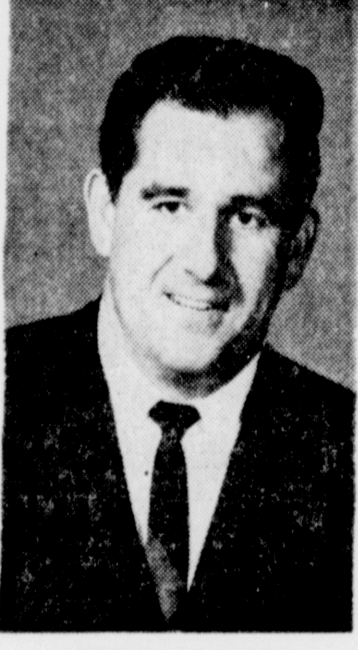

Sangaline, Wendell Scherer, Republicans; Orrie R. Riehl and William F. Edelmuth (D-L). The eighth post was in doubt as results were checked. Seventh Legislative District (Towns of Esopus and Rosendale): E. Stirling Potter (R-Cons.), Irving P. Maurer (R-Cons.) and Roger W. Mabie (D).

Savago Wins

Peter J. Savago (R) incumbent chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and Robert L. Harp, Republican who had the endorsement of the Conservative party, were elected legislators in the Eighth District which comprises the Town of New Paltz and Gardiner.

Five Republican candidates were victorious in the Ninth Legislative District, which includes the Towns of Shawangunk, Plattkill, Lloyd and Marlboro.) They were Eugene O. Corey, Eugene K. Noe, Joseph Martorana and Frederick Pizzuto, Republicans and Brian R. White, Republican who had the endorsement of the Conservative Party.

Voters in the Tenth Legis-

PETER J. SAVAGO

lative District, which encompasses the Town of Wawarsing, elected the three Republican candidates. They were Lawrence D. Craft, former county clerk; Frank Muller and Robert H. Kuhlmann.

Philip H. Davis and Ernest J. Gardner, Republicans, were elected legislators in the Eleventh District, which comprises the Towns of Denning, Hardenbergh, Olive, Rochester and Shandaken. Davis had the endorsement of the Conservative party.

Incumbent supervisor in the Town of Woodstock, William R. West, (R) was elected as legislator in the Twelfth District, which comprises that township. West was endorsed by the Conservatives.

Poughkeepsie Council Democratic

Mitchell Retains Mayoralty

Richard W. Mitchell retained his seat in the mayor's office in Poughkeepsie over Louis O. Fiore by a scant 375 votes in one of the hardest fought elections in the Queen City of the Hudson in recent memory.

Mitchell, the Republican Liberal polled 6,027 votes to his Democratic-Conservative opponent's 5,652. The city council, however, went to the Democrats, 5-4. Fiore held his own throughout the city but was beaten in Poughkeepsie's Eighth Ward by 1,132 votes.

Board GOP 29-8

Although the Democrats did well in Poughkeepsie as far as the overall city government went, they were beaten badly in the Board of Representatives. Six posts in Poughkeepsie went to Republicans to add to an overwhelming majority of the county board of 29-8, Republican.

The leader of that board will be David C. Schoenag, former chairman of the old Dutchess County Board of Supervisors, who polled 26,820 to defeat Robert Foughy, who drew 19,998 votes.

In northern Dutchess County, five Republicans were elected. District Five, which comprised Hook and Rhinebeck, elected William S. Moore and Kenneth Stewart. Moore also had he Conservative Party endorsement. Moore polled an even 3,100 votes while Stewart had 2,264. Democrats running in the six-man race included Elinor T. Closs (1,570 votes) John Gilfeather (1,434 votes) and Fred J. Dahl, the Liberal who polled 121 votes.

In District Three, which comprises the Town of Hyde Park and the Town of Clinton, William Bartles, William Reynolds and Charles Tallent, all Republicans, got the voters' nod. Bartles polled 3,848 to lead the ticket; Reynolds had 3,828 and Tallent had 3,441. Democrats who ran in a losing cause were Donald McDonald, with 2,521 votes, Beatrice Fredrickson with 2,388 votes and John Kuhn with 2,457 votes.

Simmons, Ruge Cop

In the Town of Red Hook, Warren Simmons won handily over his Democratic opponent, Simmons, running on the Republican-Conservative ticket, polled 1,487 votes to Walter G.

Bayer's 857 votes. Bayer ran under the Democratic banner.

Otto Ruge retained his seat as supervisor in Rhinebeck, polling 1,328 votes to his Democratic opponent Edward Gumenny's 750 votes. Fred Dahl, the Liberal candidate, polled 118 votes.

Hyde Park's new supervisor will be Clayton Clearwater, who beat Arthur Marx, a former Dutchess County treasurer, 3,136-2,027. Clearwater

Clearwater was a councilman in Hyde Park.

The results in Dutchess County were similar to those in Ulster where Democrats won big in the city (Poughkeepsie and Kingston) but were swamped out in the county. Mitchell, the mayor reelected in Poughkeepsie, slipped through with 375 votes even though he had the endorsement of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Q. What to you is the most important feature of Smith Parish work?

A. "Service! When I called Mr. Burns and Mr. Parish up, the same day they had a fleet of men down here to take care of my roof, . . . and if it couldn't be taken care of the same day, they made sure they had someone here first thing in the morning to finish it up."
